THRONGS CHEER RITCHIE BLASTS AT PROHIBITION

County Democrats Hit High Gear.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Hard times and prohibition, high taxes and Len Small's record were the chief themes hammered upon by the Democrats yesterday in opening their real drive in Cook county. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, Mayor A. J. Cermak and Thomas J. Courtney, candidate for state's attorney, were headliners in a day and night of campaign oratory.

The "three horsemen" spoke last night at a massmeeting that filled Guyon's Paradise ballroom on the west side, while overflow crowds listened to the amplifiers on the streets outside. Estimates were that between 14,000 and 16,000 persons turned out. Later the three speakers appeared on the south side at Calumet High school—again meeting a packed auditorium and crowds on the outside listening to the amplifiers.

Cheers Greet Speakers.

Cheering greeted Gov. Ritchie's declaration that the Republican 'straddle plank" on liquor offers "no hope" for getting rid of national prohibition, and the onslaughts of Mayor Cermak and Mr. Courtney. At noon 2,500 party battlers attended a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman, at which the drive started. Last night, in addition to the two big rallies, the Democrats held smaller meetings in twenty-two wards.

Prohibition as an underlying issue which weaves into the issues of high cost of government, high taxes, unemployment and depression was emphasized by Gov. Ritchie and Mayor Cermak in their speeches, night and day.

The Marylander, who was one of the candidates for the presidential nomination at the Democratic national convention in June, denounced the "straddle plank" of the Republicans as a "sham and a fraud, dry to the drys and wet to the wets." Prohibition, he said, is costing the government more than a billion dollars a year.

Cermak Rips Into Small.

Mayor Cermak ripped into Len Small, Republican candidate for governor.

"Len Small," he said, "was indicted and tried for trying to get away with more than a million from the state treasury.

"When Small was acquitted six jurors were put on the pay roll. The sheriff was made warden of the penitentiary. The Supreme court finally decided Small owed $1,300,000 to the taxpayers. He finally compromised through a friendly attorney general for $650,000, and collected it from the state payrollers to make good."

One of the greatest myths of the age, Cermak held, was the Republican campaign cry: "Back to prosperity with Small."

"You've heard that," said Cermak, "and audiences have also heard Small speak of himself as a great farmer, with a wonderful farm with 80 head of Holstein cattle. But on the assessor's books his herd is only 30 head worth $900, and he tells the assessor, 'All on my farm is worth only $1,680.'"

"Spendthrift and Clown."

"His backer, a former mayor, also went before the Supreme court. More than two million dollars of public funds was missing, but nobody could say he got it, so he fared better than Len. These two men, a spendthrift and a clown, have brought to Chicago and Illinois nothing but contempt and disgrace."

Mr. Courtney likewise smote Small's record.

"As a state senator," said Courtney, "I had opportunity to study Mr. Small at close range during his last two years as governor. Well do I remember his affiliation with the dry leaders of that time.

"Well do I remember Small's constant and persistent efforts to saddle increased taxes on our people, and well do I remember his infamous quo warranto or immunity bill. But never do I recall any act on his part to economize in the cost of government or to diminish the tax load."

Gov. Ritchie's Speeches.

Gov. Ritchie in his addresses said there are two issues outstanding: Hard times and prohibition.

"The Republican plank on prohibition," he said, "is a piece of hypocrisy and deception. President Hoover can run on it in one direction; Vice President Curtis, who says he is a dry, can run on it in another direction.

"The Republican plank offers no hope for ousting prohibition from the

Halts Dumping of "Sweated Goods."

Riot in London

London jobless mobs clash with police in fierce hand to hand fighting for several hours. Rioters stone bobbies, smash windows and loot stores as hundreds of foot and mounted police attack them. Story on page 8.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Great Britain has broken off commercial relations with soviet Russia and has abrogated her trade pact with Moscow in accordance with the imperial economic policy drawn up this summer at Ottawa. This startling announcement was made today to the reassembled house of commons by Secretary for Dominions J. H. Thomas.

J. H. THOMAS. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

He informed the house that it was necessary to renounce the commercial pact with Russia under article 21 of the tariff agreement reached at Ottawa. This pact was signed in April, 1930, and gave Russia most favored nation treatment.

[Great Britain and Canada in article 21 agree to prohibit the imports of any foreign country in which the state control of industries and commodity prices resulted in dumping abroad to the detriment of the new preferential tariff agreement for the British empire.]

Gives Six Months' Notice.

The dominions secretary further explained that Britain had notified the Russian chargé d'affaires that the government had taken advantage of the six months' abrogation notice in the accord. He added that the government had informed Moscow that it still was eager to increase its trade with Russia.

"Discussions to this end will be started at the earliest possible moment," Thomas said.

He said that the Russians had asked to enter negotiations for a new commercial treaty which would not interfere with the British empire's internal arrangements.

It was recalled that Canada and Australia brought up the Russian trade question at the Ottawa conference, insisting that Britain adopt effective means to prevent the dumping of Russian wheat.

Cheer Thomas' Words.

The members of parliament cheered when the dominions secretary said:

"Having undertaken an obligation to give preferences within the British commonwealth, the government must take all steps necessary to the end that no country shall frustrate this obligation by dumping sweated goods in Great Britain."

The immediate practical effect of the renunciation of the trade treaty will be to deprive British consumers of large quantities of low priced lumber, fish, and grain.

Previously Thomas revealed the details of the breakdown of the British negotiations with President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State.

He told the house that De Valera had contended that the only permanent solution of the controversy would be the creation of a united Irish republic.

Irish Present Counter Claims.

Thomas said that De Valera and his associates submitted claims dating back to the act of union (1801) alleging that Ireland had been overtaxed millions of dollars. Thomas also declared the Irish refused to recognize the agreements made by Ireland in 1923 and 1926.

Another claim was also filed, he said, for an unspecified loss to Ireland when Britain went off the gold standard last year. The dominions secretary said it was obvious that the Free State delegates had no intention of admitting either the validity or justice of agreements made by the previous Irish government.

The Anglo-Irish dispute had its inception in annuities claimed by England for land turned over to Irish farmers. De Valera refused to turn over these annuities and a tariff war resulted.

The house tonight began its debate

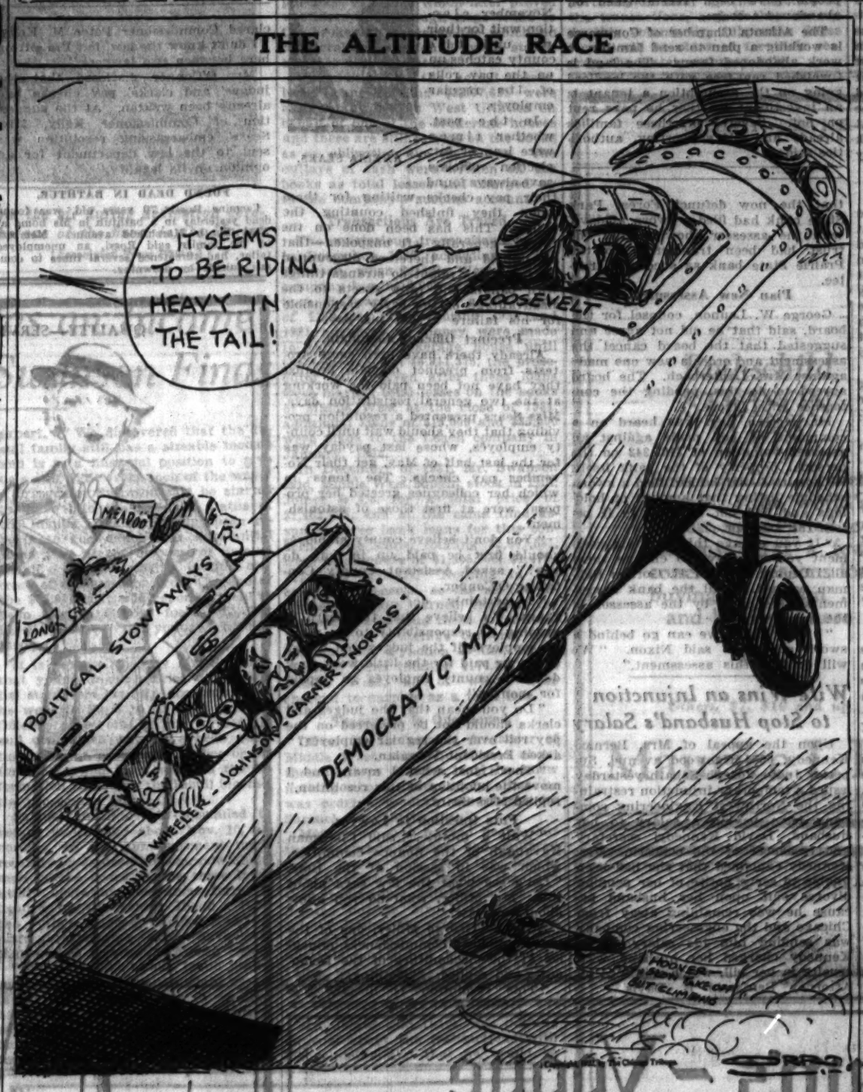
THE ALTITUDE RACE



Parents of 4 Brides Tell of Death Threats

Rudolph Diez, 31 years old, 4420 North Ashland avenue, was found guilty yesterday by a jury in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward on four counts of sending extortion letters through the mail. The letters threatened death to four society brides.

The trial was the first in Chicago under the new federal statute, passed shortly after the Lindbergh kidnaping, making it a felony to send a threatening letter through the mails.

Case Completed in One Day.

The case was completed with the characteristic speed of the federal courts. A jury was chosen yesterday morning, the evidence presented and the verdict returned before the end of the court day.

Deliberating little more than an hour, the jury returned the guilty finding and recommended clemency for the defendant because he had no previous police record. The recommendation was ordered stricken by Judge Woodward, who pointed out that a jury in the federal court may decide only on guilt or innocence. Judge Woodward announced that he would pass sentence tomorrow morning. Diez faces a possible maximum punishment of 20 years' imprisonment and a $5,000 fine on each of the four counts in the indictments.

Four Get Death Threats.

The death threats were directed at the former Misses Sophie Harrington, 232 East Walton place; Ann Asheraft, 1144 Asbury avenue, Evanston; Mary Miller, 642 Spruce street, Winnetka, and Florence Noyes, 1242 Lake Shore drive, all socially prominent and of wealthy families.

Edwin M. Asheraft Jr., prominent attorney; Mrs. Sophie Harrington, wife of George B. Harrington, president of the Chicago-Willingston-Franklin Coal company; Mrs. Mary Miller, wife of William S. Miller, vice president of the Northern Trust company, and Ernest High Noyes, wealthy official of the Aluminum Company of America, took the stand yesterday. They identified the threatening letters, identical in phrasing, and testified that their daughters had married since the extortion notes were received.

Parents Identify Notes.

Only a few minutes was required for the testimony of the parents of the threatened brides. Assistant United States District Attorney Thomas Dodd Healy called them to the stand rapidly and merely asked them to identify the letters sent to them and to testify that they were received in the regular manner through the United States mail.

Policeman A. E. Fielding of Evanston told of the capture of Diez on Sept. 9, when he appeared to claim a decoy package placed in the service doorway of an apartment building at 4427 North Ashland avenue, as directed in the note to Attorney Ashcraft.

With Edgar J. Allen, the Ashcraft chauffeur, riding in the Ashcraft car, the witness testified he went to the apartment house and planted the package while other policemen secreted themselves in the apartment areaway.

Diez appeared at 2 a. m., the witness said, and entered the doorway to get the package. Police seized him as he picked it up, Fielding said, and seized a pepper shaker, the contents of which Diez attempted to throw in their eyes.

MOVE TO FORCE $200,000,000 TAX COLLECTION

County Acts After Court Decision.

The county board finance committee acted yesterday to bury the $200,000,000 Cook county tax strike which public officials declare received a death blow Monday when the United States Supreme court refused to review the Bistor tax case.

In view of the court's ruling, which invalidated the grounds set up by the objectors in the Bistor case, the committee instructed Hayden Bell, county tax attorney, to go into the County court immediately and seek tax judgments against all properties whose owners made objections on like grounds. As soon as judgments are obtained tax sales of the property are to be started. The finance committee's order will be formaly ratified at the county board meeting today.

Mr. Bell has already declared that the objections set up in the Bistor case are substantially the same as those in 99 per cent of all the tax objection cases now pending in the County court. Thus, while the Bistor decision affects directly only 2,500 objecting taxpayers, it sets up a principle of law on which judgments may be sought on virtually all of the $200,000,000 in delinquent taxes in the county.

Other Objections Pending.

There are still a number of tax objection suits awaiting final decision in the higher courts, notably the Cleary case, in which an appeal has been made to the United States Supreme court, and the Koester mandamus and injunction suits, now pending before the Illinois Supreme court. These latter cases, attacking the 1930 tax levy, were brought by the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, which tried unsuccessfully in the Bistor case to invalidate the 1928 and 1929 levies.

The actual properties involved in these cases, however, are small as compared with the total number of objections on file in the County court. Most of these objectors never brought their cases to trial. They were classified by County Judge Jarecki according to the grounds on which the complaints were based, and kept on file pending decision by the higher courts on certain key cases involving the same grounds, such as the Bistor case.

Bases of Complaints.

Mr. Bell's declaration that the Bistor decision opens the way to seek judgments against 99 per cent of the protesting taxpayers is based on the fact that 99 per cent of the objections, as classified by Judge Jarecki, rest principally on the contention that real estate owners were discriminated against and forced to bear an unfair proportion of the tax load by the failure to place billions of dollars' worth of personal property on the assessment rolls.

The Illinois Supreme court held in the Bistor case, based on this contention, that discrimination between different classes of property (i.e., real estate and personal property) is a political question and not a legal one, and that while a property owner may seek legal redress for discrimination within the same class of property, he must look to political action to correct grievances arising out of failure to assess different classes of property equitably.

The refusal of the United States Supreme court to review the finding of the state Supreme court killed the Bistor case and with it, Mr. Bell and the county commissioners believe, the validity of virtually all of the objections against collection of taxes.

Seeks More Bank Loans.

The Bistor ruling was also the grounds for action taken by city officials yesterday looking toward making up the back pay days of public employes. City Controller Szymczak sought to convince loop bankers that the decision was a signal for the end of tax strikes and grounds for further extension of credit to the city, while Mayor Cermak, commenting upon the ruling, renewed his demand for legal action against associations conducting the tax strike.

"The banks agree that our securities are good," said Controller Szymczak after the conference, "but they say also that the percentage of tax collections must be increased."

See Reduced Delinquencies.

Approximately 51 per cent of the 1930 taxes which became delinquent on June 1, have been paid to date. The city's representatives in the con-

Reynolds Kin May Drop Case Against Libby

Winston-Salem, N. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Relatives of Smith Reynolds, young tobacco heir who was fatally shot here last summer, today disclosed their willingness for the authorities to drop murder charges against his widow, Libby Holman Reynolds, former Broadway torch singer, and Albert [Ab] Walker, his 19 year old chum.

Attorneys for W. N. Reynolds, uncle and co-guardian of the 20 year old tragedy victim, made public a letter written by him to Solicitor Carlisle Higgins, in which he said the members of the family, including Smith's sister and brother, realize "that the evidence fails to prove conclusively that Smith was murdered."

"Happy" to Drop Case.

After recognizing that dismissal of the charges is a course to be decided on or rejected solely by the solicitor, the letter said:

"In fact, I think that, under the circumstances, all of us would be quite happy if it should be your decision to drop the case."

The law firm, Manley, Hendren & Womble, at the same time, issued a statement saying it had advised Mr. Reynolds, after an investigation, "we have been unable to discover evidence which in our opinion would justify us in advising the family to join in the prosecution of the indictment, and we have so informed members of the family."

Reached at West Jefferson, where he is conducting a term of court, Solicitor Higgins said he would "take plenty of time" in considering the Reynolds letter.

Will Consider Request.

The Reynolds letter contained the first public statement from any member of the family, except R. J. Reynolds Jr., only brother of Smith.

Shortly after his arrival in Winston-Salem from the west coast of Africa, where he was cruising when notified of his brother's death, young Reynolds, generally called Dick, said in an interview he was of the opinion his brother was murdered.

The 26 year old widow and young Walker had been indicted for murder Aug. 4, by the Forsyth county grand jury before Dick returned to the United States. They were then and are now free under $25,000 bond each.

When told of the Reynolds letter, Benet Pollkoff, of Mrs. Reynolds local counsel, said he was not surprised, but indicated informally it was possible his client would prefer to stand trial. He has repeatedly asserted Mrs. Reynolds is eager to seek vindication.

W. N. Reynolds' letter again reiterated the family conviction that Smith was not of the mental temperament that would commit suicide.

"Knowing Smith as I did, and realizing the many fine traits of character that he had, I am convinced that his attitude toward life was such that he would never have intentionally killed himself," he wrote.

"RIDE" VICTIM'S BODY FOUND IN WEST SIDE STREET

The body of a youth who apparently had been taken for a ride and shot to death was found early this morning on the pavement in front of 2658 Flournoy street. The victim had been shot several times in the back and the head. Marquette police believed his body had been flung from a passing automobile. The dead youth was identified as Samuel Dalaly, 19 years old, 633 South Paulina street. The identification was made by the victim's father, Chris Dalaly. He said he knew of no motive for the killing. The police said young Dalaly had once been arrested as an automobile thief. The body was found by Louis Patello, a shipping clerk for the Ward Baking company, who was on his way to work.

A Lady Once Fooled Can't Be Too Careful

Last Saturday Mrs. Anna Sommers, wealthy real estate owner and operator of the Streeterville apartment hotel at 195 East Chestnut street, received a telephone call concerning a three year old swindle.

"This is Sergt. Thomas Alcock of the detective bureau," said the caller. "We have a photograph from New York of a man named Brown who is wanted for fleecing you out of $12,000 in 1929. New York police are ready to arrest him, but it's necessary for you to identify the picture. We'll be over to see you early in the week."

Mrs. Sommers was skeptical of the "Sergt. Alcock," so she went to the Chicago avenue station and consulted Desk Sergeant John Quinn. "Probably just another con man," suggested Quinn. "If he and his pals visit you telephone us."

The Two Visitors Arrive.

Yesterday two well dressed men called on Mrs. Sommers, introduced themselves as Sergt. Alcock and Lieut. John McGinnis of the confidence detail and showed her a picture of Brown.

"It looks like the man who fleeced me," admitted Mrs. Sommers.

"Fine," replied the two strangers. "It'll cost you just $150 to get a warrant, have him arrested and brought to Chicago."

Mrs. Sommers made a prearranged signal and a short time later four uniformed policemen from the Chicago avenue station entered the room.

Not Con Men, After All.

"Where are the con men?" they demanded. Mrs. Sommers indicated the two men, who arose, grinning. "We're not con men," they asserted. They weren't. They were actually Sergt. Thomas Alcock and Lieut. John McGinnis. The four policemen went away, and everybody was satisfied.

It was explained that the $150 asked by the detectives was to cover the cost of extradition of the suspect, which in prosecuting fraud cases of this type must be borne by the complainant.

ference, who included Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee, Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [40th], City Treasurer Kearns, Assessor Jacobs and Attorney Bell, pointed out that the judgment proceedings ordered yesterday should reduce the delinquencies by a large percentage.

It was their belief, Mr. Szymczak said, that 1931 collections, starting Jan. 1, will proceed at a faster rate than did the 1930 collections, in view of the Bistor decision.

As he entered his conference with the bankers, Controller Szymzak announced that the receipts of $600,000 in 1930 tax collections from the county treasurer had made it possible yesterday to call in for payment $543,000 worth of 1930 corporate fund tax warrants. These are the last warrants of that issue in the hands of the public.

Means More Pay Roll Cash.

Their redemption makes it possible to pay future delinquent 1930 tax receipts into the corporate fund to aid in meeting back city pay rolls. This will be the first time in more than a year that the city has been able to use any large sum of tax collections for pay rolls instead of for retirement of tax warrants. Technically, the money will be used to retire tax warrants held in the city's aggregate of funds, but actually the payments will but pay roll cash in the city coffers.

The city's ability to retire the portion of its 1930 tax warrant debt held by the public is also expected to improve its chances of selling 1932 warrants to the banks, the issue over which Controller Szymczak negotiated yesterday. The city has now retired $25,525,277 worth of 1930 corporate fund warrants.

Mayor Assails Strikers.

In his attack upon the tax strikers Mayor Cermak charged that landlords who have continued to collect rent from their tenants and at the same time have prevented, through court objections, collection of part of that rent by local governments in the form of taxes, are guilty of what amounts in a moral sense to embezzlement.

Mayor Cermak also reiterated his opposition to any compromise with delinquent taxpayers, by which part of their bills would be wiped off the tax books.

"There is a total of $200,000,000 in tax money for 1928, 1929 and 1930 involved in tax suits," said Mayor Cermak. "If these suing taxpayers were allowed a 25 per cent reduction, that would mean a cut of $50,000,000 in the delinquent bills. And if the lawyers and taxpayers' associations are working on an agreement that they are to get a third of the saving won in court, such a compromise would put over $16,000,000 in their pockets.

A Loss for Taxpayers.

"This money already has been spent and it only means that the loss would be saddled on the taxpayers who have already paid for those years. The only way to make up the $50,000,000 would be to issue bonds. If they could be sold it would be necessary to spread an additional assessment over the entire city for their redemption.

"There is no way in which the city can shut off the water or stop police or fire protection of tax dodgers' buildings, because the tenants in those buildings have paid the rent.

"Every renter in Chicago, whether he occupies a barn loft, a damp basement or a gold coast apartment, has paid his real estate taxes—paid them to his landlord. Taxes are figured in the rent. By what right, then, does anybody who has collected these taxes from his tenants withhold them from the government for whose purposes they were paid? To me it resembles embezzlement.

"Some of the tax objectors now in the County court have collected rents and paid no taxes as far back as 1926. Most of them are demanding reductions for 1928, 1929, and 1930. Their rentals in those years were based on the tax rates for the same years. They forced their tenants to pay and now work injury on those same tenants by holding out on the local governments—crippling them, intensifying distress and harming the community generally.

Wants an Investigation.

"I still feel that a thorough investigation should be made of these taxpayers' associations. Every court ruling has been against them and still they are on the radio, soliciting more members. If anything happens—if local government breaks down in Chicago—it can be charged to them. If people don't pay their federal taxes, the federal government steps in in a hurry, but here, with all our law enforcing agencies, they are allowed to run wild."

FIRE RAZES GRAIN ELEVATOR.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 18.—(Special.)—The grain elevator at the Sunnyside mill was destroyed by fire last night. The loss is estimated at $35,000. Approximately 30,000 bushels of wheat were destroyed.

OFFICIALS SEEK MEANS TO SOLVE TAX COMPLAINTS

Assessors Find Obstacles in Country Towns.

Assessor J. L. Jacobs, County Attorney Hayden N. Bell, and Fred W. Brummel and George F. Nixon, members of the board of tax appeals, will meet today to work out methods of procedure made necessary by difficulties which arose during the three days of hearings on complaints made against the 1931 personalty assessments by country town residents. The board members will suspend their hearings during the day.

One of the questions to be thrashed out with the assessor and county attorney developed yesterday when Miss Ella A. Noone, 1124 South Austin boulevard, Oak Park, protested against a $500 valuation. She asserted that on April 1, 1931, the day determined by the law as that upon which the 1931 assessment is based, she lived at 1171 South Gunderson avenue, Oak Park, and had no personal property at all.

Admits She Owned Stock.

When questioned by the board she admitted that she had owned eight shares of American Telephone and Telegraph company common stock on that day. She had not scheduled it in her sworn statement of property presented to the board of appeals. She said, however, that she does not own the stock today and that she does not feel it would be fair to force her to pay a tax on it.

"I don't see that there's anything to do but to assess you full value for the stock and add a 50 per cent penalty," said Brummel.

"Well, just wait a moment," Nixon advised his colleague. "Now I understand that George O. Fairweather sent out an opinion to a lot of big stockholders that they should schedule only 20 per cent of the full value of their stock with the assessor. To that amount the equalization factor is applied to obtain the assessment. I don't see why this poor woman should have to pay more than the big fellows."

Set Valuation at $171.

Nixon calculated the value of Miss Noone's stock, which stood at 180 on the New York Stock Exchange on April, 1, 1931, and the reviewers then informed her that her assessed valuation would be $171, with a penalty of $76 added, or a total of $257.

Another question developed when William J. McGah, president of the Prairie State bank, 1 Madison street, Oak Park, protested against the $5,000 valuation on a $19,300 trust fund belonging to Mrs. Wilhelmina C. Lauterbach, 844 Elgin avenue, Forest Park. The bank is trustee of the fund and McGah produced the original trust agreement showing that the trust was formed on March 1, 1932. Thus, he argued, it is not assessable for 1931 taxes.

Oscar Altman, deputy assessor in charge of bank assessments, who had made the assessment, told the board that the now defunct Forest Park State bank had filed a sworn affidavit with the assessor showing that the trust had been transferred to the Prairie State bank as successor trustee.

Plan New Assessment.

George W. Lennon, counsel for the board, said that he did not agree and suggested that the board cancel the assessment and order a new one made against Mrs. Lauterbach. The board agreed to do this, pending the conference with Jacobs.

Mr. McGah then was heard on a complaint he had made against an assessed valuation of $105,242 on the personal property of the bank itself. He admitted that he had filed a sworn schedule listing that amount of holdings and had not objected to it before the assessor.

"If you change this bank's assessment you will have to change them all," Deputy Assessor H. Gordon Boilman warned. "All the bank assessments were made by the assessor in the same way."

"I don't think we can go behind a sworn schedule," said Nixon. "We will confirm this assessment."

DESTITUTE IN SOUTH GO BACK TO CABINS FOR FOOD AND FUEL

Atlanta, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Hundreds of families that left farm furrows to the weeds and flocked to tenements in southern towns are going back to their cabins where dirt and labor will produce food and fuel that city streets denied them.

Reports from virtually every southern state tell of a restless urge of folks who were born to the plow to get away from the hustle of the cities and go back to the country where a porch is a gallery, a living room a parlor and where woods will give them 'possums and soil will furnish sweet potatoes.

J. M. Huston, manager of the real estate department of the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis, said at a meeting in Little Rock that the greatest "back to the farm movement" in history of that section is in progress.

Georgia has an organized back-to-the-farm movement and hundreds of people have been reestablished on abandoned acreage.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce is working a plan to send families to work abandoned farms. The land is furnished rent-free with the landlord going on the assumption a tenant is an investment whether he pays rent or not. Several of these families already are self supporting, authorities said.

MOVE TO DELAY POLL CLERKS' PAY UPSETS BOARD

County Officials Sidetrack Miss Sears' Motion.

County Commissioner Amelia Sears, who was a social service worker before her election, threw consternation into the hearts of her politically minded fellow Democrats on the county board yesterday when she suggested that judges and clerks in the November election wait for their pay until the county catches up on the pay rolls of its regular employés.

AMELIA SEARS.

In the past, whether times were lean or fat, election officials have always found their pay checks waiting for them when they finished counting the ballots. This has been done on the theory—generally left unspoken—that an unpaid and therefore disgruntled election clerk might do strange things with ballots and tally sheets to the disadvantage of the party responsible for his failure to get his pay.

Precinct Officials Complain.

Already there have been some protests from precinct officials because they have not been paid for working at the two general registration days. Miss Sears presented a resolution providing that they should wait until county employés, whose last payday was for the last half of May, get their November pay checks. The tones in which her colleagues greeted her proposal were at first those of astonishment.

"You don't believe county employés should first be paid up in full, do you?" asked Assistant County Controller O'Connor.

"I certainly do," replied Miss Sears. "I believe that the board is evading its responsibility to its regular employés if the judges and clerks are to be paid for the little work they do while county employés go unpaid for months."

"Do you mean that the judges and clerks should not be preferred on the pay roll over the regular employés?" asked President Whealan.

"That's just what I mean, and I move the adoption of this resolution," replied Miss Sears.

Puts Question to Lawyer.

"Wait a minute," said Chairman Kavanagh of the finance committee, which was in session at the time. "Let's see what the law says about this. Mr. Miller, what do you know about this law?"

Attorney George Miller, one of the two Republican commissioners, chuckled at the discomfiture of the Democrats and replied: "Nothing."

"This resolution is illegal," declared Commissioner Peter M. Kelly. "I don't know the law, but I'm sitting here between two lawyers."

Mr. O'Connor disclosed that the judges' and clerks' pay checks had already been written. At the suggestion of Commissioner Kelly, Miss Sears' embarrassing resolution was sent to the law department for an opinion on its legality.

Wife Wins an Injunction to Stop Husband's Salary

Upon the appeal of Mrs. Bernice Kennedy, 6364 Kenwood avenue, Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday issued a temporary injunction restraining the Northwest Engineering company from paying a salary to her husband, David Kennedy, secretary and treasurer of the concern. Mrs. Kennedy explained that she had been unable to serve notice of her pending divorce suit upon her husband because he was remaining away from Chicago and the engineering company was sending him his salary. Mrs. Kennedy charged her husband with cruelty in her bill, which was filed by Attorney Benjamin B. Davis.

SEVERAL MOUNTAIN STATES FEEL WINTER STING; HEAVY FOG

Denver, Colo., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, Montana, Nebraska and Wyoming felt the sting of winter today. The southern portion of Wyoming was shrouded in a fog that crippled air transportation. Snow and freezing temperatures were general in Wyoming. The first snow of the season fell at Santa Fe, N. M., and there was a snow flurry in Denver.

There were nine inches of snow at Sheridan and Lander and a heavy fall in the Yellowstone region. More than a foot of snow covered the Big Horn range near Sheridan.

In west and central Nebraska rain turned to snow.

REESE SLAYING CLEW SOUGHT IN WIRE TAP PLOT

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Lake county said last night that he was investigating a theory that Carl H. Reese, 5118 Stony Island avenue, bookmaker who was shot to death on a highway near Libertyville last Wednesday, may have been slain because of a wire tapping plot directed at Waukegan bookmakers.

It was suggested to the state's attorney by an anonymous informant that Reese was in the plot and may have double crossed his friends with the result that he was killed for revenge.

So far the authorities have made little progress toward a solution of the mystery of the Reese killing. Louis L. Howell, who was with the victim when the slaying occurred, has told several conflicting stories, but has continued to maintain his innocence of any complicity in the crime.

John Jones, 7258 Cornell avenue, and Herbert O. Crippen, 920 Dakin street, who were once associated with Reese and Howell in a specialty manufacturing business, were taken to Waukegan for questioning yesterday, but were released last evening. Both said there had been enmity between Howell and Reese.

Report Precinct Worker Named for Poll Fraud

Ulrich Vogt, 60 years old, 1137 West Adams street, was reported named in a true bill voted by the grand jury yesterday. The state's attorney's office charges that he committed subornation of perjury in persuading a 20 year old youth to register for the coming election. Vogt, a teaming contractor, is a Democratic worker in the Fiftieth precinct of the Twenty-Seventh ward.

GREECE OPENS WAY FOR LEGAL FIGHT ON INSULL

Rushes Ratification of Extradition Pact.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 18.—The drama of Samuel Insull's flight to Greece appeared to be nearing a climax today. Instruments of ratification of the Greco-American extradition treaty, on the exchange of which hangs legal procedure to apprehend Insull and return him to Chicago to stand trial on charges of larceny and embezzlement in connection with the collapse of the Insull utilities empire, will reach Washington within ten days or a fortnight.

At that time the 72 year old ex-magnate, through his legal artillery here, will make a final stand in his struggle with the United States against returning to stand trial. It is not believed now that Insull will attempt to change his residence from Greece, assuming that it would be possible or that his fight could be better waged on another battle ground.

Papers Sent Five Days Ago.

While the ministry of foreign affairs here tonight refused any statement about the treaty exchanges, THE TRIBUNE correspondent learns positively that signed treaty instruments were dispatched from Greece five days ago to Washington, D. C., where they should arrive towards the end of this month. They were sent through the ordinary diplomatic channels.

The Greek minister in Washington, Charalambos Simopoulos, has been instructed to cable receipt of the treaty, seek an immediate date from the state department for effecting the exchange, and then to cable execution of the exchange.

This step puts a definite and positive construction on the Greek government's legal attitude in the Insull matter and on speculation about the possibility of bringing influence to bear on Greece to delay the ratification.

Insull Sees "Mystery Man."

It appears possible that ratification may be made effective and new extradition demands be issued before Insull's 30 day limit expires, at the end of which time he must seek renewal of the visa on his passport, which he refuses to surrender to American authorities.

Insull this afternoon had a three hour conference with a mysterious and anonymous Greek-American citizen. His interpreter, Peter Vanech, was present, and his attorney, Cristos Ladas, arrived later and was in conference with the others for an hour.

A great deal of attention was paid here today to Insull's report to the police yesterday that he was in danger of kidnaping. One paper suggested that, granted such a thing is feasible, even in view of the fact that Insull is constantly protected by police, probably it would be an attempt to lure him into a fast motorboat and take him to the Dodecanese islands, which belong to Italy and which are an overnight run from here.

Insull Silent Again.

Reports were renewed today that Insull's son, Samuel Jr., is expected to arrive in Athens from Paris soon.

Insull had nothing further to say today on the subject of his statement yesterday or about the mysterious cablegram warning him that he was in danger of kidnaping, although the last phrase of the cablegram said "definite confirmation or otherwise" of the kidnaping plan would be sent him today.

Meanwhile Police Commissioner Kalkanis assigned a new police guard to Insull. Formerly the police kept pretty well out of sight in front of the hotel. Now one agent is posted inside the hotel lobby, keeping a careful watch.

Arthur Page, Insull's young British solicitor and friend of his son, who arrived here a couple of days ago from Paris, was busy about town on an assortment of errands and conferences, but saw little of Insull.

NEW MYSTERY IN PARIS

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 18.—A minor mystery was added to the Insull case when THE TRIBUNE correspondent was supplied by an anonymous informant with what purports to be the text of a telegram sent from here last Thursday by Samuel Insull Jr. to his father in Athens which insinuates that a high official of the state department could be bribed to delay ratification of the extradition treaty between Greece and America.

The alleged telegram was phoned to THE TRIBUNE correspondent by a Frenchman, who declared that he was a bellboy at the Hotel Lincoln, where young Insull is staying, and that the telegram had been given him Thursday to file by an "American guest at the hotel." The mysterious tipster requested that an unspecified amount of money be sent to him under an assumed name to a post box address when the story was verified.

Story Is Doubted.

Preliminary investigation by THE TRIBUNE casts grave doubt whether the telegram, which was unsigned, was ever sent by any one, and the text in any event appears to be a pure fabrication. Young Insull disavowed any knowledge of the telegram or the official mentioned and declared that he felt insulted "to think that any one would believe that I was so dumb as to hand a message like that to a bellboy in a hotel." He pointed out that he always carried his own telegrams to the postoffice and that anyway he never used the address "Insull, Athens," which the telegram in question bore.

THE TRIBUNE correspondent referred the matter to the American embassy and the French Surete Generale (secret police) who are proceeding on the theory that it was an attempt to use the name of a prominent American official in a frameup.

Young Insull Has an Income of $100,000, Swanson Finds

State's Attorney Swanson said yesterday he had learned that Samuel Insull Jr., who assisted his father in his flight from Paris to Athens, has an income of $100,000 a year from four of the corporations which formed the nucleus of the old Insull utility structure.

The prosecutor said he had made the discovery in trying to determine the source of money supplied to the elder Insull since he has been in Europe. Mr. Swanson found that the son, through his income from former Insull companies, is in a position to finance a long legal fight in behalf of his father, who is under indictment on charges of embezzlement and larceny.

$100,000 from Four Companies.

The prosecutor said that Samuel Insull Jr. is still on the pay rolls of four companies, his annual compensation from each being $25,000. The companies are Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, Public Service of Northern Illinois, and Midland United. He is vice chairman of the first three and president of Midland United. He also succeeded his father as chairman of the Indiana Service company early in 1932, but whether he has any income from this source was not learned.

In addition to the income of young Insull his father has pensions totaling $21,000 a year. He gets $6,000 each from Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and Public Service of Illinois, and $3,000 from the Gas Subsidiary corporation.

"The Insulls are far from being poverty stricken," said Auditor John J. Bailey, the prosecutor's financial expert. "We discovered that the Insull family still has a sizeable income and is in a financial position to give us a stiff fight every inch of the way."

Prosecutor Swanson said he started to delve into the financial status of the Insulls after seeing European reports to the effect that substantial sums were at the disposal of Samuel Insull. He was unable to find any trace of transmission from Chicago of the $75,000 that was reported to have been sent to Europe for Insull, but he did discover the younger Insull's income.

It is now believed by Mr. Swanson that young Insull carried a substantial sum from his own accounts when he went to Paris to join his parents. Officials of several of the former Insull companies who have been questioned at the prosecutor's office or before the grand jury, supplied the information regarding the Insull income, the prosecutor said.

Samuel Insull Jr. is scheduled to return to Chicago about Nov. 10, according to an announcement made recently by James Simpson, now chairman of the board of the three large utility operating companies formerly headed by the senior Insull. Both the state's attorney's office and the district attorney's office have said they wished to question young Insull.

"We would like to ask Insull junior some questions about the flight of his father from Paris and as to whether he personally is financing his father," said Prosecutor Swanson. "We would like to know whether he or others furnished the money he took to Paris."

Children's Shoes Worn Out; Town Clerk Gets Warrant

Berwyn's city council last night received a request from City Clerk George Mlady for $310 in city tax warrants to cover part of his past due pay. City employés have drawn no pay since July 15. Mlady explained that his children's shoes were worn out and that he was having difficulty in feeding them. The issuance of the warrants was authorized. The council defeated a proposed 10 p. m. curfew ordinance applying to all persons under the age of 16.

EXPOSE INSULLS' $8,000,000 LOSS IN BROKER LOANS

Deals with 3 La Salle St. Houses Bared.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday disclosed how Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin, lost almost $8,000,000 of Middle West Utilities company money in mysterious transactions with three brokerage houses. The prosecutor said he knew of no reason for the pouring of money into the brokerage companies except a possible desire to dominate not only the utility field but La Salle street as well.

The losses occurred through the purchase of stocks which later proved worthless and through huge loans to the brokerage concerns for which no collateral could be found by the state's attorney's investigators.

In addition to the actual losses, bank loans totaling $2,907,681 were assumed by Middle West Utilities on behalf of one of the brokerage houses and these are still carried on the books as an obligation due the banks. The outlays of cash were written off the books as total losses and charged up to the company's surplus account.

Transactions Are Traced.

The mysterious transactions began in December, 1929, according to Mr. Swanson, when Middle West Utilities company bought 1,000 shares of stock in A. B. Leach & Co. for a total price of $129,750. Then during 1930 and 1931 advances of money were made to this same brokerage house until the total reached $5,911,375, the prosecutor said. Even after these loans were marked total losses on the books of Middle West at the close of 1931, additional loans of $15,000 and $35,000 were made to the Leach company in January, 1932.

In December of 1931, Mr. Swanson said, Middle West bought stock in Hill, Joiner & Co. for a total price of $1,462,538, and at the same time assumed three bank loans for this concern. The loans, totaling $2,907,681, were in amounts of $1,305,956, $1,478,747, and $122,978. Nothing in the company's records, so far as the investigators have learned, explains the purpose of assuming these obligations.

The third brokerage concern, now defunct, was Pynchon & Co., which obtained loans totaling $170,301 from Middle West, all of which were charged to surplus as a total loss.

Treasurer Is Questioned.

Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer of Middle West, when questioned about these outlays of cash, said he knew nothing about them except that he was ordered to draw the checks by Samuel and Martin Insull.

McCormick said he had heard that the brokerage houses had suffered heavy losses and that the Insulls went to their rescue because they had been trading in Insull stocks. It was pointed out to Mr. McCormick by John J. Bailey, the prosecutor's auditing expert, that Insull stocks during this period had not declined in value and persons trading in them were not losing but making money.

Broker Offers to Explain.

Mr. Joiner said there was nothing unusual about the transactions with his company and that he would be glad to explain them if asked to do so by the state's attorney. He refused to discuss the purpose of the Insulls in assuming the bank loans, but said these transactions could be easily and satisfactorily explained.

Mr. Joiner, as well as officials of the other companies, will have an opportunity to clear up the mystery of the transactions, and if they do not do this voluntarily, subpoenas duces tecum will be obtained for their records, the state's attorney said.

MALACHI BERRY'S RAT TRAP CATCHES CATS, DOG, AND A GOOSE

Kinston, N. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The troubles of Malachi Berry—so far as rats killing his chickens are concerned—are over.

Rats threatened to exterminate the flock so Berry set a trap. On successive nights he caught:

A stray dog.
A neighbor's cat.
A goose out after hours.
The neighbor's cat again.

Berry threw the trap in a corner of the barn and the next night rats killed the rest of his chickens.

BRITISH TRUST DENIES IT HOLDS FUNDS FOR INSULL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The offices of the Dragon Investment Trust were located here today in the office of Samuel Insull's solicitors, Slaughter & May, 18 Austin Friars. The Dragon Investment Trust was reported in certain American newspapers yesterday to have been formed by Insull in 1919, with a capital of $250,000, in order to give him a safe place in which to put his money. The shares were said to be all held by trustees and the question was raised whether they were being held secretly for Insull.

James Stern, secretary of Dragon Investment Trust, in an interview today declared:

"Neither Samuel Insull nor any of the Insull family have anything to do with Dragon Trust and never have had. I have been its secretary since its formation and I know. I doubt very much if Insull knows me or the existence of the trust and anybody who says the contrary is a liar. Dragon Trust has nothing to do with any of Insull's property and you can quote me as saying so. I have only seen Insull twice in my life, and if he saw me in the street he wouldn't know me. I doubt if I would know him."

HOW HE HELPS MASSES IS TOLD BY ROOSEVELT

Links N.Y. Republicans to Power Trust.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—In the best fighting form he has yet shown, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today told the citizens of New York what he has done for the "forgotten man" and the "forgotten woman" among them.

The governor cannonaded the Republicans of New York for the most part, but he sent off a shell or two toward the domes of Washington, D. C.

In two speeches, one late today at Rochester and the other tonight at Buffalo, Gov. Roosevelt departed for the moment from the momentous issues of the national campaign and he let go with a show of old fashioned political blasting. He made the "forgotten man" the subject of both extemporaneous addresses.

Mr. Roosevelt's first speech on this second campaign tour, delivered at Rochester, had the governor departing for the minute from the momentous issues of the national campaign, and he loosed a show of old fashioned political blasting.

Social Justice to Masses.

When at Rochester he started to tell of the strides he and his "old friend," Alfred E. Smith, had taken toward bringing social justice to the masses of the state the governor laughed as he told of being pictured as a radical and a communist, and he seemed to glory in the labels. All the reforms which he has advocated, which have brought him his national leadership as a progressive, tumbled in live phrases from his lips, and when he had done he had painted a picture of himself as the champion of the "forgotten man."

It was all intended to further the campaign of the governer's friend, Herbert H. Lehman, the Democratic candidate for governor, and it was largely a blast against the Republican nominee, Col. William J. Donovan, who was ticketed by the governor as a tool of the New York power trust.

At Buffalo Gov. Roosevelt took up the challenge put down by Col. Donovan to explain how the costs of New York state government had risen from $143,000,000 annually at the time of the last Republican régime in 1922 to $274,000,000 this year.

Tells of Budget Increase.

"That's a fair question, if it's fairly and honestly put," the governor said. "The increase is $131,000,000. Well, I'll tell you how it is made up. We've built better prisons; we've eliminated grade crossings through funds raised by bond issues, and the interest on those bonds is $12,000,000 a year. A total of $80,000,000 is spent for state aid, and it is paid directly to counties and cities for educating the children of our state.

"Does the Republican candidate for governor contend we should stop educating our children? Then we spent $8,000,000 a year for old age pensions. Do the Republicans want to stop sheltering the aged of our state?

Pledges $25,000,000 Slash.

"At the end of next week, and yes, it will be before Nov. 8, I am going into a huddle with Lieut. Gov. Lehman and the other officers of the state, and I promise you that we will cut $25,000,000 this year from the total of last year's budget.

The governor added that a Republican legislature had appropriated $14,000,000 more than his departments had sought, but that he had not spent the full amount and would leave unspent between ten and fifteen million dollars.

Gov. Roosevelt also made a plea for support for the $30,000,000 state bond issue to be used, if approved by the voters, in applying relief to the unemployed the coming winter.

But the Roosevelt defense of his work for the under crust of New York state was the colorful part of his speech, and he took for his cue a newspaper heading which he held aloft and read aloud. It said, "Col. Donovan ridicules the forgotten man," and this was a part of the governor's answer to Col. Donovan:

"Who was it that first proposed the system of old age pensions that we have got in this state? Why, it was this old bolshevik that's talking to you.

"I had that in my first annual message to the legislature on Jan. 3, 1929, and the Republican leaders threw up their hands in holy horror and said: 'What's the matter with the poor farm? Why shouldn't we keep the poorhouse, the county poorhouse? It's a very nice adjunct to our political machine in nine counties out of ten in upstate New York. Why have any change of the system? This fellow Roosevelt, he's a communist.'

"And so the legislature heard the voice of the people of this state and they finally did the usual thing, they decided they would appoint a commission. I have a sneaking theory in the back of my head that that appointing of commissions is not only a trick of the Republican leadership in the state of New York, but I have heard of the same practice down in Washington, D. C."

The governor paused to let fresh applause die down and then he told how the Republican legislature finally had passed the necessary legislation and then claimed credit for it.

Refers to Mrs. Longworth.

In dealing with the power question, which has long been a heavy issue in the state, Gov. Roosevelt charged that the Republican leadership in the legislature had tried to sell the people's right of ownership in power along the St. Lawrence river to the power trust. He dealt ironically with H. Edmund Machold, who, as speaker of the assembly, had been charged with being tied up with the power trust.

And then Mr. Roosevelt referred offhandedly to a repudiation of himself voiced recently by Alice Roosevelt Longworth, who declared her intention to vote for President Hoover, and spoke slightingly of her illustrious father's "distant" relationship with the New York governor.

"We Democrats used to say in the old days that Ed Machold was tied up with the power trust while he was in the assembly. Everybody knew it, but they used to stand up and say, 'O, no, no relationship whatsoever; not even a fifth cousin.'"

The audience got the connection and howled afresh, and the governor went on:

Their Favored Candidate.

"But just the minute he got out of the legislature he turns up as one of the principal owners and one of the principal officers of the Niagara Hudson Power company. A strange coincidence.

"And, my friends, I am not making any charges, but I am simply making a simple statement. This other friend of mine, who is now running for the governorship on the Republican ticket (Col. Donovan) as the favored candidate of the same electrical utilities interests that were behind Ed Machold in the old days—he is their intimate associate."

The Democratic presidential nominee of this campaign went into all of the "progressive" legislation which the state had passed under the leadership of Al Smith and himself. He included the workmen's compensation act—"we were called communists, radicals, that time"—and the direct primary law; the factory inspection law, and a law limiting the work week of women and children to 48 hours a week—"that's how radical we were in those days."

Hoover Will Talk to Ohioans on His Journey to Detroit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The White House buzzed with political activity today. President Hoover arranged a tentative rear platform speaking schedule for his week-end trip to Detroit and laid the framework for his political address scheduled Saturday night at that city.

The President is to greet and speak briefly to thousands of citizens on the journey to Detroit. He now plans to make appearances at Charlestown, W. Va., and at Columbus and Toledo, O. Stops also will be made at other points in West Virginia, Ohio, as well as in Michigan.

May Talk at Columbus.

The President may leave the train for a few moments at two or three of the larger stops and ten minute speeches may be delivered at Toledo and Columbus. Attachés of the White House say that the President has developed a liking for rear platform campaigning as a result of his Des Moines and Cleveland trips.

Relief plans, the St. Lawrence waterway, veterans' bonus legislation, and the tariff are a few of the subjects he will discuss at Detroit, renewing his attack on the Roosevelt-Garner ticket.

The President's advisers are urging him to stress the administration's efforts in behalf of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty. Whether the President will have anything to say about the controversy between the New York power authority and the state department over the amount of money which New York state should pay for the power installations on the New York side of the St. Lawrence river has not been disclosed.

Protests to Roosevelt.

Some weeks ago, the power authority wrote a letter to Gov. Roosevelt complaining that the state department was demanding 150 million dollars from New York as its share of the St. Lawrence costs. The authority insisted that figure was far too high.

White House officials said appeals for presidential speeches continued to pour into the White House. No decision has been reached, it was said, as to whether the President will make a campaign tour across the country to California in an attempt to save that state for the Republican ticket.

constitution. The people see the tragic alliance between national prohibition and crime. They see the corruption, the disregard for law and order, the loss to government treasuries of millions of dollars of revenue, and all the other economic and social ills this unhappy experiment has caused.

Era of Gangs and Rackets.

"The gangster, the bootlegger, the racketeer, and the hi-jacker have found in the 'noble experiment' a vast source of illegitimate profit. In most of the great cities of the country the underworld has been organized and crime has been syndicated. There are new types of killings—killings in gang wars or feuds over territorial privileges, killings for hire, killings by prohibition enforcement officers.

"In the lexicon of criminology new words and phrases appear—'take for a ride,' 'muscle in,' and 'rackets.' Congested court dockets contribute to the law's delays. Prisons intended for criminals are overcrowded with inmates who are not criminals. There has been wholesale official corruption and wholesale political corruption.

"Drys Allied With Criminals."

"The bootleggers, racketeers and gangsters are not against prohibition. They profit by the illicit practices which prohibition makes possible. So an amazing spectacle is presented. The drys, who profess that they would do away with the illegal manufacture and sale of liquor, are allied with the criminals who live by it and want to continue it.

"All this bad as it is, is only part of the story. American boys and girls are subjected to temptations and pitfalls never before known. There are more speakeasies than there ever were saloons. Illicit beverages impair health and imperil sight and life.

"The public treasury, national and state, is deprived of long established sources of revenue which the American people, already taxed beyond the limits of patience and endurance, must make up by more and still more taxes.

Cost Is Billion a Year.

"On the basis of the revenue received by the federal government before the 18th amendment was adopted, and considering the annual expense of enforcement, prohibition is costing the federal government well over one billion dollars a year.

"These revenues would go far to render unnecessary many of the nuisance and emergency taxes which the last congress had to impose.

"Bring it home in this way: The federal government charges three cents postage on letters instead of two, and taxes movie tickets, checks, stock transfers and land transfers, automobiles, radios and so on. The government is doing all this largely because it must make up the revenue which it lost because of prohibition. That is what prohibition is costing the taxpayers of the country from the standpoint of the federal government. And this takes no account of the millions of dollars it is costing them in revenues lost to states and local political units.

Points to the Remedy.

"The thing which brought all this about was putting prohibition into the constitution. The remedy is to take it out. President Hoover and his party are pledged not to do that.

"What the country would get under the Republican platform is, not the repeal of the 18th amendment, but a brand new amendment, which, if adopted, would profess to allow the states to deal with the problem as their people wished, but actually this privilege would be so surrounded and hedged in with federal reservations and restrictions that the rights of the states would be nullified and destroyed.

"The Democratic platform pledges the Democratic party to repeal the 18th amendment and to reëstablish the rights of the states to settle this problem for themselves.

"The Democratic platform promises that 'pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the constitution and to provide therefrom a proper and needed revenue.'

"No such suggestion is contained in the Republican platform."

Clayton F. Smith, county recorder, presided at the Hotel Sherman luncheon. Gov. Ritchie is next to take the platform at Cleveland and Detroit.

SOCIALISTS BRAND FORD STATEMENT AS BRAZEN FEUDALISM

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A statement issued by the Ford Motor company to its employés advocating the reëlection of President Hoover was termed "the most brazen instance of industrial feudalism in recent years" by Socialist headquarters tonight.

The committee supporting Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, said in a formal statement:

"The 'cracking down' process which began a week ago with a report that a New York bank had told its employés to 'vote for Hoover—or else,' is continuing and is given new impetus by Ford's cynical statement that, while his company 'does not seek to control any man's vote,' Ford employés are urged to consider seriously the alleged fact that industry and employment depend solely on Hoover's reëlection.

"This is the coercion and terrorism which Socialists have learned to expect and predict from past experience.

CHARLES SCHWAB BACKS HOOVER FOR RE-ELECTION

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Charles M. Schwab, American steel magnate, issued a statement to the press tonight in support of President Hoover.

"My earlier observations about political dissatisfaction in America," Mr. Schwab said, "have been misunderstood in some quarters. Many people want a change because of bad business conditions.

"I believe the best way to better conditions is to reëlect Mr. Hoover. The helpful program which he inaugurated should be carried through under his direction. This is no time to make a change."

STIMSON CARRIES FIGHT TO CAMP OF ROOSEVELT

Raps Garner Budget Record; Stock Speculation.

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson told the National Republican club tonight that Franklin D. Roosevelt by "incredibly reckless misstatement of facts" and the Democratic house by acts of "reckless irresponsibility" had delayed economic recovery.

The secretary of state said Roosevelt had "dealt a blow" at recovery by an attack on President Hoover's economic measures and the Reconstruction corporation in his speech on "The Forgotten Man."

Attacks Garner Budget Tactics.

Turning to the vice presidential candidate on the Democratic ticket Stimson said President Hoover did not have Speaker Garner's "willing support" in balancing the budget. He added that the activities of the house "set back the cause of recovery at the most critical period of last spring."

Roosevelt, Stimson said, "has told us of King James's ferry boats and Alice in Wonderland and Humpty Dumpty, but upon specific questions upon which more than anything else the economic recovery of this nation depends . . . he has said nothing."

Roosevelt has remained silent on the bonus, he said, when "every day of silence was a blow to the credit of his government and the restoration of business."

Asserting the Democratic nominee, as governor of New York, had done nothing to correct speculative abuses which he now criticises, Secretary Stimson said, "The people of this country might well ask of Franklin Roosevelt that before he sought to be 'ruler over many things' he might better show himself 'faithful in a few.'"

Calls Situation Critical.

Stimson said at the outset the nation was facing an election in many ways "more critical and important than any which this country has faced since the civil war."

"A false step from the firm path that has been taken might well throw us back into a morass even deeper than the one out of which we have pulled ourselves," he said. He recited what he said were "outstanding features" of President Hoover's "great program of reconstruction." President Hoover, he continued, called congress into session before the depression became general, "and a year later the tariff was raised upon those agricultural products which were most clearly threatened by oversupplies from broad." In contrast, he said, the Democratic platform "demands a competitive tariff for revenue and separate tariff bargains with separate nations," and "abandons the principle of protection."

Home Markets Great Asset.

"The great economic strength upon which the United States has always depended has been our home markets," Mr. Stimson said. "The Democratic party proposes to destroy them at the very time when that resource is most needed. Congressional tariff revisions always have been notoriously unsettling to business."

Stimson said the "very center" of President Hoover's "reconstruction program" was the Reconstruction corporation, to stop "the terrible financial panic." He continued:

"As soon as that corporation was organized and began its work the beneficent results were immediately visible. . . . At that very critical moment, when the hope of recovery was hanging in the balance, at Albany Mr. Roosevelt made an attack upon this beneficent process which had just begun.

"He made a speech on 'The Forgotten Man,' in which he asserted that the funds which the Reconstruction Finance corporation were distributing were not reaching the small people and the small banks and institutions of the country, but were being put solely at the disposition of the big banks, the railroads, and the big corporations.

Calls Roosevelt Talk False.

"This was a complete misstatement of facts. Coming at the time it did, it was incredibly reckless. Mr. Roosevelt has since in part retracted. . . .

"The facts are that the great majority of the banks which have borrowed from that corporation are located in small towns; some 70 per cent of them in towns of less than 5,000 inhabitants; and more than one-fifth of all the banks in the country have received such loans. . . .

"When we speak of helping banks, whom do we mean? To whom does the help go? It goes to the customers whom the bank serves; to the depositors who intrust to it their savings; to the farmers . . .; to the manufacturers . . .; to the home builders. . . .

"I am glad to say that other Democrats recognized these great truths. Mr. Alfred E. Smith, shortly after Mr. Roosevelt's speech, issued a statement in which . . . he put into vigorous utterance the principles upon which Mr. Hoover had proposed and was carrying through his program.

Attacks Hoover's Rival.

"Mr. Roosevelt at a very critical moment had not only dealt a blow at our recovery but he had shown that he could seek to inflame class prejudices at the very time when other men, regardless of party, were seeking to serve the nation."

Stimson said the last "fundamental feature of Mr. Hoover's program" was his effort to balance the budget and that the "Democratic majority again and again threw themselves behind proposals which would have hopelessly wrecked the budget."

STEAL $40,000 IN CIGARS.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Four bandits broke into a small garage at Highland Park early today, bound a truck driver and his helper who were sleeping there, and while two men stood guard over the victims the other two escaped with a truck loaded with cigars valued at $40,000.

HORNER SHOWS SMALL'S OWN TAXES ARE LOW

"Finest Farm" Valued at Little Over $1,600.

Len Small's personal tax bills were subjected to dissection yesterday by Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, who continued his campaigning in the metropolitan area, speaking at Belvidere, Woodstock, and Crystal Lake.

"The Great Taxer," Judge Horner termed his opponent, and told his audiences how Small "manages to keep his personal tax bills down."

"My opponent," he said, "is telling the people downstate that I do not pay taxes on a $60,000 mansion. He is very righteous in his criticism of that omission which he charges up to me. It is true that I do not pay taxes on a $60,000 mansion, for the simple reason that I do not own such a mansion. My home, as all my friends know, is an apartment, which I rent.

Boast of Fine Farm.

"But since my opponent has seen fit to touch on that subject, permit me to call attention to these facts. My opponent owns a farm at Kankakee, a farm of which he is very proud. His campaign literature stresses the point that it is one of the finest equipped farms in the state.

"One campaign story in particular tells of 80 head of Holstein cows he owns, and points out that the herd gives 200 gallons of milk daily. But what does my opponent tell the tax collector? The herd of 80 cows suddenly and magically becomes a herd of only 30 and the 'fine Holsteins which give 200 gallons per day' mysteriously fall in value to $30 per head. And my opponent's fine farm is valued—for the tax collector—at just a little more $1,600! We can probably deduce from that that my opponent is really in favor of low taxes after all—for himself.

"I am, however, not much interested in Small's tax bills, but rather in those of the people of the state," continued Judge Horner. "Those tax bills must come down," he said, "not a little bit, but greatly."

"Industry and agriculture," said the candidate, "are now struggling under the burden that high government costs produce. I propose to reduce that burden by getting at the cause, cutting out every useless job, every unnecessary bureau, every commission that is not needed. And I promise you that at the same time the people of Illinois will get more enlightened service from their government, for the government will be operated not for the benefit of a few but for the welfare of the many."

Judge Henry Horner's last plea of his addresses was for state unity, and he ripped into those who are making efforts to divide Illinois into two sections—downstate and Cook county.

The Horner headquarters yesterday released an indorsement for the judge given by former Judge Claire C. Edwards of Waukegan, long a Republican leader in Lake county. While on the Circuit bench, where he served sixteen years until his resignation in 1930, former Judge Edwards presided at the trial of Len Small for withholding money due the state as interest on public funds placed in his hands as state treasurer.

Edwards' support was announced in a letter to Judge Horner which read, in part: "Permit me to congratulate you upon the campaign you are conducting for governor of Illinois. From all information at my command, gathered from the press and personal interviews, you are not conducting a 'whispering campaign,' as are your opponents, but are promising the voters in plain, simple, everyday language that if elected governor you will do away with political parasites and tax eaters that infest our state and give the people a businesslike economical administration.

"Illinois has been burdened with eight years of Len Small as governor. His manager, Frank L. Smith, admitted receiving $125,000 from the public utility interests while he, Smith, was chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, whose duty it was to fix utility rates in the state. Len Small, on the one hand, is promising jobs to all who support him. On the other hand, he is pledging an economical administration. He cannot be and he is not sincere in these pledges because they are inconsistent."

Today Judge Horner will speak at Geneva, Elgin, and Aurora.

FATHER COX OUT OF RACE FOR PRESIDENT; BACKS ROOSEVELT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's "shepherd of the poor," the Rev. James R. Cox, withdrew today as the Jobless party's candidate for President and urged his followers to support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic standard bearer.

The militant priest, pastor of old St. Patrick's Catholic church, abandoned the race on the eve of Gov. Roosevelt's appearance at a Democratic political meeting in Pittsburgh tomorrow night.

Swinging his support to Roosevelt, Father Cox assailed President Hoover for what he termed his "failure" to relieve suffering among unemployed in the last two years.

He said "the opportunity to help was presented to Mr. Hoover a thousand times, but never did he lift a hand or raise a voice to relieve the suffering American people.

"Hoover stands for special privilege and has forgotten the 120,000,000 ordinary American citizens.

"Mr. Roosevelt has pledged himself to the protection of the interests of the common man. He has been frank and courageous in advocating the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He has pledged himself definitely to policies which will aid in the economic recovery and the re-creation of work. He has indorsed the principle of large public construction by the federal government in times of depression."

What WINNIE* wants to know

Interested. That's Winnie. Insatiably interested, but clever about it.

From the first day Winnie became a waitress she's been studying the reactions of diners to certain foods and the ways they're cooked. She's learned why most people prefer green peas with lamb chops, how much seasoning they like in tomato juice cocktails, the exact number of minutes required to boil eggs to render them perfectly "soft," "hard," "medium."

Winnie's a Childs waitress now. At last she's found the one restaurant that's as interested as she is about diners' most subtle likes and dislikes. She's convinced that the reason for Childs great popularity is based on Childs knowledge of what foods you like best and your preferences as to cooking and serving.

The most satisfying meal you ever ate awaits you at your nearest Childs restaurant. Drop in next meal-time. Treat yourself to the tastiest food you've had since your last visit home. Cost? About half what you'd expect to pay.

Keeps Age a Secret Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot effect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

THREE SANITARY TRUSTEES TO BE NAMED AT POLLS

Democrats Seek to Insure Future Control.

Election of three trustees of the Chicago sanitary district is holding the attention of the Cook county political managers as much as any contest in the local field with the exception of the battle over the state's attorneyship.

This is true, although a clean sweep of all three places by either Republicans or Democrats would not change the present political control of the board's affairs. Eight of the nine present trustees are Democrats. If the Republicans should capture the three places now at stake the Democrats still would have a majority of five of the nine.

But, politicians say, with a split of five to four, control would be at stake in the next election two years hence and that is something the Democrats hope to prevent and the Republicans hope to bring about. Despite the reforms of the last two years, the board pay rolls still constitute a powerful bit of political machinery.

District a Big Tax Spender.

Little public attention has been attracted to this phase of the campaign up to this time, although the district is one of the large tax spending municipalities and will continue to spend on a large scale for several years in carrying out the demands of the federal government for the establishment of a system of sewage disposal that will permit the reduction to a minimum of the diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

The maintenance and operation of the numerous plants of the district already in existence, including the electric power system based on the Lockport plant, also are highly expensive, and it has been predicted that before the campaign is over the candidates for the three places open will be as closely scrutinized as any of the aspirants to other local offices.

This is particularly true because of the scandals of the Tim Crowe régime, which are still fresh in the minds of the taxpayers.

Point to Record Since 1930.

Because of this situation, the Democratic organization is expected to base the battle for its nominees on the record of the present administration which has been in power since 1930—taking hold a year after the scandal period.

On the other hand, the argument the Republicans are said to be using is that the Crowe régime was largely a Democratic affair and that the Democrats can't be trusted with an overwhelming majority on the board.

The three Democrats renominated are Trustees John J. Touhy, J. L. Friedman, and Ross A. Woodhull. The Republican entrants are A. W. Komarek, Henry Nowak, and Guy Guernsey.

Touhy is the only Democrat who has served a full term of six years, having been elected in 1926. He previously had served several terms in the city council as alderman of the 27th ward and received successive indorsements from the Municipal Voters' league on his record. He was acquitted early in the Crowe scandal trials.

Trustee Friedman was elected to a vacancy in 1930, when he was sponsored by Thomas P. Keane, veteran Democratic ward leader who recently gave up a seat in the state legislature to become a member of the city council. Friedman is a furrier. His record on the board is said to be one of consistently supporting the reform program under President Thomas J. Bowler.

Woodhull Former Alderman.

Trustee Woodhull won public recognition through his activity as a member of the city council, particularly during his service as chairman of the finance committee. Immediately upon his election to a vacancy on the sanitary district board in 1930 his election to the presidency was urged but the organization heads preferred Bowler. Woodhull gave way and has been a large factor, it is said, in the success of the Bowler administration.

Two of the Republican nominees, Komarek and Guernsey, are widely known, but even during and since the primary campaign the public has learned little of the third man, Nowak, except that he had strong factional backing for the nomination. His sponsor was William S. Finucane, 11th ward committeeman for the old city hall machine.

Guernsey Long in Public Life.

Guernsey has seen service as a state representative, as clerk of the Probate court, and as a member of the city council. As alderman of the 6th ward he was chairman of the committee on harbors, wharves and bridges, and was one of the drafters of the south park extension and Illinois Central electrification ordinance. In the council he opposed the last Republican administration.

Komarek is a North Riverside real estate broker. From 1929 to 1931 he was manager of the sanitary district's real estate department. In 1927 and 1928 combined that department showed a deficit of $210,597, while Komarek's three years as manager showed a combined net income of $454,472, the net income for 1931 alone being $205,773. He resigned the managership when he became a candidate for trustee last March.

Women Increase Activities for Horner and Roosevelt

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Democratic women of the city and county increased their campaign activity yesterday. There was the formation at the Hotel La Salle of a group of prominent women, largely former Republicans, banding together as the Women's Independent Horner for Governor committee, as the major development of the day. Mrs. Charles Barney Goodspeed is chairman.

There also was the announcement by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman from Illinois, of a drive among women to promote the candidacy of Gov. Roosevelt for President through the "Shareholders of America." Mrs. Adlai Stevenson is chairman of the Illinois activities of this organization, which will inaugurate a drive for members Saturday.

"Save Our State," Is Slogan.

Judge Henry Horner visited the headquarters of the newly formed committee of his women supporters and was greeted by Mrs. Goodspeed before resuming his campaign tour of the northern part of the state.

"We know Henry Horner, his record and his ability," Mrs. Goodspeed declared. "His honesty is unquestioned. He has demonstrated that he understands the problems of the home. His handling of the property of thousands of widows and orphans has proved to us his business ability.

"Republican women, feeling that Illinois faces a real crisis, have formed this commitee to aid in the election of Judge Henry Horner who, we believe, is the man to save our state."

Vice chairmen of the committee are Miss Jane Addams, Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. Mrs. George Hippard is executive secretary.

LA FOLLETTES WILL SUPPORT GOV. ROOSEVELT

Their Newspaper Willing for New Party.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Announcements that leaders of the La Follette Republican faction will support Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for President tonight were placed in the mails at the La Follette political headquarters here.

The statements follow an editorial published today in the Capital Times, a Madison La Follette newspaper, which proposes that all Wisconsin "Progressives" vote for Gov. Roosevelt.

The editorial in part follows:

"In this, one of the greatest crises ever faced by our country, we are willing to take our stand with such independent figures as George W. Norris, William E. Borah, Hiram Johnson, Burton K. Wheeler, Thomas J. Walsh, James A. Reed and other leaders in both parties who place country above party.

Denounces Hoover.

"Obviously, it would be the worst kind of moral depravity for the Capital Times to support the Republican nominee for President of the United States—a man who has unflinchingly stood at the opposite pole of everything for which this newspaper has been fighting. That leaves the choice between the Democratic nominee, Mr. Roosevelt, and the nominee of the Socialist party, Norman Thomas.

"There are many well intentioned Progressives who believe that Progressives this year should vote for Mr. Thomas. They base their arguments, first, on the charge that the Democratic party is dominated by the same reactionary influences as the Republican party and, second, that the best way to promote a new party responsive to the public good and the general welfare is to register a protest vote against both of the old parties.

Willing for New Party.

"With much of this argument the Capital Times is in sympathy. This newspaper is willing at any time to break away from both of the old political parties and support a new party in this country. But we are in the midst of a grave crisis. We are at the crossroads. To the left is the sound, constructive liberalism of Franklin D. Roosevelt, a man whose record as the governor of the greatest state in the Union shows that he has had the courage to place the public interest above the interests of private privilege and greed.

"To the right are the forces of special privilege and organized wealth supporting the Republican nominee for President, Herbert Hoover, and already intimating that the country is headed for a form of Fascism behind which will stand a dictatorship of wealth.

"It should be obvious to everybody that if the present régime is returned to power and entrenched for another four years, wealth and privilege will be more arrogant and destructive than ever and the fruits of 30 years of struggle to build a structure of government to protect the public interest will be emasculated and destroyed."

NOTES OF THE CAMPAIGN

John E. Northup, Republican candidate for attorney general, will resume his downstate speaking tour today, addressing the Peoria Kiwanis club at noon and a massmeeting of Peoria county voters tonight. He will speak at Champaign tomorrow.

Chicago insurance men have formed a division of the independent Horner for governor committee and are actively supporting the Democratic nominee. The chairman of the division is W. Herbert Stewart. Chester Flitcraft is secretary.

The Polish-American Democratic organization, formed to support all Democratic candidates, has opened headquarters in the Hotel Sherman. Max Adrezmal is president. The Polish-American Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Edward E. Ronkoski, president, has endorsed Judge Henry Horner for governor, and the Syrian Progressive league and the Greek-American regular Democratic organization have also pledged support to the ticket.

Judge W. Joe Hill of Benton will be one of the speakers at the dinner to be given in the Hotel La Salle tonight by the Independent War Veterans' Horner for governor committee. John V. Clinnin will be the principal speaker.

The United Democratic Service Men's organization plans a series of sectional and loop massmeetings during the last two weeks of the campaign to bring the war veteran candidates directly to the attention of the electorate. Lawrence J. Fenlon is president of the organization. The ex-soldier candidates are: William H. Dieterich, candidate for United States senator; Edward J. Barrett, candidate for state auditor; Thomas J. Courtney, candidate for state's attorney; Henry J. Riedl, candidate for county surveyor; John E. Traeger, candidate for county commissioner; and Joseph H. McGarry, Cecil Corbett Smith, Michael G. Kasper, Eugene Holland, and John Gutknecht, candidates for associate judges of the Municipal curt.

A newly organized western branch of the National Progressive League for Roosevelt and Garner opened headquarters yesterday at the Auditorium. The chairman is Harold L. Ickes, who was a Bull Mooser in 1912. Among other members is Henry A. Wallace of Des Moines, son of the late Henry C. Wallace, secretary of agriculture in the Harding cabinet. The secretary is Roscoe Fertich of Indiana and the treasurer is James L. Houghteling.

Consult these prominent Midwest women . . all past-masters of the art of caring for precious things . . and each will warn you to beware of cheap, strong soap flakes. But each, in turn, will recommend American Family Flakes as a soap that's always safe.

"I discovered the marvelous value of American Family when laundering the fragile silks and laces of my trousseau," says Mrs. I. Preston Rice. "And because I've insisted upon this pure, mild soap for all my table linens, my Waterford and early American glassware, they have retained their loveliness through the years."

"Even the most delicate pastel woolens are practical, when you know how to launder them," declares Mrs. John V. Farwell, III. "Just a simple tubbing in lukewarm water and American Family Flakes makes them bloom afresh—soft and bright as ever."

"And in the kitchen," adds Mrs. Arthur W. Fairchild, "you should see how my maids whisk through the dishes, and how the china and glassware sparkle! We buy American Family Flakes and Soap by the dozen packages—and we use them for, oh, just everything!"

These Midwest women know from experience that Kirk's American Family is absolutely safe. Unlike cheap flakes and soap, it contains no free lye . . . no harmful ingredients that ruin clothes and injure hands. On the contrary, it's as pure as pure can be!

SANDERS CALLS ILLINOIS VOTE SAFE FOR HOOVER

Declared Tide Has Turned for President.

A prediction that President Hoover and the Republican party will carry Cook county and Illinois was made last night by Everett Sanders, chairman of the Republican National committee. Mr. Sanders gave an accounting of the Republican campaign and asserted that voters are swinging in increasing numbers to the Republican cause. Mr. Sanders spoke over the radio.

The two speeches of President Hoover at Des Moines and Cleveland, and the arguments of Former President Coolidge at New York, accelerated the trend toward a Republican victory next month, declared the committee chairman. The trend is strong in Illinois, he said, despite the profuse claims of the Democrats that Illinois will be won by them.

Claims Victory Margin.

"Let me assure you that we will carry Illinois," said Mr. Sanders. "This statement is based on a careful analysis from our workers in every county of the state. Owing to the thorough manner with which we are reaching voters in Cook county and downstate, there can be no question but that the good stanch Republican state of Illinois will remain so in 1932."

What is true of Illinois is typical of any other states now claimed by the Democrats, he said.

"They say we will lose some voters," continued the national chairman. "Well, perhaps the world depression may cause us to lose some but let me recall some recent political history. In 1920 we had 404 electoral votes. The Democrats had 127. In 1924 the Republicans had 382 electoral votes. The Democrats had 136. In 1928 Herbert Hoover had 444 electoral votes. The Democrats had 87. Sure, we may lose some votes but we will have so many more than the necessary 266 that the few that are lost will be forgotten.

States Call for Hoover.

"Throughout the east there has always been a definite assurance that President Hoover would carry that section. That trend is on a definite and well defined move to the westward. Following the President's speech in Cleveland I have been deluged with requests that he visit every Republican state in the union. Telegrams and letters are coming to me showing the most amazing change of sentiment I have ever witnessed."

The Republican party, he admitted, is up against a hard fight this year—in contrast with the elections of 1920, 1924 and 1928. The party at the outset was confronted with the propaganda of the Democrats which was stimulated, he said, by the depression. "But," said Mr. Sanders, "Hoover's acceptance speech started a noticeable drift in his direction, and his Des Moines speech was the signal for a bombardment to present the truth to every voter in America and break down that propaganda."

"The question 'Will President Hoover be reelected?'" said Mr. Sanders in conclusion, "can be answered by a most affirmative 'Yes.'"

SIR HENRY FIELDING DICKENS.
[Acme Photo.]

Quits Police Court

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Sir Henry Fielding Dickens, last surviving son of Charles Dickens, retired today after fifteen years as the common sergeant of London at the famous Old Bailey police court.

He will be 84 next January, but he is mentally very alert in spite of his age. The common sergeant is a magistrate and one of Sir Henry's last cases was a complicated affair involving commercial fraud. One of his specialties was counterfeiting cases.

"I thought it only fair that I should not stick on, so that others might get a chance of promotion," Sir Henry said concerning his retirement.

CORDIAL SHOP OWNERS RAIDED; 50 ARE JAILED

Papers Show How Racket Works in New York.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Twenty-five federal agents and fifteen city detectives today raided the new Harlem Casino, where organizers were addressing behind locked doors a meeting of "modern business men," and took fifty prisoners.

The self-styled "modern business men," it developed, were owners of malt houses and cordial shops in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Westchester. The organizers, according to the police, were business men with prison experience.

Free Lance Bootleggers.

The meeting, according to Prohibition Administrator Andrew W. McCampbell and his assistant, Martin C. Hanson, was to organize "free lance" bootleggers and lay the groundwork for an association of 10,000 liquor sellers.

The meeting was conducted in a most businesslike way, Steve Miller was chairman, the authorities say. Shortly after proceedings got under way a federal spy in the hall opened a door and the raiders trooped in.

The federal men selected nine prisoners whose names had cropped up in a grand jury investigation. The police took more than forty others.

Tear Up Note Books.

Warning shouts arose as the raiders marched down the aisles, and the "business men" frantically tore up note books and papers.

Some one also threw away a loaded automatic and a man on the dais ran for a window with an armful of papers. He was stopped and the papers—which include a list of 600 members, according to the agents—were confiscated. Also seized were a charter for the United Cordial Store Workers, local 15, rules of membership, and plans for protection of members.

The organizers, addressing the gathering, described a meeting of 200 bootleggers held Oct. 5 at 183d street and Arthur avenue, the Bronx, and said Brooklyn cordial shop owners also were to be organized.

The organizers are trying to take full control of a business which nets more than $1,000,000 weekly, authorities say. Owners who refuse to join are said to have been beaten and robbed and their stores damaged.

LIVELY ELECTION BETTING; WAGER $10,000 TO $4,000

New York, Oct. 18.—(Special.)—Despite the depression, betting activity on the presidential election has been greater this year than in 1928, it was said in Wall street today. There was reported to be no dearth of Hoover money, but many backers of the Republican nominee were waiting for the odds to rise to 2 to 1 against their candidate. For several days betting commissioners have been quoting 2 to 1 on Gov. Roosevelt.

A bet of $10,000 to $4,000 on Roosevelt to win was reported as having been placed through a stock exchange firm.

There has been much interest in the political situation in eastern states, particularly Pennsylvania, which is quoted in Wall street at 8 to 5 in favor of President Hoover. Betting commissioners declared that normally the Republican nominee was a prohibitive favorite in that state, and the question of fairly even terms had stimulated a large amount of betting.

Bridge Machinery Fails; Halts Boulevard Traffic

The travel boat Fontana was blocked at the Michigan avenue bridge shortly before 7 o'clock last evening when part of the bridge lifting machinery failed to operate. While two tugs were halting the progress of the boat up the river in response to signals from the bridge tenders the bridge barriers were kept in place, blocking Michigan avenue traffic. After the boat had stopped the barriers were raised. Shortly afterward the function of the disabled machinery was performed by hand and the bridge raised to let the boat pass.

Clay Hole by Any Other Name Is Just as Deep

The public service committee of the forest preserve board yesterday authorized a change in the name of the swimming pool at 159th street and Torrence avenue from Clay Hole to Green Lake pool. Mrs. Esther Foster headed a delegation from the Harvey Women's club, which protested that the pool merits a prettier name than Clay Hole.

CANDLE UPSETS; WOMAN BURNED.

Mrs. Marz Torbig, 50 years old, of 2438 North Marshfield avenue, was seriously burned last night when her clothing became ignited from a fallen candle.

LONDON JOBLESS RIOT; BOBBIES RIDE DOWN MOBS

Police Stoned; Streets Strewn with Wreckage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Riots broke out in London tonight in which mobs of jobless men and police engaged in hand to hand fighting. The police finally gained the upper hand at 11 p. m. after baton charges by the bobbies dispersed the unemployed and communists who fought with stones and bottles.

The trouble began in St. George's circle, where thousands of unemployed converged from all parts of London with the intention of staging a monster demonstration outside the offices of the London county council and then marching on the houses of parliament to protest against the "means test"—which determines eligibility to relief.

Police Ride Through Crowds.

Mounted police rode their horses through the mob. Attempts were made to stampede the horses by throwing lighted fireworks.

Squads of police on foot charged the crowd with their batons. This was followed by an attack by the mounted police, scattering the mob in all directions. Several demonstrators were seriously injured in the melée.

The demonstrators then moved in the direction of Westminster bridge, pelting police with stones and breaking windows of passing street cars. Again the mounted police charged, swinging their night sticks. The mob surged on, breaking shop windows and looting stores. As soon as police charged one crowd of looters the crash of plate glass could be heard further up the street.

The fighting continued along the route to Westminster bridge, where several hundred policemen formed a barrier. Other bobbies were drawn up at the entrance to the London county council offices. Here clashes between the police and the jobless men were renewed. Dozens of charges were made by the police.

Streets Strewn with Wreckage.

Two trapped bobbies were saved from the shrieking demonstrators by mounted police who drove through the throng.

During the rioting, banners and drums of the demonstrators were smashed and the streets were strewn with wreckage. All policemen participating in the battle wore riot helmets. A check at midnight showed twenty policemen had been severely injured by missiles, kicks, and blows.

The demonstration, the police said, was engineered by communists who led the marchers to St. George's circle and then vanished.

The "means test" has caused considerable unrest among the unemployed. It is a system whereby after a worker has drawn unemployment relief for 26 weeks he must appear before a special committee to explain in detail what his financial circumstances are. If he proves that he has no means of support, he is given additional unemployment relief, but if a member of the family is working or has an income he must declare how much it totals. If the committee considers this sufficient for the family to live on, the applicant is refused further benefit.

Police Rout Ontario Jobless.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Five hundred unemployed, who gathered around the home of Mayor Ibbetson intent upon staging a demonstration, were routed by police early tonight. One demonstrator was arrested.

Relief authorities had announced that distribution of free meal tickets to transients would have to be cancelled. In the last two days some 2,000 meal tickets had been handed out by city authorities.

BRITAIN BREAKS COMMERCIAL TIE WITH RUSSIANS

Abrogates Trade Treaty to Aid Empire.

on the Ottawa agreements. Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain opened the discussion by moving the first of the finance resolutions which will put the agreements into effect.

"The ties of the empire have been wearing dangerously thin," he said. "Canada has become to a great extent dependent upon United States finance and in the absence of any preferential treatment with the United Kingdom, she might have found it very difficult to refuse a new offer of reciprocity from her great neighbor to the south which would definitely link their fortunes together to such an extent as would cause a divergence between Canada and Great Britain.

"The Ottawa agreements laid a solid foundation for empire prosperity that will be reflected throughout the world. By these agreements British agriculture will benefit no less than British industries."

The attack on the Ottawa agreements was led by George Lansbury, Labor party leader, who described the results as "trumpery" and Britain's gains for what she has given as negative.

Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the free trade ministers who resigned from the cabinet because they disagreed with the Ottawa principles, characterized the agreements as "tainted, rotten, dangerous and corrupt." His chief argument was that the new British tariffs which the agreements impose should not run for the projected term of five years, but should be removable on six months' notice. He concluded by describing the proposals as "the maddest tariff ever thrown together."

Prime Minister MacDonald wound up the debate. He denied that the government had broken election pledges by signing the empire economic accord.

"The failure of the Ottawa parley would have been a calamity which no man, whatever his imagination might be, could adequately describe," he said. "The forthcoming world economic conference could not have been held if the Ottawa conference had broken down."

The prime minister appealed for the acceptance of the agreements in order to show the dominions that the British government intended to carry out the new economic policy in a generous spirit. He also called upon the dominions to exhibit the same spirit.

The debate will continue for the next two days at least.

Arthur H. Henderson, former foreign secretary, today resigned as secretary of the Labor party. He will be succeeded by Lansbury, who acted as Labor leader throughout the last session of parliament.

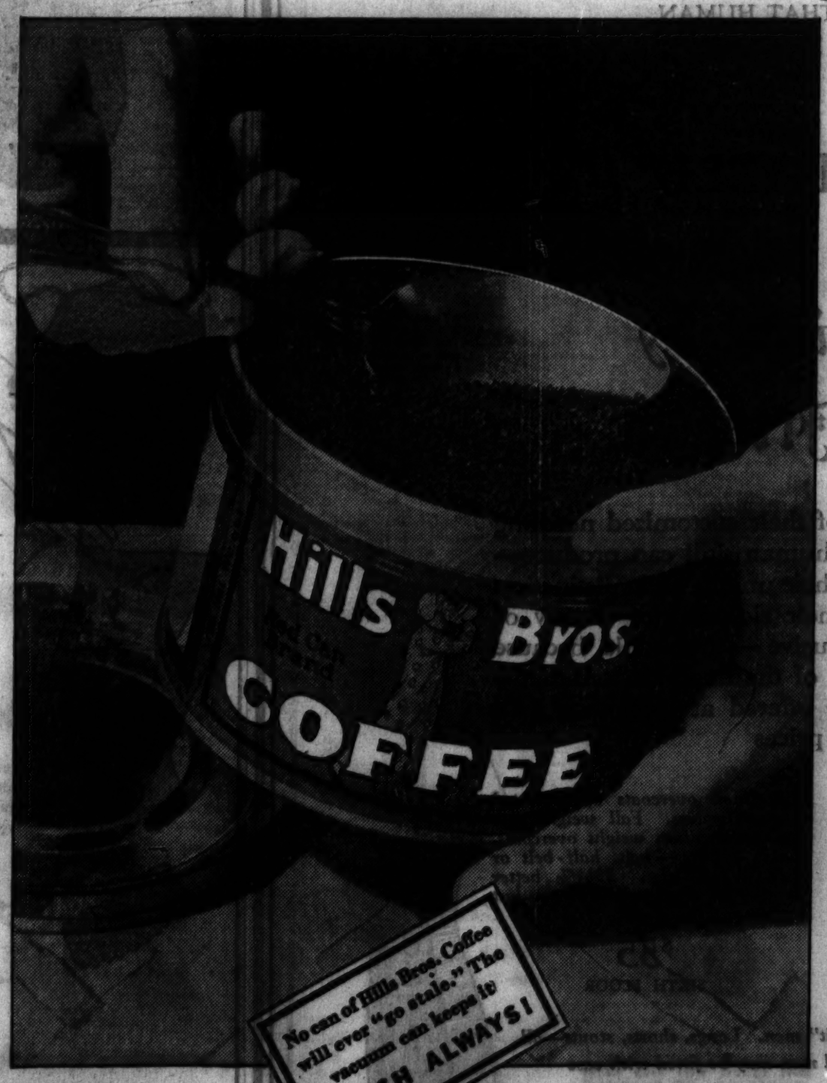
YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHAT "MATCHLESS, UNIFORM FLAVOR" MEANS UNTIL YOU USE HILLS BROS COFFEE

Patented Controlled Roasting process makes a flavor no other coffee has

Roasting "a little at a time"—Instead of in bulk—is the reason



GROUND RIGHT TO TASTE RIGHT

No coffee, however good, can be uniform in taste unless uniformly roasted and uniformly ground. Hills Bros.' patented, continuous process — Controlled Roasting — and correct granulation insure this uniformity. Hills Bros.' granulation will give best results by the drip process or any other method.

Although bulk-roasted coffees often have a delightful flavor, they are often undependable. Sometimes they disappoint your taste. Those "let-downs" in flavor are probably due to roasting. It is difficult to roast big batches, and always roast every berry alike. Yet if that isn't done, the flavor naturally varies.

Instead of roasting in bulk, Hills Bros. use their patented Controlled Roasting process. The blend flows through the roasters in an even, continuous stream . . . a little at a time.

Continuous small quantities assure perfect roasting for every coffee-berry! The full charm of their flavor is developed in every pound. Never any variation!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

You know you'll enjoy Hills Bros. Coffee, the instant you breathe those wisps of fragrance that swirl and curl above the cup. Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

BANKERS INSIST NEW YORK CUT BUDGET FURTHER

Cool to Berry's Quest for $35,000,000.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—With bankers insistent that "bookkeeping economies" would not satisfy them, New York City's credit situation remained acute tonight.

While the board of estimate was busily engaged in restoring approximately $100,000 of the something less than $75,000,000 chopped from the budget yesterday, Controller Charles W. Berry was being rebuffed in his attempts to reopen negotiations with the bankers for an urgent $35,000,000 loan.

Bankers Demand Economy.

The city, the bankers let it be konwn, must "save honestly," and the plan for paying for new subways in fifty years instead of four, which accounts for almost $50,000,000 of the budget paring, will not solve the city's credit dilemma. The bankers appear confident the required cuts will be made before the budget goes to the printers on Thursday. Between Thursday and Nov. 1 the budget may be decreased. But it cannot be increased.

An official tabulation of the reductions in the budget was made this afternoon. It shows that the estimated budget is now $74,807,801 less than this year's, while further proposed economies totaling $12,409,850, under consideration, probably will be adopted.

Some Cuts Are Restored.

The appropriations put back into the budget today were $25,000 for the law department, $67,199 for special welfare investigators, and $5,500 for day laborers.

That action may handicap Mr. Berry even further in getting immediate loans from the banks. The first $20,000,000 in special revenue bonds is necessary Friday, the day after the board must pass the budget.

Next Monday $10,000,000 must be found to meet interest demands and bills. On Oct. 28 another $5,000,000 will be necessary to preserve the city's credit.

Question Reality of Cuts.

There was considerable doubt in banking circles that yesterday's cuts were "honest." It was pointed out that almost every economy resolution adopted by the board of estimates had riders which confused the question of the actual cut. The bankers felt that the subway refinancing, which they considered merely a bookkeeping move, would not suffice to reestablish a market for city bonds. They also were sure the fifty year subway bond scheme would bring about a ten cent fare within a year or two.

Peter Grimm, head of the citizens' budget commission, this afternoon that the budget makers would have to get away from bookkeeping cuts and do some "honest housecleaning" if they were to win the confidence of the taxpayers. Mr. Grimm told of specific cases of extravagance.

High Cost of Stoking.

"In the sheriff's department," Mr. Grimm declared, "we found three 'engineers' on the pay roll. When we investigated the need of 'engineers' in the sheriffs' office we found they were stokers. Then we investigated the amount of coal used. It was $1,000 for the year. The three 'engineers' drew more than $5,000 a year to shovel $1,000 worth of coal.

"When looking into the sanitation department we discovered they were carrying 249 horses in their accounts. That department is motorized. We investigated and found 20 horses being used. Yet the department pay rolls carried hostlers, veterinarians, harness men, etc., for a total of more than $80,000 a year.

Despite reports that the bankers again had refused the city a loan pending budget reforms, Controller Berry expressed confidence he would get the money the city needs.

Berry Voices Confidence.

"We'll get what we want now," said Mr. Berry. "Look at the bond market. Up four points."

The market for city bonds, however, didn't continue to climb after its first spurt late yesterday. The financial district evidently was inclined to await final figures. Those figures probably will not be available until the final hearings on the budget Oct. 27 and 28.

Right now Tammany members of the board of estimate are scouting for methods of borrowing to get over the immediate financial hurdles and avert threatened bankruptcy when the November pay roll falls due. The bankers say the city may find funds somewhere to meet that pay roll, but that merely will postpone complete credit collapse, unless the city actually saves some money.

STRIKING MINERS LOSE LEGAL TILT AGAINST TROOPS

Guards Increased After Bomb Rumor.

Taylorville, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Striking miners lost the first decision in the legal battle now on in the Circuit court to determine the rights of the militia called in to help preserve the peace.

When a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus was to be heard by Judge Dove to get two men released from jail the attorneys for the strikers made a motion to strike the answer to the writ. The motion was denied.

Military authorities were today investigating a purported plot to blow up the militia barracks in a local garage. The "bomb plot" was disclosed by Lieut. Col. Robert W. Davis, National Guard commander, who said he had a signed statement from a Taylorville citizen who declared he overheard two men talking in Springfield of the plan.

As a result of the alleged plot the guards about the barracks have been strengthened.

Cessation of picketing in Taylorville was ordered Tuesday from the Progressive headquarters in Gillespie. The move was said to mean the temporary abandonment of the picketing in this city to cooperate with those who are anxious to see the troops taken out.

Rumors that Miss Virginia Dawes, daughter of former Vice President Charles Gates Dawes, and James Martin, a fellow student of Miss Dawes at Northwestern university, are engaged were denied yesterday by Martin and by members of the Dawes family.

"But there is no engagement," he added. "It's true she was wearing my fraternity pin for a little while, but that didn't mean anything and she has given it back to me."

A spokesman for the Dawes family said there "was absolutely nothing in the story." Martin is the son of Charles F. Martin, an insurance representative, 614 Clark street, Evanston. The youth earns part of his school expenses working in a gasoline filling station.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Congressional elections in four states may be affected by the decision of the United States Supreme court in upholding the validity of the Mississippi redistricting act.

The court was unanimous in reversing the lower court judgment under which an injunction was granted against carrying the Mississippi redistricting law into effect and under which all congressional aspirants would be required to run at large Nov. 8.

A majority of five justices, headed by Chief Justice Hughes, held that the federal reapportionment act of 1911, under which the lower court had found the Mississippi statute invalid, had become a dead letter.

Other States Affected.

As a result of this finding reapportionment acts in Virginia, Kentucky, and Tennessee may be affected.

In Virginia the state Supreme court recently held the state reapportionment act invalid because it transgressed the mandate contained both in the 1911 federal act and in the state constitution requiring districts when apportioned to be contiguous, compact, and as nearly as possible equal in population.

The Supreme court decision in the Mississippi case held that that requirement in the 1911 act had been specifically stricken out of the 1929 act to reapportion congressional seats in conformity with the 1930 census. The majority held that the provisions of the earlier act had been superseded by the 1929 act and therefore become dead.

In Kentucky three judges in federal district court voided the state reapportionment act on virtually the same ground as that on which the Mississippi case was based. Under today's decision the case may be reopened.

In Tennessee Federal Judge George C. Taylor of the eastern district has been ordered by the Supreme court to show cause why a mandamus should not issue ordering him to grant the petition of Charles Clay James to call a court of three judges to hear a complaint against the Tennessee redistricting act.

Caused by Reapportionment.

Under the federal reapportionment act of 1929, Mississippi's representation in the house of representatives was cut from eight to seven; Virginia's from ten to nine; Kentucky's from eleven to nine, and Tennessee's from ten to nine.

Had it not been for the Supreme court's decision the Mississippi congressional candidates, though nominated by districts, would have been elected at large. Representative James W. Collier, Democrat, head of the house ways and means committee, who refused to run in his district at the primaries and insisted on running at large, withdrew from the race today after learning of the decision.

Kentucky's and Virginia's congressional candidates are running at large and will do so unless today's decision is raised and made to apply to those states. In Tennessee the candidates are so far running by districts.

The minority of four, composed of Justices Brandeis, Stone, Roberts, and Cardozo, disagreed with the majority of the court in today's decision as to the ground on which the lower court's decision should be reversed. They held that the applicability of the 1911 act had not been raised by the litigants and that dismissal of the complaint should have been ordered in jurisdictional grounds.

Upsets Illinois Decision.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The United States Supreme court decision in the Mississippi apportionment case is a reversal of the majority opinion of the Illinois Supreme court, which declared invalid the last congressional apportionment act of the Illinois legislature. It sustains the contention in minority opinion prepared by Justice DeYoung of the Illinois court, which insisted the Illinois assembly was within its rights in passing the apportionment act. This, too, was the contention of Attorney General Carlstrom.

The decision comes too late to affect the situation in Illinois so far as the November election is concerned, nominations for congress having been made under the old apportionment law and the nominations already have been certified by the secretary of state.

Up to Legislature.

What will now be done is for the legislature to determine, unless the Illinois Supreme court reverses its former opinion and declares the new law to be in effect.

Justice Norman Jones wrote the opinion which declared the new Illinois apportionment invalid, basing the opinion on the ground of gross inequality in the population of the districts. He sustained Circuit Court Judge Edward Shurtleff of Marengo, who prepared the lower court opinion. Had the United States court's opinion been given prior to the Illinois decision there would have been no Illinois candidates for congressmen at large.

MARKS BIRTHDAY

MRS. HARRIETT SWANWICK.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Harriet Newell Swanwick of 6208 South Troy street, widow of William Swanwick, a grandson of Illinois' first governor, Shadrach Bond, said yesterday upon the eve of her 91st birthday that she expects to vote for President Hoover. Asked her choice for governor she hesitated, then replied:

"Well, I'm a Republican, but I'm not certain that's the way I'll vote when it comes to governor."

Mrs. Swanwick is in good health except for a slight leg injury, caused by a recent fall. Yesterday she fretted because she could not be outside taking her daily walk.

"I walk at the end of every day, most always for an hour," she said. "There isn't a thing I know of that I can't eat. Most of my ancestors lived to be 80 years old or more."

Mrs. Swanwick is the author of many poems and bits of prose which she keeps carefully in a Manila folder. She reads the daily newspapers thoroughly.

Today she will be given a birthday luncheon by her daughter, Mrs. Harold Zahn, with whom she lives.

SOCIETY DEATH THREAT WRITER IS FOUND GUILTY

Federal Court Trial Is Completed in Day.

so I can kill myself," Diez shouted, according to Fielding. The police went to Diez's home, across the street, and seized the typewriter on which the notes were said to be written, the witness added.

Called by the government, Lieut. Fred G. Bennett of Evanston police, identified a statement in which Diez said that he was acting as agent for a "man with a mustache." Diez said in the statement that the man had given him $20, written letters on his typewriter, and said there would be $30 more forthcoming if he called for the package. "Take a pepper shaker along and if any one bothers you let them have it," the man told him, Diez said in the statement.

Defense Denied Verdict.

Mrs. Katherine Keeler, document expert for the Northwestern university crime school, testified that the letters were written on the typewriter found in the Diez home.

Defense Attorney George D. Sullivan asked a directed verdict on the ground that the government had failed to show that Diez mailed the letters. "The government has showed that some one wrote the letters on a typewriter," he said. "But it has not proved my client mailed them, and the charge is using the mails for extortion letters."

Judge Woodward ruled the evidence was strong enough to warrant giving the case to the jury. The question of whether the circumstances were strong enough to show that Diez mailed the letters, Judge Woodward said, was a question of fact for the jury. Diez, the lone defense witness, reiterated the story he had told the police of the mysterious man with the black mustache.

GERMAN LEADERS CALL CRITICISMS BY POLES UNFAIR

Officials of the German Day association, who were severely criticized on Monday by three Polish organizations for their objections to the so-called Polish corridor, yesterday declared the Polish bodies had been unfair in the criticism.

The German Day resolution, passed on Sept. 26, was in accord with the principles for which Washington fought, according to its defenders. It was added that Von Steuben, Kosciuszko, Pulaski and Lafayette would have deplored the Versailles treaty and its "division of defenseless Germany" with the corridor. The German Day officials added that the corridor would be the source of future wars.

Julius Klein, vice president of the association, assumed the responsibility for the introduction of the resolution which led to protests.

CHILD EATS POISON; DIES.

Fergus Falls, Minn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Lillian Adeline, 2 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Mortenson, near here, died today as the result of eating poison used in killing gophers.

SOCIETY WOMAN DIES BY LEAPING FROM 31ST FLOOR OF HOTEL.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles J. Prescott Jr., 28, socially prominent in Boston and a former member of the Junior league, committed suicide today, jumping from a window of her room on the 31st floor of the Hotel New Yorker.

Clasped in her hands she held two white carnations, and behind her she left a cryptic note and a little stack of newspaper clippings.

"I don't like you. This is the best way out. Make the best of every living moment," she had scrawled in lipstick on a sheet of hotel stationery just before she jumped. The note was not addressed.

The clippings, found by the police in the small overnight bag she carried into the hotel with her, came from Atlanta, Ga., newspapers.

"When men and women lose their mates after years of comradeship they are dumbfounded and they face a world of emptiness," was one message she had marked.

As Beatrice Gardiner she wed Prescott, son of a Cambridge, Mass., manufacturer, in 1926.

Obliging Bootleggers Fill Federal Official's Order

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Fred Pepper, assistant United States attorney in Brooklyn, received a card through the mails bearing the legend "Masons—Triangle 5-7758," with a price list of whiskies. He called the number and asked that three quarts of Scotch be delivered to room 521 at 271 Washington street. Within a few minutes a youth walked in and laid down a bundle on the desk. The youth was arrested. He had failed to read a sign on the door, "Prohibition Division, U. S. Attorney's Office." The arrest of the young man later led to the capture of a group of five alleged bootleggers.

JAPAN SUMMONS ENVOYS TO TOKIO; SHAKEUP SEEN

Change in Foreign Policy Is Expected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 18.—With five ambassadors back or en route to Japan today from posts abroad, the greatest shakeup in the history of the Japanese foreign office seems practically certain. Only one of the five men will return to his post, necessitating sweeping changes in personnel.

Important developments are expected. One is a discussion of policies to assume towards the United States, soviet Russia, and the league of nations. Another is the sending of one or two of these ambassadors as councilors to the state of Manchukuo. A third is the formulation of a more positive foreign policy.

Debuchi Returns to U. S.

Katsuji Debuchi will return to Washington, D. C., as ambassador merely because Foreign Minister Count Yasuya Uchida was unable to find any one better suited for the post, diplomats declare. The ambassadors from the United States, Italy, Turkey and Moscow are now in Tokio. Yukichi Obata was ordered to return from Berlin today.

The foreign office in commenting on the situation declared that the gathering of the diplomats is more of a coincidence than predetermined. While this is regarded as true, there is no denying that the press has been clamoring for months for a renovation of the diplomatic system.

Obata, former minister to China and one of the greatest authorities on China, and Ambassador Koki Hirota to Russia are reported slated to become councilors to Manchukuo, thus depriving Japan of its most capable diplomats in Chinese and Russian affairs.

Murder of Missionary Reported.

Meanwhile the foreign office announced today that if the United States intends to protest the murder of Lloyd Putnam Henderson, 38, American Presbyterian missionary, near Mulantien, in Manchuria, yesterday, it will have to lodge its protest with the Chinese government at Nanking.

The American, who was riding a horse and bearing an American flag, was attacked by 50 Chinese bandits. The missionary was under the escort of five Japanese soldiers.

The foreign office spokesman said that matter will eventually be placed in the hands of the American consul at Mukden.

$27,456,150 U. S. AND STATE FUNDS SPENT ON RELIEF

In the period from Feb. 6 to Sept. 30 a total of $27,456,150 of state and federal funds was spent for relief throughout Illinois, it was announced yesterday by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Of that sum, 91.57 per cent went directly to relief, 6.76 per cent for salaries and 1.67 per cent for expenses. Before Feb. 6 relief in Illinois was paid for by private donations to charity.

Of that total of public funds expended, $24,835,432, or over 90 per cent, was spent in Cook county; $2,504,015, or 9 per cent, was spent in other counties, and $116,702 was spent in the Chicago office of the relief commission. In Cook county the expenditures were: Relief, 91.82 per cent; salaries, 6.7 per cent, and expenses, 1.48 per cent. In downstate counties the expenditures were: Relief, 93.42 per cent; salaries, 5.02 per cent, and expenses, 1.56 per cent.

The funds expended came from two sources, the sale of tax anticipation warrants in the amount of $18,150,000, based on a $20,000,000 state relief bond issue voted by the legislature last February, and loans from the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation, the state totaling $14,000,000 up to the present. Up to Sept. 30 a total of $4,355,913 of the state fund had been spent and a total of $9,100,237 of federal funds had been spent.

The transition from state funds to federal funds was effected on July 27, according to the books of the commission, although a small balance of state funds remains on hand. Of the state funds expended up to Sept. 30 90.52 per cent went directly for relief; 7.60 per cent for salaries, and 1.88 per cent for expenses, while the proportion for federal funds to the same date was 93.69 per cent directly to relief; 5.07 per cent for salaries, and 1.24 per cent for expenses.

In the period between Feb. 6 and Aug. 31 state and federal relief funds were spent in the following proportion: 91.16 per cent directly for relief, 7.20 per cent for salaries, and 1.64 per cent for expenses.

WINS DIVORCE

Mrs. Marcia Masters Jennings.
[Lewis-Smith Photo.]

Mrs. Marcia Masters Jennings, daughter of Edgar Lee Masters, the poet, was granted her second divorce yesterday from Malcolm A. Jennings, vice president of the Hayes-MacFarland advertising agency. She won the decree on grounds of cruelty after an uncontested hearing before Superior Judge Walter T. Stanton. Mrs. Jennings, who is 23 years old, was given the custody of her daughter, Marcia, 10 months old, and $150 a month for her support.

Mrs. Jennings, in answer to questions by her attorney, Benjamin B. Davis, said her husband struck her on two occasions after their separation last March. Both incidents occurred in her present home at 4853 Kenwood avenue, she said.

Mrs. Jennings divorced her husband on similar grounds on July 6, 1930. They remarried a short time later.

URGES R.F.C. LOAN ON DEFAULTED COUNTY BONDS

The relative merits of the county's defaulted bonds for the county hospital nurses' home and of the proposed $65,000,000 San Francisco-Oakland bridge, as collateral for a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan, were discussed yesterday before the county board. finance committee by Joshua D'Esposito, engineer and chairman of the advisory committee supervising construction of the home.

Mr. D'Esposito suggested that the board apply for a loan from the R. F. C., depositing the bonds, which it has been unable to sell, as collateral. Members of the board pointed out that the county has already defaulted interest payments on outstanding bonds of the same issue, and that the R. F. C. might be unwilling under those circumstances, to assume the risk of holding the bonds.

"The corporation will hold plenty," replied Mr. D'Esposito. "Hasn't it just loaned $65,000,000 to California to build a bridge? The bonds for construction of the bridge were put up as collateral. It is a toll bridge. In my opinion, the R. F. C. will never get half that money back."

The finance committee deferred until today consideration of his suggestion that an $1,800,000 loan be sought to complete the nurses' home.

U. S. MAY DEPORT ALIENS ON POOR RELIEF ROLLS

County Orders Probe of Federal Proposal.

The county welfare committee yesterday appointed Commissioner Peter M. Kelly to investigate the proposal of the federal immigration service to examine aliens on the poor relief rolls, and send home those who are willing to leave the country or deport those who have entered the United States illegally.

The appointment was made after a brief but stormy exchange of views between Commissioners Kelly and Amelia Sears, who is chairman of the board's welfare committee. The board then suggested that Joseph L. Moss, director of the county welfare bureau, and the immigration authorities be called into consultation and a report of the results submitted at a later meeting.

Many of Needy Held Aliens.

Commissioner Kelly stated he has been informed that between 15 and 20 per cent of the 110,000 families on the county relief rolls were aliens. Many of these men and women, he said, entered this country with the aid of alien smugglers and now are thrown upon the local governments for support. All those who smuggled themselves into the United States, or those who have been in the country not more than three years and are willing to return to their homelands, can be deported at government expense, he said.

"Thus, if we can rid the country of even as many as 10,000 families the relief money will stretch that much farther," said Kelly.

"I can answer you," said Miss Sears, motioning for Moss, who had risen to speak, to take his seat. "That movement by the government is just an endeavor to find employment for from 15 to 30 idle inspectors.

Fears Official Snooping.

"Most of those aliens who would be eligible to be deported have married and their children are citizens of this country. Therefore these aliens, if deported, would then leave behind them dependents who probably would be permanent wards of the state."

She also said that the distrust raised by snooping immigration agents would be very detrimental to the welfare relief service. She said the foreign dependents would become frightened and the agents probably would disrupt the system which is working smoothly.

President Emmett Whealan and Commissioner Walter La Buy said there was no reason why the matter should not be investigated and Commissioner Maurice Kavanagh asked that Kelly himself make the investigation.

Tag Day Yields $52,000 for Children's League

Approximately $52,000 was raised by the Children's Benefit league in its tag day last Monday, according to an announcement yesterday by Mrs. Wilfred S. Reynolds, president. "We are grateful for the support given to this charity and those who contributed may be assured that every cent will go directly to the support of some dependent child," Mrs. Reynolds said.

2 GET MAXIMUM JAIL TERMS FOR FAKE WANT ADS

William J. Battye, 35 years old, and Orvin Smith, 32 years old, were fined $50 and costs and sentenced to twenty days in the Bridewell by Judge John A. Sbarbaro yesterday for false advertising. The men advertised in THE TRIBUNE for waitresses but tried to hire the applicants as speakeasy hostesses. The investigation leading to their prosecution was initiated by THE TRIBUNE.

Assistant State's Attorney William J. Caponigri, who prosecuted Smith and Battye and did considerable detective work to dig up evidence, said the twenty day jail terms were the maximum permitted for the offense. Policeman E. J. Kane assisted Mr. Caponigri. The want ad was placed in THE TRIBUNE on Oct. 11, 12, and 13, stating that six waitresses, under 25 years of age, were wanted at a Broadway address. This place has since been raided. The 200 girls applying were told that hostesses were wanted.

Miss Lela Ann Eason and Miss Minnie Fister, two of the applicants, testified. Smith and Battye pleaded they had not inserted the want ad, but that a Mr. McIntire had placed it. Prosecutor Caponigri then called Mrs. Margaret Lapann of 4352 Kenmore avenue, who testified Smith uses the name of McIntire.

Cleveland Registration Is Heaviest on Record

Cleveland, O., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The heaviest registration of voters on record here was completed today as election board officials estimated 430,000 residents of Cuyahoga county would be eligible to vote on Nov. 8. In 1928 the total was 376,000.

INCREASE IN EGG PRICES PROVING BOON TO FARMERS

Eggs have more than doubled in value since early summer and now bring a tidy profit to farmers. City consumers have watched the prices advance rapidly in the last few days, until good eggs are retailing now at 35 to 39 cents per dozen. On the farms, an average sized flock may pay a farm family's store bills, because the farm prices are from 22 to 28 cents a dozen, compared to 8 or 10 cents a dozen last May.

The rise is attributed to several factors. Storage holdings reported early this month were a little over half of the average of the last five years. Added to this has been the increase in purchases of eggs by consumers as cool weather and schooldays came along. All summer New York and Chicago prices for fowl have been sufficiently low to be attractive to housewives, yet high enough to cause farmers to thin out their flocks to get ready cash. The result is a smaller egg production this summer and fall.

With cheap feed on midwest farms both eggs and poultry are carrying through many families who might otherwise have found their crops sold to meet obligations.

At present values, a dozen eggs bring the farmer as much as 1½ bushels of corn, or ¾ of a bushel of wheat.

Money Order He Mailed 19 Years Ago Returned

Doniphan, Neb., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A $2 money order mailed by John Kern to a business house at Wathena, Kas., 19 years ago has just been returned to him by postal authorities. The order came to him from Washington, unaccompanied by explanation. Kern assumes the mail service was unable to deliver it. Anyway, he now has his $2 back.

PROVIDES YEAR'S LUNCH MONEY FOR ONE CHILD

Woman Gives $20 to Hungry Children's Fund.

A River Forest woman yesterday volunteered to provide lunches for one child in the Chicago public schools for the entire school year. In a letter to the Hungry School Children's fund, in which she inclosed $20 to cover the cost, she said:

"I am figuring this on a basis of 5 days for 40 weeks at 10 cents a day. I would like to have this go to a district where the noon meal thus provided is the only substantial meal the child receives during the day because of lack of food at home." She asked that the gift be acknowledged anonymously.

Among the other contributions was $5 from the kindergarten of Trinity Episcopal church in Wheat and a dollar gift from Mrs. S. B. Rosenbaum in Centerville. Many of the gifts were anonymous or accompanied by requests that only initials be used. Some came from children, others from mothers, and there was one even from "Uncle Doc." In the $2 column was a gift sent as a memorial to Harold Nowels. Each in his own way entered his name on the rapidly growing honor roll of the Hungry School Children's fund.

The gifts, totaling $159.25, are as follows:

Falls Three Stories at U. of C.; Injuries Slight

William Chiera, 18 years old, a freshman at the University of Chicago and son of Dr. Edward Chiera, professor of Assyriology at the university, fell yesterday from a third floor window in the new men's dormitory at 1035 East 60th street. He was taken to Billings Memorial hospital, where a preliminary examination failed to show any critical injuries. A maid entered the youth's room during the morning and found him ill in bed. She went to summon assistance, and young Chiera apparently rose to open a window, lost his balance or fainted as he did so, and fell.

Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

A lady from Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat, too."

To take off fat—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats and starches—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.

THE TRIBUNE'S PLATFORM FOR CHICAGO

1. Cut taxes in half.
2. Pay the defaulted bonds.
3. Overcome crime.
4. Speed up railroad passenger service.
5. Make Chicago the first city in the world.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

WILL THE SPENDERS PREVAIL?

New York City, probably the greatest center of wealth in the world, has suddenly waked to the fact that it is on the crumbling brink of financial disaster. As THE TRIBUNE pointed out some time ago, while the New York press was indulging in pharisaical comment on the predicament Chicago's public finances were in, New York was rapidly moving toward bankruptcy. Extravagant expenditures and the bleeding of parasitic politics for years have been piling up a huge mountain of municipal debt and imposing an increasing burden of taxation which in the last three years of diminished private earnings has now become unbearable. Bankruptcy is imminent and cannot be avoided save by immediate and drastic measures of retrenchment. The great city finds suddenly that its credit is gone and it cannot be restored unless these measures are taken.

Yet the class which it is most essential should face this crisis refuses to do so. The Tammany candidate for mayor, who probably will be elected, has declared there will be no pay reductions for city employés. Acting Mayor McKee, who faced the situation and has tried to deal with it, was placed on the shelf and his plans of economy with him. The political bosses are not afraid of the unorganized electorate, the voters who do not know what is happening or how it affects themselves. They count on the organized job holders and the beneficiary of public money. Whether they will listen to the bankers who have now informed them that money can no longer be found to pour into the bottomless pit of political greed remains to be seen.

The crisis is not peculiar to New York. Chicago has passed through a similar situation and is not yet out of the woods. Many other cities are in some stage of it and must fight the same fight. More than that, the great government of the United States is moving toward bankruptcy at a headlong rate, and in Washington, as elsewhere, the spenders are adamant. In the last session of congress measures calling for billions of public money were proposed while the proposals for retrenchment were cut down to an ineffectual sum. In that session the public finances of the nation were brought to the edge of bankruptcy, and there is no question that unless the next congress faces the facts they will pass over the edge. Bankruptcy of the United States government seemed incredible in the heyday of national prosperity. It is now a certainty unless public spending is checked and drastically reduced. Yet in the present campaign this issue appears chiefly in the form of generalities. Arthur Henning, traveling through all the states, reports that Ohio is one of the few states where it is a real issue brought home to the candidates for congress. There the Cincinnati Enquirer has put a definite questionnaire before every candidate for congress. And there is much squirming and evasion and some silence. In Illinois the same conditions appear. The National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures has been questioning Illinois candidates, and only 25 out of 54 candidates for representative in the house have thus far replied.

All that THE TRIBUNE has said of the strength of resistance to public economy has proved true up to this time. The Norpe, National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures, has been doing good work in organizing and demanding pledges—the only practical method of making the people's demand for relief effective. But the task is enormous in a country like ours. The attitude of the politicians ought to impress the responsible citizenship of every state with the urgent need for organized attack upon political resistance to relief. Every civic and business organization in every state and community should ally itself actively with Norpe to pledge candidates explicitly to retrenchment. Every voter should follow the recommendations of Norpe in voting for congressmen Nov. 8. No man should be sent to congress who refuses to face the issue of federal bankruptcy and do his part toward relieving the people of the burden which is weighing down the energies of the nation. The spending officials all over the country are showing ignorance of finance and economics or indifference to the national welfare. The American people, whose future prosperity and progress are at stake, must make their will prevail over selfish obstruction.

MAKING WAY FOR THE RAJAHS.

Vice President Curtis was unable to make a speech at Layton, Utah, because the car in which he was riding from Ogden to Layton was sidewiped by another one and the candidate was bumped not exactly speechless but into a condition which made public speaking inadvisable. What happened was that highway patrolmen forming an escort for Mr. Curtis and clearing the pavement for his passage waved a startled woman driver to the shoulder of the road. She became alarmed when her wheels hit the dirt and in trying to control her car brought it back on the concrete and into the side of the car in which Mr. Curtis was riding. Fortunately the injuries were slight, but the incident calls new attention to a habit which is gaining use and countenance and which seems for the most part entirely without due reason or excuse.

The occasions on which any American citizen is entitled to a semi-royalistic escort of outriders, whether on city streets or country highways, are or should be very rare. But, on the contrary, they are becoming so numerous as to be nuisances. Even when it is the case that a dignitary needs protection it is not reasonably necessary that the ordinary traffic rules should be suspended. Ninety per cent of the outriding which makes a trip a triumphant procession is merely an abuse of common sense on the streets and roads. The habit grows because it seems to be equally pleasing to the personage who gets the triumph and the subordinates who strongarm him through the traffic. It is offensive to decencies and frequently is dangerous to the people involved in the muscling process. Mr. Curtis has a number of bruises because the superserviceable patrol that went with him did not abide by the ordinary rules of the road. American highways and streets can do very well without the traveling habits of the French nobility under the sun king.

PROHIBITION IN THE ELECTION.

Mr. Hoover has said that he cannot consent to the continuance of the intolerable conditions of the present, meaning conditions under the 18th amendment and the Volstead act. Gov. Roosevelt has said that the Democratic declaration for the repeal of the 18th amendment and the immediate return of beer to legal sale is unqualifiedly his. The people may assume from this that prohibition as it now prevails is to be dead shortly after the election. They may find little distinction between what the Republican candidate says and what is said by his Democratic opponent on this issue.

A distinction is there, but it is one of government rather than of alcoholic beverages. That is, the plan to which Mr. Hoover gives his support would modify the 18th amendment by permitting the states to make their own decisions subject to federal intervention intended to keep the saloon from ever coming back in any region. That retains theoretically a federal stake in sumptuary control which purists in American constitutional government insist cannot be justified. However, it is a fair presumption that such federal jurisdiction would soon pass into the limbo of dead federal functions. Nevertheless, the distinction is there. The Democratic program eliminates the federal government except for its jurisdiction in interstate commerce.

For practical purposes the average person need not be blamed if so far as the national parties and their presidential candidates are involved in the issue he finds six on one side and a half dozen on the other, all about of the same thing so far as they have any meaning to him. And he's right in a large measure. It must not be forgotten for a minute that this fight is in the congressional districts. It doesn't matter what the result of the election is at the head of the tickets. The question will be decided on Capitol hill. The individual members of the house of representatives and the senate will vote up or down and upon their decisions the answer will depend. We have seen in the last two years how little reliance can be put upon party regularity in the halls of congress, how little the pledges of organized national politics prevail with the individuals from the various districts. The man whose pleasure is to put a hair shirt on the other fellow will hug his fanaticism to his breast. The weakling who must have dictation in his decisions will take it from the most immediate and formidable source. The trimmer will seek his own advantage.

Escape from the bigotry which holds, as in Alabama, that near beer is an evil because it is called beer, or, as with the W. C. T. U., that a fruit cocktail is an iniquity because it is called a cocktail, was not assured by the national party platforms. Democratic congressmen were observed to vote for immediate beer in their convention and return immediately to Washington to vote immediately against it. Except as gains are made in the congressional districts by the opposition to national prohibition, the country may come only to frustration when the consequences of the election are gathered in Washington.

The revenue difficulties of the government are impelling the return to sanity, but the fanatics in their extremity know where to turn. They are relying upon the obstacles with which constitutional revision is blocked in the United States. They hope that the Kansan will be content with his jake ginger and the Georgian with his white mule, that the Floridian will take the Bahama imports as a sufficient compromise, and that the Texan will be satisfied with what he has on his hip. They will sustain the régime of the bootlegger and of obnoxious concoctions illegally sold and perilously consumed if only they can prevent the orderly sale of revenue producing beverages the use of which is prohibited by no other civilized nation in the world.

If the congressmen slide by in the shadows of the presidential elections the dry dictatorship will think it has survived the storm.

Editorial of the Day

FARM MORTGAGES.

[Sioux City Journal.]

The demand for a moratorium on farm mortgages is one that raises many questions. Obviously something must be done if thousands of farm homes are to be saved for their owners and occupants. Yet a moratorium that would be in effect a postponement of payments on loans easily could be seen as working hardships on mortgagees who lent funds in good faith and who may themselves be in need.

The farm mortgage indebtedness of the country is enormous. Iowa's alone is approximately $1,350,000,000. The total of farm mortgages runs to several billions. So when any one indorses a moratorium it would be unfair toward thousands of mortgagees to insist upon them cooling their heels for their money over a long period of years. That might result in financial institutions, investment houses and other enterprises going into bankruptcy, and in the meantime the inviolability of contract agreements also would be endangered.

Just what is to be done in putting through a moratorium that will be fair and just to both mortgagor and mortgagee—and no other plan would meet the problem in a thoroughly American way—remains to be seen. Can government undertake to relieve the situation for both sides by supplying cash in billions on some kind of bond issue, or must mortgagees suffer as victims of circumstance?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

TWO HUNTERS QUARREL in Illinois as to which one shot the duck. One hunter shoots the other. Two croquet players quarrel over the declaration of one that he had hit the stake. They fall to and pound each other with their mallets until the ambulance takes them to the hospital. A bridge player in Tennessee shoots—but why go on? She trumped his ace, of course—jail, hospital, et cet., et cet. A man found a nice parking place in the loop in Chicago the other night, pulled ahead, and then prepared to back into the parking place. He heard a yell and looked around and found a man in a flivver had slipped into the parking place. Harsh words—boom, boom! Are we Americans getting more irascible or what? After we read about how short tempered people are getting we feel like throwing the chess and checkers into the alley, burning the backgammon board, and burying the jackstraws. And we won't leave our bus in the loop, so we won't have to try and park it; we want to live. Until after election, anyhow. As for hunting, if we should happen to shoot a duck and somebody else claims it we will hurriedly hand the duck to him, give him our gold watch and chain, and ask him what he would like to have for Christmas.

PLAINT OF POETIC POVERTY.

Twenty-eight, and nothing done!
What can be the matter here?
Nothing ventured, nothing won,
Twenty-eight, and nothing done;
Not a single strophe spun
Brings me in a sou a year;
Twenty-eight, and nothing done;
What can be the matter here?

Chapmen of the gilded rhyme,
Dotty Parker, Ogden Nash,
Will you spare a moment's time,
Chapmen of the gilded rhyme
Point me out the magic chime
Ringing in the welcome cash;
Chapmen of the gilded rhyme,
Be, for just a moment, rash!

Shade of Aristophanes,
Lurking near the sanctum door,
Do you never yearn to please,
Shade of Aristophanes,
With a jest from off the lees
Of your bubbling wit, once more?
Shade of Aristophanes,
I'm receptive—let it pour!

Ere the swift descending sun
Sheds away his final spark,
Leave me not as I've begun,
Twenty-eight, and nothing done—
Give me just a glimmer—one,
Two, or three, before I'm stark,
And the low descending sun
Long has left me—in the dark!

WE BREATHE AGAIN! Everything is all right. The sun is shining. Life is once more worth living. We expressed a sickening fear the other night that something was wrong with the Democratic party because it had just issued a bulletin in which it stated the Democrats would only carry forty-five states in November. And there are forty-eight states. What, were the Democrats laying down! But yesterday Mr. Farley, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, said Mr. Roosevelt would carry forty-eight states, and that's all there is, there isn't any more! So then the choice of Mr. Roosevelt will be unanimous! God's in his heaven, all's well with the world!

"ONTARIO to Cut Whisky Prices Beginning Nov. 1."—Headline. We hoped that would help us a little, but Max the Bootlegger says he'll have to charge us fifty cents more a pint because the lower price in Canada makes a heavier demand up there for local consumption and consequently harder for him to get his orders filled. Aren't bootleggers wonderful!

"STIMSON TALKS Direct by Radiophone to Peru."—La Trib. Clever Mr. Stimson. No sooner does Manchuria or some other place stop speaking to him but he turns right around in his office, goes over to the map, shuts his eyes, and sticks out his thumb. "All right," he says, "then I'll talk to the place my finger's on." This time it was Peru. And when Peru gets a mad on at him then he'll just hunt up another country. It's wonderful to have a sunny nature like that.

A SCIENTIFIC EXPEDITION outfitted at the cost of many thousands of dollars is going to the island of Mauritius in the Indian ocean to search for fossilized remains of the long extinct Dodo. And yet Dodoes once were so common that the natives in Mauritius used to chase 'em away with a club. Which just shows that if you wait too long things that are plentiful today will be all gone tomorrow. Now is the time to get hold of a few genuine rarin' tearin' original Bone Dry prohibitionists before they become as extinct as the Dodo.

"VISION RUBBER WHEELS to Silent Street Cars."—Headline. That's a very pleasant vision, but the chief objection we have against the wheels in use today is that the dinged things are square. While waiting for the new rubber wheels it would be very nice if the iron wheels were made round, as the square wheels jolt terribly and are extremely noisy.

INDIAN REMEDIES.

OUTSIDE the cities the people still have considerable faith in Indian medicines. In these sections of the country there are still a good many persons who buy and take medicines sold under supposed Indian names, and with labels that state that the medicine is compounded in accordance with recipes obtained from the Indians.

Most of these medicines are given Indian names that no Indian ever heard of. Most of them contain medicines that the Indians never used—in fact, never heard of. The people who compound them never saw an Indian in the wild state and did not obtain the recipes they use from Indians, either directly or indirectly. The names and statements on the label are merely sales talk, hooey, bunk—put together for the purpose of trading on an accepted notion.

When the remedies were launched the notion prevailed that because the Indian lived in the woods or open spaces he must have captured most of nature's secrets. There is still some sale because even yet the notion is adhered to by some people.

The fact is, the Indian knew almost nothing of drugs and medicines. The so-called Indian medicine was about nine parts preacher and one part physician. Most of his ministrations were spiritual and psychic. He used sweats and some little other physical therapy to a limited degree and, to even a more limited degree, the healers—some of whom went by titles other than medicine men—used a few teas.

The Indians had few diseases to treat and those they had they treated poorly at best. Probably they had a great deal of diarrheas and digestive disturbances. They may have had typhoid fever and certainly they had some diseases due to bacteria akin to the typhoid bacillus. They had a low birth rate, and their families were small, their children were far apart in years, their villages never overflowed with young people, and their population increased but slowly. Their death rates were high and the average length of life was short. They moved about a great deal. Shifting locations took the place of sanitation and living in small, isolated communities took the place of prevention. Neglect of the sick and weaklings, stoicism, and fatalism took the place of a science and art of cure.

The Indian had but little curiosity and, in consequence, he discovered but little. In the countries he occupied there were many plants containing powerful physiologic principles, but he made very little medicinal use of them. We might cite tobacco, nightshade, phytolacca, snakeroot, poison ivy, sumac, wormseed, foxglove, datura, and the green areas in Irish potatoes that have matured in the ground. He grew corn and, therefore, ergot was plentiful enough.

Yet the Indians used but very few of these. Being almost without inventiveness when he used a drug, he employed no method of preparation except the crude one of making a tea.

Many city people have faith in church medicines because they are said to be such. In a general way, what is said of Indian medicines applies to those sold as Chinese.

UNDERHUNG JAW.

W. L. H. writes: What is the cause of an underhung jaw? I have been told this is a gland irregularity, but would like your opinion.

REPLY.

I presume you mean a month in which the lower teeth lack a good deal of "biting" with the forward upper teeth. Other names are "an chin," "receding chin," and the names that the orthodontists have for it. The rule is that the lower teeth do not bite quite as far to the front as do the upper, but you are asking about a great exaggeration of this. It is caused by an insufficient development in the under jaw. It may be congenital, but usually it is not. It is the program for growth of this jaw that is faulty or that is interfered with. This program may be interfered with by accident or a severe illness, perhaps rickets, congenital syphilis, or by hydrocephalus. I do not know of any gland irregularity that causes it. However, disease of the pituitary gland may cause the opposite condition.

WHY THE HIGHBALLS!

P. J. writes: A 21 year old girl has a tendency to "pass out" every time she partakes of one or two highballs. At times she is "out" one to two hours. We usually rub ice on her face and rub her hands. Sometimes we moisten a piece of tissue paper and put it over her nose. None of these methods is effective. I would like to have your opinion on these two ways of reviving a person and any additional advice would be greatly appreciated.

REPLY.

You need no opinion as to the methods tried. I suggest that she try passing up highballs. Had she thought of that?

ANGINA PECTORIS.

V. E. S. writes: What is the treatment of angina pectoris?

REPLY.

Angina pectoris is a very serious disorder. Have your physician examine your heart carefully and advise you how to live. He will tell you what exercise to take, when to stop, what to eliminate from your diet and drinking, and what medicine to take, if any.

TAX TITLE.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If I buy a piece of property for taxes and after two years I get a tax title [1] can the owner redeem this property at any time, or is there a limit as to when it can be redeemed? 2. If the owner does redeem this property does he have to pay for any improvements put on the property? 3. If I wish to sell this property after two years, can I give a clear title to it? F. V. C.

1. He cannot redeem after two years have expired and a tax deed has issued.

2. We would not advise you to put in improvements merely in reliance on a tax deed.

3. Not on the bare facts stated. If you contemplate purchasing a tax title we advise you to employ an attorney.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 19, 1916.

LONDON.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Athens says the Greek government has protested to neutral powers against the manner of application of allied police control in Athens on the ground that it constitutes a serious violation of the sovereign rights of Greece. This follows the action of the Greek government yesterday in appealing to the American government. The Greek provisional government has opened negotiations with the United States, says a dispatch from Athens to the Exchange Telegraph company, to secure freedom of action in recruiting Greeks in America.

LONDON.—Fighting continues on both the Transylvanian and Macedonian fronts in the Balkans. Bucharest reports that the drive by the Austrians has been stopped and that the Rumanian troops in the Predeal region southwest of Kronstadt have resumed the offensive and are forcing back the Teutonic forces on the Transylvanian side of the border. Sofia, Vienna and Berlin reports simply state "there has been no change." On the Macedonian front the Serbians east of Monastir have gained according to the Serbian official report issued in Saloniki.

PARIS.—The official communication issued by the French war office tonight reads: "North of the Somme we completed the conquest of the village of Sailly-Saillisel and drove the enemy from the ridges northwest and northeast of the village. South of the Somme the first German line was carried with a rush on the whole front between Maisonette and Biaches. In these two attempts we took 250 prisoners, including five officers, and also several machine guns. On the remainder of the front the usual artillery actions occurred."

BERLIN.—French attacks in the region of Morval and Rancourt, north of the River Somme, were repulsed yesterday after hard fighting, says the official statement by the German army headquarters staff. British and French attacks near Thiepval, Courcelette, and Bouchavesnes also failed. On both sides of Eaucourt l'Abbaye the German fire reduced the British attack to failure at the outset. North of the Somme artillery bombardment was intense. The French have forced their way into Sailly-Saillisel, where fighting is still in progress.

ROME.—Italian troops on Mount Pasubio, in the Trentino, yesterday broke the last Austro-Hungarian lines of resistance in the region between Cosmagnon and Roite, says the Italian official statement, and stormed the Austrian lines north of the summit of Pasubio.

BERLIN.—On the western bank of the Narayuvka river, southwest of Herbutov, in Galicia, German troops yesterday stormed a Russian point of support, says the German official statement. The Germans captured two officers, 305 men and twelve machine guns.

CHICAGO.—The United States is confronted with a wheat famine, and consequently a bread famine. This was the prediction of experts yesterday following sensational advances in the price of wheat and flour. The price of wheat jumped 10 cents per bushel on the speculative market over the price of Oct. 16. Flour went up 75 cents a barrel. The big bakers announced that in addition to the recent increases in the price of bread they would have to make further advances unless something unforeseen lowers the price of flour.

A REALLY WICKED CITY.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 13.—So Chicago is a big, bad, bold city, is it?

I left your so-called city of vice three weeks ago and came to Indianapolis on business. Since then I have taken in a few picture shows. Was I surprised? I should say so! "No children allowed" signs in front of show places are unknown. It makes no difference what the theme of the presentation may be. Neither is there any cutting out of so-called offensive language which sometimes creeps into the dialogue. The best picture that I have seen this year was "Scarface," shown here about two weeks ago. This picture was not permitted to be shown in any Chicago house. Besides this the show-going population of the Indiana capital keeps three burlesque houses running.

So Chicago is a big, bad, bold city, is it? Razzberries! J. C. H.

CHEAPER COAL.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—The letter from Mr. Wilson of Palisades Park, Mich., quoted a coal dealer of his state who said he could sell coal at 50 cents a ton cheaper if shipped by the Illinois waterway.

This is just another statement from a merchant without facts or figures to back it up. Coal from Indiana mines, for instance, would have to be moved down the Ohio to Cairo, then up the Mississippi and Illinois to Lake Michigan through the canal. With all this travel and time how could it be sold cheaper? And remember, the Ohio does not flow next to the mines, so it would have to be moved by rail to the river. Even if it could be moved cheaper to the dealer we must consider the millions of dollars of taxpayers' money that was spent to make the river navigable.

The coal merchants have had a chance already to sell their product at a lower rate because the miners are working at a lower wage scale, but did they?

All merchants are in favor of any plan that will make the taxpayers pay a part of their transportation bill.

IN THE PHILIPPINES.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Perhaps J. G.'s letter which appeared in your column today was prompted by his utter lack of knowledge of the conditions in the Moro land or he would not have the audacity to suggest what policy should best be pursued by the Filipino officials in dealing with Moro banditry in Mindanao and in the Sulus.

If Moro fanatics who commit wholesale murder and rape cannot be brought to justice by the constituted local authorities with the aid of the Filipino constabulary, which, by the way, is officered by Americans, the Filipinos would have more reason to ask the conscience of the world for an apology.

ROOSEVELT AS TAX SPENDER.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Your first editorial of today suggests that Roosevelt's four year record as governor of New York should be used by the side it will help.

Perhaps you yourselves might be greatly helped, in view of the heavy taxes you pay, if that record as indicated in a chart which appeared in the Oct. 10 issue (page 24) of Barron's Financial Weekly is correct.

In case you have not seen this chart, it brings out in graphic form these figures: Under Al Smith in 1918 and 1919 the state budget jumped from 81 million to 143 million dollars per year. Gov. Miller, Republican, during the next two years reduced it by 11 millions. Al Smith again went in and in 6 years ('22 to '27 inclusive) it jumped up some 99 millions. Then came Franklin D. Roosevelt, and in his first three years, '28, '29, and '30, the state budget leaped ahead another 95 million.

Barron's comments as follows: "In his Sioux City speech last week Roosevelt denounced the Hoover administration as a spending administration and said, 'I ask you to assign to me the task of reducing the annual operating expenses of the national government.'"

MORTON C. RINFORD.

A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 14.—Tuesday evening, Oct. 11, the radio announcer over W-G-N station, in reading headlines, stated that the Rock Island Argus was a Republican paper.

The above announcement no doubt had reference to an editorial in THE TRIBUNE of Wednesday, Oct. 12, which states, among other things, that the Argus of Rock Island is a Republican newspaper and that it has in forceful editorial utterances made clear to its readers its preference for Judge Horner.

Being a subscriber of THE TRIBUNE, and also of the Argus, which is our only newspaper, I wish to advise you that the Rock Island Argus is and always has been a Democratic paper.

Unless your paper is prejudiced against Len Small, I believe that you should correct the editorial, as it is understood that THE TRIBUNE is a Republican paper. LEE ROY DEHLER, Secretary Rock Island County Republican Central Committee.

AT MACOMB.

Macomb, Ill., Oct. 14.—Len Small spoke to a small crowd here last night and one or two people had their pockets picked. Perhaps it will teach them to leave their money at home when they go in such company.

Len Small as a candidate for governor is an insult to the people of Illinois. We will resent that insult in November.

AVERAGE INCOME OF PHYSICIANS IS $5,300 FOR YEAR

Annual U. S. Doctor Bill Billion Dollars.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Although the American people spent more than one billion dollars for medical services in the boom year of 1929, the average income of 100,000 physicians was only $5,300, Dr. Michael M. Davis of Chicago, medical director of the Julius Rosenwald fund, told members of the Monroe County Medical society here tonight.

DR. MICHAEL M. DAVIS. [Bussell Photo.]

Reporting the result of a research into the cost of medical care in the United States, Dr. Davis said that the average net income of physicians with general practices was less than $4,000 for the year studied. The total income of 70,000 general practitioners was less than that of 30,000 specialists in the United States, who averaged in excess of $10,000 a year, the doctor said.

Expenses Heavy.

"Professional expenses eat up 40 per cent or more of the physician's gross earnings so that every dollar he takes in from his patients, he has only 60 cents or less for himself," Dr. Davis said. "Group practice, such as some physicians are now carrying on, is shown to cut his 40 per cent in half, or nearly half, with saving to both doctors and patients.

"Before the depression the people of the United States spent three and a half billion dollars yearly for physicians, dentists, nurses, hospitals, public health work, medicines, healers, and minor practitioners. This was less than 4 per cent of the national income. Five times that amount was spent by the people for articles of luxury or comfort."

Burden Falls Unevenly.

Dr. Davis said that the costs of medical care are a burden because they fall unevenly and cannot be predicted. The city family with an income of less than $2,000—into which group half of these families fall—spends about $75 a year for all forms of medical care, the doctor said.

He pointed out that the average figure means little because three-fifths of all sickness expenditures falls on one-fifth of the families each year. Approximately 5 per cent of the families of this income class are faced with sickness bills which eat up from one-eighth to one-quarter of the annual income, Dr. Davis said.

Florist Celebrates Fiftieth Year

GROUND BROKEN FOR NEW PAVING IN ASHLAND AVE.

Ground was broken yesterday for the paving of Ashland avenue from Cortland street to Elston avenue, through the new subway under the North Western railroad tracks which was finished last week by the city at a cost of $900,000.

Ald. Joseph P. Rostenkowski [32d] turned the first spadeful of earth and the event was celebrated by civic associations on the northwest side which have been seeking the improvement since 1923. The county is paying for the street improvement out of its highway fund and the pavement will be turned over to the state highway department for maintenance, since Ashland avenue is part of state route 49.

The completion of the pavement and subway will permit traffic bound for the northwest side to proceed directly along Ashland and Elston avenues, avoiding twenty-seven street intersections which must now be passed on the zigzag route which leaves Ashland avenue at Cortland street and reaches Fullerton avenue at Leavitt street. Eventually business interests in the district hope to persuade the state to construct a bridge carrying Ashland avenue over the north branch of the river, opening it to through traffic to the north side.

Uses Old Surrey

August Lange, loop florist, celebrated his 50th year in business yesterday by driving a surrey with which he delivered flowers years ago. Many old customers and friends called at the shop at 63 East Monroe street to congratulate him. Mr. Lange, who lives at 429 Wellington avenue, got his start in the floral business as a wrapping clerk and delivery boy. Since then he has sold flowers to some of Chicago's best known families.

PLAN TO IMPLANT RADIUM IN BRAIN TO TREAT TUMOR

2 Chicago Surgeons Tell of Experiments.

St. Louis, Mo. Oct. 18.—(AP)—Treatment of brain tumors by direct implantation of radium into the human brain, without harm to the patient, was predicted to the clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons here tonight.

In reporting experimental and clinical study of intracranial tumors which could not be removed by surgery, Dr. Loyal Davis and Dr. Max Cutler of Chicago related how their research with brains of animals established a safe and effective method of treatment.

Needles containing radium element were implanted in animal's brains for periods of 24 hours to three weeks. Microscopic studies then made upon these brains showed the possibility of using the element without injury to normal brain cells.

Dr. Davis and Dr. Cutler emphasized that exposure of the growth for too short a period failed to produce a maximum destructive effect upon the tumor cells, while exposure for too long a time brought about a state of radio-immunity.

They expressed the hope future experiments would show that radium thus implanted, could be the means of successfully treating malignant cancers of the brain as well as tumors.

VICTIM BEATEN, 25 ARE ROBBED, IN $1,900 HOLDUP

One man was beaten and twenty-five other persons, including employés and patrons, were threatened when five armed bandits invaded the offices of the United Wholesale Grocery, Inc., 1200 Randolph street, yesterday and stole $1,900. All the victims were lined up against a wall and a number of them searched. These victims lost $400. Miss Minerva Steinberg of 3333 Washington boulvard, the cashier, gave up $1,500 in company receipts. Ben Bagus, 3912 Argyle street, a salesman, was slugged when he joshed one of the robbers in the belief the holdup was a joke.

HELD BY POLICE AFTER HE RUNS WILD WITH GUN

Frank Douglas, 43 years old, 1130 South Elgin avenue, Forest Park, who said he is business agent of Local 719 of the teamster's union, was held on charges of carrying concealed weapons and on two counts of assault with intent to kill after running amuck with a revolver early yesterday on the west side.

Policemen arrested Douglas at Madison and Paulina streets as he was shooting at passing motorists. Shortly afterward Arthur Mulehler, 1393 Maypole avenue, a friend of Douglas, appeared at the Des Plaines street police station with a wound in his scalp. He said it was inflicted by a stray bullet, but police charged Douglas with inflicting it. A few minutes later Miss Margie Kinst, waitress in a restaurant at 1721 Madison street, appeared and charged Douglas with slugging her with his revolver butt when she refused to make a date with him.

"I fell off the water wagon yesterday for the first time in five months," Douglas told Sergt. Frank Ballou when he was examined at the detective bureau. "I don't remember what happened, but I guess I'm lucky not to be charged with murder."

FALLING SLATE KILLS MAN.

Canton, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—August Lundquist, 50, was killed today by the fall of slate in the Bordner coal mine near Lewistown. He was badly crushed and lived only a short time after reaching a local hospital.

EMPLOYE WHO STOLE $31,000 IS SENT TO PRISON

CRIMINAL COURT

Edward Idzikowski, crime against children, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Herbert Chandler, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; John Harris and Preston Brace, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; John Salazor, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John Prystalski.

Leslie Riley, 34 years old, 7100 South Shore drive, was sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court for embezzlement of $31,000 from the Cadillac Motor Car company, 2301 South Michigan avenue.

Riley, a former assistant cashier, pleaded guilty and said he obtained the money by making out fraudulent pay vouchers and cashing them himself.

Asked if he had anything to say, Riley told Judge Prystalski: "It would do no good for me to say anything. I have pleaded guilt and am ready to go to the penitentiary." At the time of his arrest Riley said the money, taken over a period of three years, was spent for fine clothing, good books, music, opera and expensive automobiles.

SANFORD COONS IS RELEASED IN SHOOTING CASE

Sanford F. Coons, 60 years old, retired manufacturer of cosmetics, was discharged yesterday by Judge Frank Padden on a charge of assault to kill a private detective employed by his wife, Mrs. Lillian M. Coons, 44 years old. Coons was arrested on Sept. 22 after he had shot Humphrey W. Falls, the detective, in the Coons home at 6815 Winchester avenue.

Judge Padden commented on the "remarkable forbearance" shown by Coons, and ruled that the detective had no right in the home. The detective was installed, testimony showed, after Mrs. Coons had obtained an injunction to restrain her husband from molesting her. Coons testified that he countenanced the arrangement for two days and then ordered Falls out. Coons said he shot the detective when he refused to go.

Falls testified that he departed when ordered out by Coons and was shot as he departed. Coons has a bill for divorce and his wife has a separate maintenance suit pending in the Superior court.

Sylvia Bell, 6 years old, 3445 West 13th place, was fatally injured last evening when she fell from the top of a slide in the Lawson playground at 13th street and Homan avenue. She died in Mount Sinai hospital of a skull fracture.

DEDICATE NEW HOSPITAL FOR HEART CASES

La Rabida Sanitarium to Treat Children.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A low stone building on a point jutting into the lake at 67th street, was dedicated yesterday to the children of Chicago who are sufferers from heart disease. It is the new La Rabida Jackson park sanitarium, a replica of the old La Rabida building of the 1893 World's Fair, which was a reproduction of the famous hotel at Palos, Spain, where Columbus planned his voyage leading to the discovery of America.

Two hundred or more persons gathered on the windy point to witness the sealing of the cornerstone and to inspect the sanitarium room by room. On Friday 30 children afflicted with heart disease are to enter the place for treatment.

Thomason Heads Ceremony.

S. E. Thomason, publisher, and chairman of the building committee, had charge of the ceremonies. He introduced Mrs. Louis T. Orr, president of the sanitarium board, who placed in the cornerstone historical documents. These included a list of donors, clippings from Chicago newspapers, year books of the organization, and the first quarter to be minted in 1932.

Mrs. Harry R. Kurrie, past president; Dr. Robert A. Black, medical director of the sanitarium, and Miss Edna L. Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurse association; Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, and Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, praised the work of the women in bringing about the erection of a sanitarium devoted to cardiacs.

Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive secretary of the Chicago Heart association, stressed the importance of understanding the cause of heart disease. Between 75 and 90 per cent of those who die of heart disease before 40 years of age had rheumatic fever in their childhood, she said.

Carries on Work.

The building will carry on the activities of the 1893 structure, which was later operated as a hospital for poor children by Senor Staud y Simmenez, Spanish consul in Chicago at that time. In 1896 the work was taken up by south side women. The building was destroyed by fire during the world war. In 1929 the women incorporated and raised funds for the new building, which cost approximately $300,000.

Today various women's clubs and church groups will visit the building and tomorrow men's organizations and the medical profession will be received.

Actress Loses Her Suit for Damages of $100,000

A jury in the Superior court of Judge Paul McWilliams yesterday returned a verdict in favor of the White Construction company, defendant in a $100,000 personal injury suit started by Miss Anabelle Larsen, 29 years old, of 1019 North Dearborn street. Miss Larsen, an actress, testified that she suffered hip and knee injuries by tripping in a hole in the ground where the company was working at Dearborn and Division streets. Her counsel asked for a new trial.

Maine Town Votes to Lift Legal Ban on Automobiles

Islesboro, Me., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—By a vote of 145 to 115 this rocky island, ten miles off the mainland, took a step today toward losing the distinction of being the only place along the Atlantic seaboard where automobiles are banned by law. In the largest town meeting on record the natives voted to ask the legislature to repeal the act that bars automotive transportation. The decision was not left to a viva voce vote nor to a show of hands, as ballots had been prepared and each citizen marked his choice.

HIGH HAT CLUB IN NEW YORK IS RAIDED BY DRYS

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Park Avenue club, one of the most luxuriously appointed restaurants in the city, was raided tonight by federal prohibition agents. The place formerly was operated by Belle Livingstone as her "Salon of Culture, Wit and Bonhomie" and as such was raided several times in 1930 and 1931. Miss Livingstone was sentenced to 30 days in jail on a contempt charge last year for operating the place in defiance of a dry law injunction.

Since September of last year the establishment has been conducted by George Lamaze, owner of the Patio Lamaze at Palm Beach, Fla., a well known society rendezvous.

The club operates a four story building on 58th street between Park and Lexington avenues. A prohibition agent gained admittance tonight with a membership card and then walked to the door and admitted several other agents.

Some 30 men and women patrons were directed to pay their checks and leave. Whether any persons were arrested could not be learned immediately.

Illinois Slayer to Die in Electric Chair Next Dec. 16

Belleville, Ill., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Charles L. Winchester, 25, is to die in the electric chair at the southern Illinois penitentiary Dec. 16 for the murder of Emil Kirsch, a barber, during the robbery of an East St. Louis drug store last June. The date for Winchester's execution was fixed in Circuit court yesterday. Melvin Watson, who also was found guilty of the murder was sentenced to serve 99 years.

Police Dog Runs Bandit Into Arms of Patrolmen

A police dog assisted in the capture of an armed bandit last night. The robber, Stanley Bucca, 32 years old, of 1350 Holt street, held up John Beres in the latter's restaurant at 1546 Augusta boulevard, and robbed him of $6. As he started to flee, Beres' dog pursued him. The chase was stopped by Policemen Grover Crabtree and George Scholz, of the Racine avenue station, who seized the bandit.

TWO INDICTED IN MORTON GROVE BANK FAILURE

The grand jury yesterday voted true bills against two men, one of them a former cashier, who are alleged to have misappropriated funds of the defunct Morton Grove Trust and Savings bank. Ernest Kruse, the former cashier, was named in two bills charging embezzlement and making a false report to the bank examiner.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers charges Kruse reduced his liability to the bank from $5,050 to $3,050 in making the bank statement report in January, 1931. The second true bill is based on the charge that Kruse arbitrarily credited $1,200 of the bank's money to the account of an automobile company to cover the purchase of an automobile.

The other true bill charging forgery names Otto W. Stangohr of Niles Center, who also was named in previous indictments. It is charged that he defrauded the bank out of $3,835.

Hit that COLD a Knock-Out Blow!

Don't Merely Tap It!

Many cold remedies merely tap a cold. They don't "put it out for keeps." That's why colds keep coming back and why they often develop into something serious. A cold should be knocked out "cold" and not merely played with.

A Cold Calls for a COLD Remedy!

A cold (or grippe) calls for a COLD remedy and nothing else. A preparation that's good for half a dozen things besides colds simply can't be as efficacious a cold remedy as you want. Many popular preparations taken for colds are really worse than taking nothing at all because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

A cold calls for internal treatment because a cold is an internal infection. Local or external applications at best are only temporary relief. They don't reach the seat of the trouble and they don't prevent the infection spreading within the system.

Every requirement of a cold remedy is met in Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It is distinctly a cold remedy. It is internal medication and it does the several things necessary to kill a cold. First, it opens the bowels, gently but effectively—the first step necessary in relieving a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it tones the entire system which is the final touch in expelling a cold and which also fortifies against further attack.

Thus, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is quick relief — thorough relief—complete relief. Anything less is only temporizing with the cold and inviting serious complications.

The use of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine imposes no penalties. It is non-narcotic and absolutely safe to take. It produces no bad after-effects — does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim. It acts swiftly, effectively, but harmlessly. It is, and has been for years, the standard cold remedy in practically every civilized country on the globe.

Make it YOUR Safeguard!

At the first sign of a cold, turn to Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. A few of the tablets taken in time will usually expel a cold overnight and thus avoid the danger of the infection settling in your system. Every drug store in America sells Grove's Bromo Quinine in handy, pocket size boxes, cellophane-wrapped.

Why do so many women endure Constipation? It's so easy to correct!

WOMEN'S HEADACHES, backaches, etc., are usually due to one commonplace evil, doctors find—CONSTIPATION! To correct it specialists recommend Fleischmann's Yeast.

TODAY eminent physicians agree that of all bodily ailments one is by far the most prevalent . . . the most depressing. Constipation!

If you are conscious of lack of energy, headaches, dizziness, a listless run-down condition, it is more than possible that you are suffering from constipation . . . from poisons given off when food wastes are held in the body too long!

Now don't think this calls for taking a cathartic—a harsh, destructive laxative. Nothing so surely tends to aggravate constipation as constant "dosing" with drugs and pills.

To correct constipation gently, naturally, famous doctors almost universally recommend a simple fresh food remedy, Fleischmann's Yeast!

Eaten regularly, three cakes a day, Fleischmann's Yeast "tones" and strengthens your intestines: It softens the wastes—fosters normal secretions—stimulates—purifies. In short, it restores normal "regularity" by entirely natural means.

If you haven't tried Fleischmann's Yeast, do so at once! It will bring back healthy appetite—good digestion—renewed strength. It will help—amazingly—to clear up your skin.

All grocers have Fleischmann's Yeast—also restaurants and soda fountains, and every cake is rich in vitamins B, G and D. Directions are on the label.

Strife of Old, New in Japan Theme of Book

Conflict Is Reflected in Life of Girl.

"A Daughter of the Narikin," by Etsu Inagaki Sugimoto. [Doubleday-Doran.]

"The Longest Night," by Kenneth Horan. [Daryl C. Doran.]

THE author of "A Daughter of the Narikin" has written in this novel a lovely, delicately tinted pastel of life in modern Japan. It tells the story of Japanese society, the more conventional members still clinging to the ancient traditions of Japanese history and the more liberal ones looking westward for new ideals and customs. This conflict present in the inner as well as the outer life of the characters forms the background for a tender and poignant love story.

Yukiko is the beautiful pensive young daughter of a narikin or a merchant (the word is applied in somewhat the same manner that we use it in "the new rich") who has gained enormous wealth from dealing in curios and investing the profits in stocks. The second wife of the narikin is the snobbish daughter of a viscount. She is extremely anxious that the charming Yukiko marry into the nobility. Yukiko loves Masao Ikeda, the son of the housekeeper, but she is too filial and conventional a child to think of going against her parents' wishes. Her marriage to Minoru, the spoiled and extravagant son of a nobleman, is solemnized and her troubles begin.

Out of the clear sharp narrative comes the picture of misspent lives lost in futility and coincidences that darken the tragic shadows. Yet the tone of the novel is not tragic nor bitter. It is rather one of gentle sadness like slow falling rain.

The enchantment of foreign places is in every page of "A Daughter of the Narikin." Japan, one of the most beautiful of eastern countries, with its exquisite, almost unreal scenery, its age-old customs, the beauty and impressiveness of its ceremonies is made immediate and near by the author's delicate perception and nostalgic writing.

There are scenes laid in New York describing the Japanese colony there which gives the author a chance to present another aspect of the Japanese people, their relationship to other nationalities. Though "A Daughter of the Narikin" is not a powerful study in characterization nor a compelling philosophic comment on an oriental race, it has the beauty and fineness of restrained and simple writing, the charm of straightforward narrative and a brilliant and effective communication of atmosphere and mood.

Kenneth Horan Writes Novel

"The Longest Night" by Kenneth Horan was published yesterday. The author of this book was born in Concordia, the locale of her novel, though she received her early education in Chicago. After traveling abroad where she studied languages in Vienna she returned to Chicago to live. Mrs. Horan is at present literary editor of the Journal of Commerce. Among her published books are several children's stories and an anthology of travel verse, "Parnassus en Route." "The Longest Night" is Mrs. Horan's first novel.

"The Longest Night" concerns the experiences of a young girl torn by the desire to become famous and the equally urgent wish to find happiness in commonplace contentment. For ten years she answers the call of her genius, creating a sensation in artistic circles both in this country and abroad. She is dined and wined by celebrities in all fields and experiences temporary satisfaction. David, her old sweetheart from her home town, meets her again and subjects her to his strong and possessive personality.

She willingly sacrifices her career to her love for David, though she knows that he cannot marry her—since he is already married—and senses that he cares more for his future in politics than he does for any living soul. Finally her realization of his selfishness suddenly breaks upon her. For the moment she is bewildered and broken, having lost her career and love. The most dramatic scene in the novel comes when she spends the longest night out in the fields, torn by desperation, struggling to find her way out without committing suicide.

This particular triangle—man, woman, and career—is becoming more and more significant in contemporary literature. "The Longest Night," written in simple, direct, if undistinguished prose, with the emphasis on the expository method of narration, if not a new interpretation of an increasingly tragic situation is at least a modern and an interesting one. Pedestal Bears Reserved Sign for Mortal Man

Vain to Knock Him Off, Says Doris.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Man seems to think that he was born on a pedestal and it is there that you heart column conductors, all of you, aim to keep him. Everything I have read in the last year has been in the man's favor. He is portrayed as a patient, suffering, naturally harmony loving individual driven—and get that DRIVEN—into another woman's arms.

"It almost makes me laugh. And would but for the plight so many worthy wives find themselves in. How do you column conductors get that way, an army of us wives would like to know? MRS. DOUBLE X."

Perhaps because we column conductors realize it's a man's world, and, being so, he might just as well be allowed to occupy the pedestal. Letting him pose up there, worthy of the place of distinction or not, seems to be about the best paying job for women columnists to observe. And we do observe a lot of life, you know. It's our business. Besides, we are permitted countless numbers of personal confidences—from so-called successful women who have tried to knock the gentleman off his pedestal; from women who have tried to get him to move over and share it; from women, like yourself, "Mrs. Double X," who are fighting mad over the "injustice" of the elevated post, and from women who are happily resigned to letting the man have his exalted place in their sun. Providing they do not become too abject as worshipers, our belief is that the latter group manages the largest amount of personal happiness of all.

True, we believe with you that all men are not patient, long-suffering victims. We believe that some of them are pretty ornery critters to have to live with. And that all wives are not guilty of driving husbands into other womens' arms. But we do hold that there is no tie so strong to bind him as pedestaling the gentleman. That's exactly what the woman does into whose arms he is "driven." It's to be pedestaled he goes asearching!

Better be a philosopher about life and its "injustices," "Mrs. Double X." Some of them can't be cured.

Winter Sports Clothes Flaunt Striped Details

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The end of fashion's craze for stripes is nowhere in sight. French fabric makers are turning out striped woolens by the thousands of yards, and can't get enough to satisfy the demands of the dressmakers. There are many sports suits, made entirely of finely striped woolens, to be seen around Paris, but the preferred method is to apply striped details like vests, scarfs, and blouses to the plain sports outfit.

Anent the kind of stripes used, every kind is seen. The most popular striped materials for pepping up sports clothes, however, are those that have both big and little stripes in their pattern, like the material of the vestee and scarf on the Heim sports frock shown in our sketch today.

This is a frock of rough red-brown woolen, with a slim skirt having two panel gores in the back, and a little encrusted apron in front. The blouse has sleeves that are flared a bit above elbow length fitted cuffs, and caps at the sleeve tops give a rounded shoulder line. There is a vestee of brown, green and orange striped jersey, over which a striped scarf is crossed and buttoned. The belt is also of striped jersey bordered with plain brown wool.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Storm windows effect a considerable reduction in fuel bills—from 10 per cent to 15 per cent if the house has no other insulation, while if the dwelling is insulated and weather stripped the fuel saving runs much higher. So great indeed is the reduction in heat loss that your storm sash will pay for itself in a comparatively short time. Winter windows which help to eliminate unpleasant frosting may be secured from glass, lumber, or material companies. LOUISE BARGELT.

New Gleaming Gold Coiffures Gain Followers

Make the World Appear a Different Place.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

NOTHING creates a greater disturbance wherever eager clothes hounds collect than the exciting news about tricky ways to dress curls, bangs, and the entire coiffures. From grandma and her pals gossiping around a pot of tea to the giddy young gadabouts with serious thoughts concerning the proper length of a fringe of bangs or the bob itself, more time is cheerfully accorded coiffure conversation than politics, politicians, and shriveled budgets.

And how the best pioneers are going to chatter about a new invention, freshly released for all adventurous souls who gamely try out all these clever new ideas sponsored by inspired dreamers.

Quite literally one might insist that the fashion wise shoppers are gilding their crowning glory . . . for now you can have your usual shampoo, a finger wave, a marcel, and then watch the nimble, expert fingers of experienced operators brush glittering powder over the waves with some perfectly gorgeous results. For instance . . . a gilt powder is mixed with the proper liquid and then brushed carefully over the exquisitely waved head of a blonde, causing every single hair on the head to glitter with a lovely golden sheen that is almost indescribable . . . your towheads will look like lovely heroines out of a story book, wearing a golden shining, skull smooth coiffure that looks like a cap of molten gold.

The most alluring silver shimmer can be brushed into the graying hair . . . a stunning silver halo, achieved with silver powder combined with the same liquid is brushed in a lustreless head of gray hair and a lovely patrician charm is the result. Until you have seen this silver sheen reflected in deep brown eyes, or lighting an unquenchable gleam in blue eyes, or accenting the subtle gray eyes, you have seen nothing.

If you have the good old brown locks, with perhaps just a tinge of mahogany concealed somewhere among the curls, you will cheer rapturously for the new bronze or copper powder that is brushed over your hitherto ordinary tresses but with breathtakingly gorgeous results. Lucky possessors of this hair dressing secret have been stunned beyond speech at the beautiful reflections that sparkled in the mirror directly before them.

The most comforting thing about all this intriguing new stuff is the fact that it is absolutely harmless to hair, hat, fingers and skull, it is removable, and lasts for a week at least. You can be a sensation during any hour of the day or evening, for it glints most graciously during the daytime and sparkles and dances at night. It does agreeably nice things for you, it makes you a very interesting and shining beacon for every wandering glance, it can change the glummest, dullest wall flower into a potential guiding light of fashion and practically change the entire personality.

Even though the process reminds you rather prosaically of interior decorating spasms when you splashed the radiators with silver and gilt, if you are an enthusiastic believer in something different whenever you can manage it, try one of these "washes" and a brushing seance, and see how different the old world can be, viewed from under a glittering and very new and shiny top dressing.

Good Morning!

They're giving the lowdown as to who killed Jenny Wren on the Palace's screen, and, judging from the theater's large daily attendance, the world and his wife are immensely interested in the disclosure. "The Phantom of Crestwood" has, I understand, been running as a radio serial.

Far be it from me to give away grisly secrets in this column. Almost anybody knowing Jenny Wren MIGHT have murdered her, for Jenny was a mean lady, to love whom God must have had to strain a point.

She is struck down at a house party which she has turned into a little blackmailing orgy all her own.

Exit Jenny! And the hunt for the killer is on!

You will find "The Phantom of Crestwood" sufficiently mystifying to keep your guesser working; will be satisfied with acting and direction—in the main; will experience a couple of shocks which, while they won't turn your hair white, WILL make you feel a bit faint like, and will approve, I think, of a realistic thunderstorm that lends eeriness to events occurring on the night of the murder.

And on the stage—"Rio Rita." Somewhat condensed but still charming.

Coburg Excited Over Wedding of Princess

Royalty Gathers for the Ceremony.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

COBURG, Germany, Oct. 18.—With royal pomp Coburg, capital of the former dukedom of Saxe-Coburg, today started to celebrate the wedding of the great-granddaughter and great-great-grandson of Britain's Queen Victoria. The bride is Princess Sibylle of Saxe-Coburg, known as Princess Billy, and the bridegroom, heir to the Swedish throne, is Gustavus Adolphus, son of Sweden's crown prince.

German royalty sees a historical symbol in the wedding. Exactly 300 years ago guards of King Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden saved Coburg from pillage by the Austrian imperial forces. Now his namesake comes to Coburg to take his young bride away from a republican country back to one of the few remaining kingdoms in Europe.

Coburg is like one of those little towns you find sketched in the fairy tale books. Nestling at the foot of wooded mountains it has a proud castle, with moats and drawbridges, atop a hill rising steep in the town itself. The gabled, turreted and carved houses of the townsmen crowd around the centuries old park in which dukes of yore built an elaborate palace in the gay days when it was no longer necessary to seek retreat in the fortress on the hill.

Today the burghers of Coburg are getting out the old flags and old decorations which were used in festivals of the happy pre-war days to beautify the town in honor of the weddings of the 14 year old Princess Billy in whom they take as keen a personal interest as if there never had been a revolution.

Sixty-four princes, members of still reigning or dethorned houses, are taking in this old time atmosphere with childlike joy. Ex-Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria and his wife are being greeted by everybody as their majesties. Grand Duchess Cyril of Russia is addressed as the tsarina of Russia. Former King Ferdinand of Bulgaria is received as his majesty. They are all relatives of the bride.

The crown prince and crown princess of Sweden, parents of the bridegroom, will be present at the wedding. Duke Arthur of Connaught will represent the king of England. Adolf Hitler was to be among the guests at the wedding, but he is out campaigning for the election. He is sending the mayor of Coburg, which is a Hitlerite stronghold, as his personal representative.

Two of the kaiser's grandsons will be among the groomsmen. Prince August Wilhelm, Hitlerite son of the kaiser, will be among the chief representatives of the Hitlerites.

Despite all this royalty and pomp, the wedding presents are touching in their simplicity. Local associations and many private citizens have sent tokens of their devotion from self-embroidered doilies to china of all kinds. President Paul von Hindenburg also sent a present of candle sticks and a fruit plate from the formerly royal porcelain factory of Berlin. The district of Neustadt-Coburg sent the most original present—a wooden cradle with the double bottom filled with Coburg soil "so that the future heir to the Swedish throne could be raised on German soil."

The wedding climax is the church ceremony Thursday close to the chapel where Martin Luther used to preach when he found refuge in the castle of the ancestors of the duke of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha.

A detachment of the Reichswehr from the ducal castle will be honor guests.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By Ilion Syndicate, Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

MORALLY GUILTY.

After forcing the lock and chain on the door with a heave of his powerful shoulders, Sam Jeffries stood horrified as he saw his sister's body lying face down on the rug.

Half an hour later Prof. Fordney was examining the one room apartment while Jeffries nervously paced the floor as he told of his discovery.

"Got her right throught the heart," said Sergt. Reynolds, turning the girl's body over. As he stood in the light examining the revolver with which she had been killed he noticed the windows offered no means of entrance. The distracted brother was hysterically swearing vengeance on his sister's murderer.

"I know who did this, professor," he shouted. "Ben Martin threatened to kill her if she didn't marry him and now he's done it!"

"Not Martin the gangster!"

"Yes. We didn't know about him until recently. I'm going to get him."

"Just a minute," said Prof. Fordney, picking up a letter addressed to the notorious racketeer. He tore it open and read:

I am through with your threats. Having made up my own mind they no longer have the power to frighten me. If you should dare to come here again, well—you'll know what I mean. BEATRICE.

"That's enough for me," exclaimed Reynolds. "I'll go with you, Jeffries. I've been waiting for a long time to get that bird."

"'You'll know what I mean,'" repeated Fordney. "Too bad such a lovely girl should get mixed up with such a character—but you'll never pin this on him, sergeant.

John Porters Plan Wedding Trip in Plane

Will Fly to California After Rites.

BY JUDITH CASS.

MRS. Mary Alexander Brumback, or Mrs. John P. Porter, as she will be then, will wear a fur lined flying suit as a going away costume when she and Mr. Porter leave for their honeymoon, for they will fly from Kansas City, where the wedding will take place next Tuesday, to California.

They will fly in Mr. Porter's plane and all their traveling during the six weeks or two months that will elapse before they come to Chicago to live will be done in the air.

Mrs. Brumback, who has been living here at the Seneca hotel, left last night for Kansas City, where she will become the bride of the youngest son of the Henry Homes Porters at the residence of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sharon Christy of 326 Westover road, there. The service is to be read at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon and the bride will be unattended, but the bridegroom will have Ralph N. Isham, his cousin, as best man.

Mr. Porter and Mr. Isham will fly to Kansas City Saturday or Sunday, and Mr. Porter's mother and sister, Mrs. Porter and Miss Mary Porter, will go by train Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Isham and Mrs. Lucius Hill [Helen Isham], who came from Boston for the wedding of the other two Porter boys, also will go by train Monday. Mrs. Porter and Miss Porter came west from Manchester, Vt., for the three weddings in the family and have been staying out at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest after a stay at the Ambassador in town.

Miss Elinor Durbin was married to Sartell Prentice Porter on Sept. 27 in Chicago and they are hunting in Ireland now, and Miss Mary Kinney and Henry H. Porter Jr. were married on Oct. 7 in Taylorvile, Ill., and they are honeymooning in Manchester, so neither of John Porter's brothers will be at his wedding, although he was best man for both of them.

Mr. Alger is Mrs. Pike's nephew. Paul Deming also is coming from Detroit for the Saturday party for lovely Miss Dewey.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer named Tilbury as bailiff and he and his wife, an ill-bred pair, hold a strange influence over her. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister Rachel are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to look for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Her body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. The coroner's inquest is held. Murder by person or persons unknown is the verdict. The Tilburys are left Caroline's fortune, on condition they search for the Holy Grail in the ruins of an ancient abbey on the estate, which Caroline believed to be her father's wish communicated to her from beyond the grave. Miss Braselton denounces Natasha.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII.

A PERFECT ALIBI.

"Very well, I will go—but you know what it means. You must face the consequences of your own wicked behavior."

Miss Braselton came out. Neil saw her sweep past, along the narrow passage, iron faced, implacable. When she had reached the lobby below he knocked softly on the bedroom door and without waiting for an answer went in. At sight of Natasha, white and frightened, with eyes narrowed to dark slits, his heart contracted with fear.

"I caught what that woman was saying to you," he said quickly. "What infernal insolence! She can't make trouble for you, can she?"

"I don't know," she whispered with stiff lips. "If she can she will—depend on it. I am powerless to stop her."

"But that is sheer nonsense!" he cried, catching her by the arms and trying to calm her. "Come, what can she do? She had no business bullying you, of course, but if a simple explanation would put things right, why not make it and clear yourself of all blame?"

"You don't understand. I can't."

"And whose fault is it if I don't understand? My dear child, this has gone far enough—but we'll talk of that later, Rachel wants you to come over at once and hear something quite astounding. You must share the new sensation."

"I can't go there. Don't ask me."

"I can't go there. Don't ask me. What is this news?"

"Simply that your aunt has left the Tilburys practically the whole of her fortune, on condition that they search for the Holy Grail. There—how's that for a stunner?"

From the blankness with which she stared at him she did not seem to have taken in his meaning. Then all at once a feverish excitement seized her. Crimson flooded her face. She gripped his arm with fingers of steel.

"What? Caroline left her money to those slimy creatures? Then it's they who murdered her, of course! One, both of them—it doesn't matter which, but anyhow they managed it between them. O, my God! to think we could have been such fools as not to guess it!"

. . . . . .

The exasperated impression received at this interview was still strong in Neil's mind when early next morning he rang the bell at Stoke Paulton. The girl's blind ignoring of facts, her instantaneous denunciation of the Tilburys jarred upon him strangely, though it was difficult to say why.

His unspoken thought must have communicated itself to her, for he grew conscious of an additional barrier between them. She had looked at him steadily and said: "I see. You think I want to make a scapegoat of them for some reason of my own."

He had indignantly denied this, of course, but it had been impossible to hide from her the wormlike doubt which had insinuated itself into his brain. He was reluctantly forced to agree in one respect with Emily Braselton. If Natasha were in no way implicated, why did she hesitate to prove her innocence? She had behaved oddly and knew it, yet she still made no effort to reveal the underlying reasons for her conduct.

However, her instinctive certainty of the couple's guilt—if it were instinctive—made him wonder if, after all, he and the others concerned had been hasty in jumping to conclusions regarding the bailiff's illness on the night of the crime. He was here now to press an unpromising inquiry, feeling sure that if there had been anything fishy about Friday night's affair the person to know of it would be Crabbe. He meant to get hold of him at once and question him thoroughly, even though he much doubted if good would come of it.

Tilbury himself opened the door. At sight of Neil his pale eyes lit with a sort of ingenuous eagerness, but he seemed remarkably careworn and nervous for one who had just come into a large fortune.

"I was hoping you'd come, Mr. Starkey!" he began with a pleased air. "Poor Miss Bundy wouldn't want you to interrupt your work, and I needn't tell you 'er wish is law in this 'ouse, same as if she was alive. Con and me was saying last night as 'ow we wanted you to look on this place as your own. Your old room's waiting, if you'd care to occupy it."

Neil murmured thanks, saying he would stick to the existing arrangement for the present. He found it hard to tear his eyes from the band of crêpe round the bailiff's arm, and was still thinking of the odd manner in which the other's hands trembled when, abut in the study, he stationed himself by the window to watch for Crabbe to go past.

Presently he was rewarded. Raising the sash he motioned to the butler, exchanged a few whispered words with him and half an hour later was again in his car, crawling slowly along the lane at the back of the estate. Here, after a few minutes, Crabbe joined him and together they drove off into the surrounding hills. As soon as Stoke Paulton was left behind Neil broached the subject uppermost in his thoughts.

"I expect you know what I want, Crabbe, and why I didn't like to be seen talking to you. It's about what happened with those Tilburys on Friday night—the Friday night. I'm going to ask you to tell me the whole thing, down to the smallest detail."

"Yes, sir, I guessed it was that. The lawyer, Mr. Powyss, has already taken me over the same ground, and so has Miss Braselton. I'll tell you just what I told them—and God knows," he added with sudden vindictiveness, "I wish I could make it different!"

This did not sound hopeful, and the story which followed was even less so. The bailiff, it seemed, had complained of cramps off and on all day, though he made light of his indisposition and did not give in till late in the afternoon—in fact, directly after the telephone call from Miss Bundy.

"And, by the way, sir, did you notice how quick he was to get to that telephone? It's my place to answer it, not his, but he'd taken off the receiver before you could say wink."

"Yes, I too, thought he might have been expecting Miss Bundy to ring up—but I don't see that we can make anything of that. Go on. You say he then went up to bed?"

"At about a quarter to six, sir—and before seven Mrs. Tilbury came down to the kitchen to fill a hot water bottle for him. At seven-thirty I took him up some Benger's food, but as soon as he'd eaten it he was sick. I saw that myself. He seemed very bad."

"Did you send at once for the doctor?"

"No, sir. He said he must have eaten something that disagreed with him, but as he'd brought it all up he thought he'd soon feel all right. Then he had another bad turn and about 8 o'clock Mrs. Tilbury called the cook and me up to have another look at him. This time I may say I was quite shocked. He'd gone a nasty, green color, was sweating and groaning, and his legs were drawn up right to his stomach."

"Not shamming, you think?"

"I don't see how he could have been, sir. Not but what he isn't as artful as the next, but he had all the signs, as you may say. Cook gave him some bicarbonate, and while she was mixing it his wife ran down to telephone to Dr. Graves. I heard her trying to get through, the line was engaged pretty steadily and finally she had to give it up. Then we went back to the kitchen, but even from there we could hear the groans. I remember saying to Mrs. Hickson—that's the cook—'Depend on it, that chap's got appendicitis bad. It would be our luck, with the mistress gone, and all.'"

"When did you next see him?"

"Not till about ten, sir, and by that time he was much worse—nearly unconscious, eyes rolled back and shivering from hand to foot in sort of spasms. I don't mind telling you it wouldn't have surprised me if he'd been gone by morning, and I believe the doctor thought the same, though he didn't say much. You know what doctors are. He got there while he was in the room, took a good look at him and gave him some sort of injection—morphia, I think, to relieve the pain. It eased off a bit, but not much. In fact, none of us got to bed till 2 o'clock, and even then, as my room is over theirs, I was kept awake for an hour or two by the moaning and so on."

Cables Carry Grid Results to Fairbanks

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 18.—The fact that Douglas Fairbanks chose this time of the year to hie himself into the oriental hinterlands has created a new job for stay-at-home members of his staff at the studio. Doug seems willing to pay $65 a cable bill each Monday to win $5 worth of football wagers with his cronies over there.

Henry Kolker, has left Hollywood temporarily to visit his mother at Quincy, Ill.

Fifi d'Orsay has the influenza. Louise Fazenda is getting nicely over the same disease. And Nils Asther is safely over both flu and passport complications with nothing but the divorce shoals ahead.

As a result of the action taken against him by Radio studio in trying to collect $11,000, which the studio asserts it wasted in waiting for Lee Tracy to show up for work as scheduled, the actor threatens to quit Hollywood altogether and return to the New York stage.

Ramon Novarro has been dodging friends and foes alike since getting his head shaved for the Chinese makeup in "Son-Daughter."

Charlie Ruggles did so well as the harried, overloquacious, apologetic victim of circumstances in his succession of films this year that Paramount has hastily optioned his mirthful services for another year. Not only will he get more money, but he also will be built up for featured parts.

Lyle Talbot, young actor with whom Estelle Taylor was going places for several weeks, seldom mentions his real family name here, because he is tired of the inevitable exclamations. His real family name is Hollywood. His grandfather, Patrick Hollywood, brought the name to this country from Ireland. And he has four uncles who are spreading the name in little colonies of Hollywoods about the United States, one of whom lives as a neighbor of Col. Tim McCoy, the wild west film hero, in Thermopolis, Wyo. Talbot recently played Carole Lombard's lead in "No More Orchids" at Columbia.

A deposition by Elsie Janis today appeared in the record of the $60,000 slander suit which Francis Verhaeren, former New York hotel man, is trying here against R. H. Semple, wealthy retired chemical engineer. Verhaeren charged that Semple made a remark derogatory to his reputation at a party at the Hollywood Dominoes club (organization of motion picture actresses and women writers) tendered by Miss Janis. Verhaeren said the remark was made following announcement that Mrs. Louise Mitchell, another of Miss Janis' guests, had suddenly missed her valuable diamond ring. In Miss Janis' deposition she did not remember much of the party very clearly, except that Verhaeren was not one of her invited guests and that she could not recall whether drinks were served or not, "because I was on the water wagon myself." Gilbert Wilson, actor, Miss Janis' husband, was in court as a witness.

Frank Hibbard gave in the Union station. And they liked it! They ate their luncheon in a private room but each of the forty guests carried her own tray and selected her own food out in the cafeteria, and such a time as they had deciding what to eat!

The guests were all members of the board of the Children's Memorial hospital, and Mrs. Hibbard, who is chairman of the stock committee for the White Elephant Rummage shop which the board conducts for the benefit of the hospital, had invited them to a meeting and luncheon to stimulate them to renewed activity in replenishing the stock of the shop, which is at 27 East Ohio street.

Among those who attended the party were Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Mrs. Charles Foster, Mrs. Joseph H. King, Miss Helen Gurley, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Woodberry S. Agar Jr., Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Frank O. Wetmore and her son's wife, Mrs. Horace Wetmore; Mrs. Harold A. Howard, Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. Robert C. Orr, Mrs. James R. Public School Art Society.

Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, who is so interested in the work of the Chicago Public School of Art society that she seems to have taken on the presidency as a life job, will head the receiving line at the autumn exhibition of the society at the Chester Johnson galleries on Friday from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Receiving with her will be Mrs. William A. Nitze, Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay III., Mrs. Clay Judson, Miss Margot Atkin, Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins, Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Howard Linn, Mrs. Dallas Phemister, Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, Mrs. Howard Cunningham, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, and Mrs. Charles Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Brewster are moving today from Lake Forest to their residence at 2704 Lake View avenue and are leaving on Sunday for a week in New York.

Mrs. Hill to Leave Hospital.

Mrs. Patrick C. Hill and little Rue—Hill [Mrs. Hill tells me the baby is to be named Rue after her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, but that the middle name is not decided upon yet] are moving from the Passavant hospital, where Rue was born on the 6th of this month, to the proud grandfather's residence at 700 Rush street tomorrow. They will be with Mr. Carpenter for about two weeks and then Mr. Hill will come up from Fort Worth to take his family home with him.

Mrs. Harold D. Kneedler of Manila, P. I., arrived in Chicago yesterday to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry until after the wedding on Saturday of her son, Harold Mason Kneedler, to the Perrys' daughter, Miss Polly Perry.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. John A. Stevenson gave a tea for Mrs. Kneedler. Today Mrs. Herbert E. Schwars is to have a luncheon for her and Mrs. William E. Parsons a tea. Miss Cornelia Conger is to have another luncheon for her tomorrow and on Friday Mrs. James Ward Thorne will give one.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark Crossett are expected to return on Saturday from their summer estate at Wianno, Mass. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward French [Ruth Crossett] have been occupying the Crossett apartment at 1200 Lake Shore drive during their absence and probably will remain there through the winter, as the Crossetts usually go to California for the cold weather months.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne will leave on Sunday or Monday for New York for the reception to open an exhibition of her exquisite miniature rooms. The rooms were exhibited here last spring for the benefit of the local architects' relief fund, and will be shown in New York to help the architects' fund there.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. P. Farrar [Isabel Greenlee] have given up their apartment at 2339 Commonwealth avenue and taken a house in Barrington for their permanent residence. They have been staying at the Scott street residence of Mrs. Farrar's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Greenlee, while the new house has been getting settled and expect to move out within a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Greenlee returned last Sunday from their ranch in New Mexico where they spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shaw of 49 East Division street have left with their two sons to spend the winter in California.

Unwise to Try to Change Left Handed Child

Serious Harm May Be the Result.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

The following letter will hold much general interest for parents. It will, I hope, have as much for teachers. The left handed child needs to be treated correctly, or he will be harmed, perhaps seriously. This subject should be made part of a teacher's training, since definite scientific conclusions have been reached in this connection.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: Have taken a great interest in your section of the paper, particularly about the 'left handed child.' I happen to have a boy 8 years of age who is left handed, and teachers have tried to make him right handed. I notice it is wrong, for my oldest boy was corrected from left to right. Their daddy is also left handed except that he writes with the right hand.

"The boy 8 years old has been quite ill this last winter through nervousness. He was so bad that we took him out of school and sent him away to the country, which has improved him a great deal. Only as soon as we talk school and try to help him, he gets so upset and starts throwing up.

"He figures his arithmetic well, but he cannot read. I have bought him books that are used in the first grade, but still he can't seem to make headway. Do you think his nervousness could come from trying to make him right handed?"

While no one would venture to say, at this long distance, that the attempt to change this little boy from being left handed is the cause of his nervousness and illness, it is quite possible. While some children are changed from left handedness with slight disturbance, others suffer seriously. The change is a radical disturbance to the nervous system.

When this boy goes back to school, his teachers should each be told he is left handed and that he is not to be urged to do anything with his right. Also, his illness should be explained and allowances made for him. It is usual for a child's reading to suffer from this change of handedness, since it concerns itself with the speech center in the brain. This upsets him, of course.

I wish he could stay out of school until February and be taught quietly at home. His reading is sure to pick up, though many children read very poorly at this age.

Further information about left handedness is contained in our leaflet, "The Left Handed Child in a Right Handed World," which will be sent upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Major Pratt of La Grange announce the engagement of their daughter, Suzanne, to Bert Thayer Jr. of Chicago.

Hospital Fund

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie yesterday received a committee from the Passavant hospital's woman's board and bought tickets for the Lawrence Tibbett concert in Orchestra hall Sunday afternoon, Nov. 6, which will benefit the hospital's free bed fund.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, president of the board, and Mrs. Warren Ripple and Miss Muriel Winston made up the committee which called on Gov. Ritchie.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover was entertained at a reception given this afternoon at the National Republican club's headquarters by the League of Republican Women of the District of Columbia. Mrs. Hoover was accompanied only by Lieut. Butler, military aide at the White House. She remained at the club for more than an hour and shook hands with all the company.

Admiral and Mrs. Walter Gherardi announce the engagement of their daughter, Neville Taylor Gherardi, to Christopher Robinson Jr. of Ottawa, Canada. Miss Gherardi is a granddaughter of the late Admiral Bancroft Gherardi and of the late Admiral Berry Taylor. She made her debut in Washington several years ago. Admiral Gherardi is now chief of the hydrographic office of the navy department. The bride-elect was born in Berlin when her father was attached to the American embassy and Kaiser Wilhelm was her godfather. The wedding will take place this winter.

Mrs. John Borden of Chicago is spending this week here with her mother, Mrs. Frank C. Letts, who has recently opened her home on Massachusetts avenue. Mrs. Borden is on her way to New York to complete arrangements for the publication of her new book next spring.

Catholic Home for Aged to Hold Golden Jubilee

The golden jubilee of St. Augustine's Home for the Aged, Fullerton and Sheffield avenues, will be celebrated today with high dignitaries of the Catholic church, headed by Cardinal Mundelein, officiating. Services will be held at 9 and 3:30 o'clock in the chapel of the home. Bishop Bernard J. Sheil will pontificate at high mass this morning. The very Rev. Dr. Francis V. Corcoran, C. M., president of De Paul university, will preach the sermon. In the afternoon Cardinal Mundelein will give benediction, and the Rt. Rev. F. A. Rempe will deliver the address. St. Augustine's Home for the Aged is run by the Little Sisters of the Poor. Mother Amiable Joseph, leader of the band of sisters that founded the home, is still alive and attached to a sisters' home in the east.

Novena to Open.

Frozen Vegetable Salad Displaces Favorite.

BY MARY MEADE.

TODAY we're having hash. Not, you understand, the usual conglomerate meat and potato mystery, but an equally conglomerate assortment of recipes which have been tucked away now and again during the last few weeks until an open date should appear and give them a chance to air themselves.

First on the recipe list may I present—

HONEY DATE ROLL.

¼ cup butter.
½ cup chopped English walnuts.
½ cup chopped dates.
Baking powder biscuit dough.

Soften but do not melt the butter, then add the honey and cream the two together until well blended. Add the dates and nuts and combine thoroughly. Roll out a recipe of biscuit dough to one-fourth inch thickness, forming it into a rectangle. Spread over the surface the honey date mixture and roll up from the long side as for a jelly roll. Place on a floured baking sheet and bake in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] half an hour, or until baked through and golden brown. Slice across the roll and serve as a delectable afternoon tea accompaniment.

We hear plenty about the refrigerator's most loved contribution to the gourmet's table—frozen fruit salad. But now appears a rival to run the one time favorite a close second.

FROZEN VEGETABLE SALAD.

Sift together one-fourth cup of sugar, two tablespoons of flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon mustard, and a dash of paprika. To this add two well beaten eggs and one-half cup of cider vinegar. Cook in a double boiler until thick and smooth, stirring occasionally. Stir in three tablespoons of butter. Cool, then turn into one large or two small refrigerator trays and allow to chill until partially congealed. Take out and into this chilled dressing stir three-fourths cup each of cucumber, diced celery and diced fresh tomatoes, also two tablespoons each of minced green pepper and pimento. Mix well and continue freezing one to two hours. Slice or cut in squares and serve in crisp lettuce cups. Garnish with mayonnaise. This makes a delicious salad for a noontime pre-bridge luncheon for three tables, or half the recipe may be made to serve a family of six.

COTTAGE CHEESE PIE.

2 cups cottage cheese.
½ cup cream.
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon.
1 cup sugar.
¾ teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon nutmeg.
1-3 teaspoon cinnamon.

Beat the egg yolks until lemon colored, add the cottage cheese which has been pressed through a coarse sieve and then stir in the remaining ingredients except the egg whites. Beat the whites until stiff and fold in last. Turn the mixture into an unbaked pie shell and bake in a hot oven [450 degrees F.] for fifteen minutes, then continue baking at 350 degrees F. until the custard is set. Cool and before cutting sprinkle with cinnamon blended with powdered sugar.

BLUSHING APPLES ON PORK ROUNDS

Trim six shoulder pork chops into even rounds after having removed the bones. Beat an egg until frothy with two tablespoons of milk and salt and pepper to season. Into this dip each of the rounds. Dip them next in fine, dry crumbs and brown quickly in a skillet containing two tablespoons of fat. Add more if necessary to brown on both sides. When seared place the rounds in a baking dish. Dust with salt, pepper, and poultry seasoning. Have ready three large apples which have been peeled, cored, and cut in halves crosswise and simmered until prettily tender and brilliant red in a sirup made of one and one-fourth cups of sugar, two-thirds cup of water, and twenty red cinnamon drops.

Now place carefully one-half apple on each round of chop and pour in the extra red sirup. Bake fifteen to twenty minutes or until the apples are tender and the chops done, adding more water if necessary during the baking. Serve on a hot platter with a garnish of crisp water cress or parsley. To the remaining liquor in the pan add two teaspoons of lemon juice and enough flour and water paste to thicken slightly. Serve about the chops or in a separate dish.

Knox Hill Plays Classics and Moderns at Recital

Knox Hill's piano recital at Kimball hall last night was a program made up of the classical and the new in music. Beethoven's sonata, opus 57, frequently known as the "Appassionata" and an extensive group by Chopin made up the first of the classification. For the second there were pieces by Powell and MacDowell with another by Henselt, a group by Westerhout, and Percy Grainger's transcription of the Flower waltz from Tschaikskowsky's "Nutcracker" suite. These were played by Mr. Hill with an uncommonly well trained pair of hands, if with interpretive ideas somewhat less efficient. The Chopin Etude in F minor stood out as one of the high points of his performance.

Star System Is Applied to the Field of Beauty

Four Star Loveliness Is the Highest.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Everybody else is "starring" productions these days. Why can't we? One star, two stars, three stars, and four are given by our movie critics, according to the meager, half-hearted, or complete satisfaction rendered.

What, let's say, would make a four-star beauty? What, a three? What would demote said beauty into the two or one star class?

The four star girl would be a girl against whom no voice could be raised in protest, no criticism could be made. One to the beauty manner born, we'll say. To the beauty manner born plus all the modern day embellishments of art and artifice and dress, plus great personal charm, and to make four star assurance doubly four star, she would have to be endowed with that unknown quantity recognized as box office appeal.

The three star sister would be but a shade less bright in all of these stellar charm and beauty virtues. Yet, she might not need to be to the beauty manner born at all. She might be a self-made beauty. With the unknown quantity and charm her art of grooming and clothes I think we'd allow her three stars. What do you think?

The two star sister is just so-so. Today, perhaps, she is a knockout. Tomorrow she's not so hot. Today she's been done over from nails to coiffure, fresh from the hands of her professional beautifier, as it were. Her clothes are right. She has the holy feel of assurance that comes of knowing all's right with herself. Tomorrow the assurance isn't there, because she isn't all right with herself. Consequently her act isn't so good as it might be.

The one star girl might be the girl who puts her all into one basket, so to speak. It may be clothes with her. Grooming is neglected. Or, it may be that she has one good asset, such as a pair of hands, a couple of neat ankles, a white toothed smile, which she overplays to the neglect of other possibilities. Or it may be she has natural gifts but does nothing much with them.

Anyway, I offer you the beauty "starring" as a game. You might try classifying the girls you know according to the one, two, three, and four star system. But don't forget, while you're at it, to grade the girl they know, meaning yourself, according to the same technique.

No Compromise WITH QUALITY No Substitute FOR LOYALTY

In these days when all products are endangered by a wave of cheapness, when the tire dealer's service to the public is threatened by manufacturers' ambition for volume, this long-established company wishes to state again its pledge of quality to the users of tires and its platform of loyalty to Service Dealers.

"Mindful that, daily and hourly, the lives and safety of millions are entrusted to the quality of our product, we will build—as always—only quality tires. . . . We will insist on the finest materials for our tires that money can buy. . . . We will exact of our workmen the highest standards of craftsmanship. We will follow every skilled operation to know that it is correctly performed. . . . We will accept the current prices of tires as our prices and find ways other than by skimping quality to meet them. . . . We will sell only through responsible dealers qualified to assist you to get every mile of life and safety built into our tires. . . . We will not cheapen quality or sell through non-service channels for the sake of volume. . . . We will test our tires relentlessly. We will advertise them fairly. We will do everything we can, by deed and word, to enable people to get more and more value from our tires, and continue to merit the public confidence we have always enjoyed."

William A. Kelly
PRESIDENT
KELLY-SPRINGFIELD TIRE COMPANY

Our prices are the same as others. But there are greater things than price, when human lives are at stake.

WHEN you read in the papers of accidents, perhaps the loss of lives, because of tire failure, we ask you to remember that this company aspires only—as it has for 38 years—to build the safest tires made anywhere in the world. We invite you, before you buy any tires, to inspect and examine Kelly-Springfields thoroughly, to know the concerns and individuals who are choosing them and to study the records they are making in your community. The Kelly-Springfield dealer will show you their points of added strength and stamina. He will explain what he and we mean by "tire service."

Now, with the approach of dangerous fall and winter driving, find out about Kelly-Springfield quality. Line for line, we meet the prices of other tires. The difference is in the tires and the policy of the company that builds them.

PURDUE STANDS ALONE IN FIGHT AGAINST PURPLE

Entire Big Ten Pulls for N. U.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the week Purdue plays Northwestern, the Notre Dame shift will be matched against the Warner double wing backs, and all the universities in the Big Ten, from Michigan to Wisconsin, are hoping Purdue gets a licking.

For Purdue and Northwestern, there is the same incentive which inspired Northwestern's unsuccessful invasion of Michigan. If possible, there's a greater desire for victory. Not only did these teams share in the 1931 championship, but it was Purdue which found the tie, when, in the name of charity, the Boilermakers blanketed Northwestern, 7 to 0, last fall. The game Saturday at Dyche stadium also renews the contest between shifting backs, a la Rockne, and the wing backs of the Warner fashion, plus a line shift invented by Dick Hanley.

All Against Purdue.

Purdue will fight alone. Certainly Michigan will lend moral support to Northwestern, hoping to see a Boilermaker defeat, thus increasing the chances that Michigan will finish the campaign in undisputed possession of first place. Wisconsin, loser by a point to Purdue last week, probably prefers a Northwestern victory, while the remaining teams on Northwestern's schedule, anticipate greater receipts if the Wildcats conquer Purdue.

Northwestern authorities are hopeful that 30,000 will see the game. Seating capacity is 42,000. In event of fair weather more may attend. Incidentally, the weather is of greater importance to the teams than to the spectators. Purdue's prospects probably are better on a dry field, although Pug Rentner and Ollie Olson also will be gratified by a firm turf and a pleasant day.

Although Purdue has failed to get satisfactory results from its ground gaining, scoring only two touchdowns in two conference games while gaining nearly 600 yards, it must be considered the favorite over Northwestern. This failure, which almost cost a tie last week against Wisconsin, creates the impression that Northwestern may come through with a victory.

Summary of the abilities of the rival elevens reads something like this:

Boilermakers Are Fast.

SPEED—Purdue, as a team, is faster than Northwestern. Rentner is outstanding in the open field, but Hecker and Carter, who share the left half back position for Purdue, are very fast. The Purdue offense gets these men to the line of scrimmage quicker than Northwestern half backs reach the line. Horstmann, with spinner plays, is more effective at full back than Olson of Northwestern. Olson depends more on his line than Horstmann, although no plunging back can do it alone.

BLOCKING—Purdue's backs and guards are more efficient. Kawal of Northwestern is the best blocking back in the back field, but he shares the quarter back assignment with Potter. When Sullivan or substitute backs carry the ball they have more aid from Rentner in blocking than they give him when he handles the ball. Purvis of Purdue is a good blocking back. The loss of Moore, also a right half, will put greater responsibility on Purvis, a sophomore.

Two Good Punters.

PASSING—There is little to choose between the teams, although Purdue probably has more skilled receivers.

KICKING—Olson and Moss are both great kickers. Olson may have a slight edge in distance, but Northwestern's advantage rests on Rentner's ability to bring back kicks. Purdue will not cover kicks as well, principally because a light line first must concentrate on protection for the kicker. Purdue should fear that Rentner will get away for a touchdown on a punt and Moss undoubtedly will kick away from the receiver, striving to put the ball out of bounds or along the side line.

TACKLING—Both elevens tackle well and neither should have an advantage.

GENERALSHIP — Pardonner and Peelle have shown good judgment in selection plays, but Purdue hasn't capitalized on its ground gaining. Potter of Northwestern is a veteran who should carry out the coach's pre-game instructions. Northwestern was penalized twice at Illinois, however, for delay in the huddle.

About Defense.

DEFENSIVE FORMATIONS—Purdue, because of its light guards, generally keeps its center in the line until the play develops. This handicaps the defense against forward passes. Purdue, if necessary, will maintain its box defense in the backfield as precaution against passes and thus leaves itself open to quick kicks, or kicks before the fourth down.

Northwestern has more weight in the line. But it remains to be seen if the center, the lightest man, from tackle to tackle, and the defensive full back, can cope with Horstmann.

SUBSTITUTES—Neither team will make many substitutions and the brunt of the game will fall principally on the starting lineups.

If Purdue wins, odds favor it to remain undefeated in the Big Ten. Victory for Northwestern should strengthen the belief that the Wildcats will finish with five victories and one defeat.

My Greatest THRILL in FOOTBALL

BY WALTER P. STEFFEN.
[As told to Charles Bartlett.]

It took me almost a full three years of collegiate competition to realize my greatest thrill in football. It did not happen until my last game as captain of the University of Chicago eleven. It occurred during the Chicago-Wisconsin game at Camp Randall field, Madison, Wis., on Nov. 21, 1908, and I appreciated it to the fullest not only because I was leading the Maroons into the game but also because upon the outcome depended the Western conference championship for that season.

JUDGE STEFFEN.

We went to Madison tied with the Badgers for the conference lead. Chicago was regarded as a slight favorite but the fact that we had played a 6 to 6 tie with Cornell the preceding week, and also that the Badgers appeared to have found themselves, made the result of the game almost an even proposition.

Stagg Plans Attack on a Hunch and Scored.

Coach Stagg had arranged his plans for the game with the anticipation that Wisconsin would aim its kicks at me, and had prepared his attack accordingly. Presupposing that Wisconsin scouts who had seen me in action during the games would stress the fact that I never ran in a straight line for long, he instructed the rest of the team to play for straight runs by myself whenever possible.

During the rest of the season I had never followed a straight line, particularly in returning punts or kickoffs, without cutting to right or left, especially to the former. As it developed later, Wisconsin's original plan was fitting into Mr. Stagg's scheme, and eventually leading to the biggest thrill I ever got out of the game.

I was instructed that in the event I should receive the ball on the opening kickoff to pass to Iddings, our left half, who was to run along the side line. Neither of us ever had an opportunity to carry out Coach Stagg's orders.

Wally Forgets All About Pass to Iddings.

Jumbo Stiehm, the Wisconsin center, kicked off, and the ball came sailing right into my arms on our seven yard line. The rest of the Maroons formed a protecting wedge in front of me and we started down the center of the field. Before the widespread Wisconsin line and myself knew what had happened, I was in the clear in Wisconsin territory, with nobody but Keckie Moll, the Badger quarter back, between me and a non-stop touchdown. In the excitement of the moment, I had forgotten about Iddings. He didn't have a chance to take that instructed pass from me, but did come up in time to take Moll out of my path, and there I was with a touchdown in the first few seconds of play. We led, 18 to 6, at half time, but the Badgers come back strong in the latter part of the game. They scored another touchdown in the second half, and had us hanging on the ropes at the finish, but the ball game and the championship finally were ours by a score of 18 to 12.

I met Coach Barry of Wisconsin at a banquet within a few weeks after the game and there I learned why the Badgers had kicked to me. His original intention, as I mentioned, was to kick to anybody but me, but a number of Wisconsin alumni whom he had met the night before the game advised him to point the ball at me. He then fell back on the reports of his scouts that I cut to right or left, and had played his team accordingly, thus leaving the center fairly open and giving me a chance to score on a play of which I had never dreamed.

Judge Walter P. Steffen ranks with Herschberger, Eckersall, and John Thomas as one of the greatest backs who ever wore the maroon of the University of Chicago. He was a member of North Division High school's famous teams and then went to the Midway, where he captained the team in 1908. He has maintained his position in the game as the only commuting coach in the country, acting in an advisory capacity at Carnegie Tech. After serving as alderman and assistant United States attorney, he was elected to the Superior court in 1922 and reelected in 1928.

MAROON ELEVEN MAY LOSE PAGE FOR INDIANA TILT

Suffers Sprained Ankle in Practice.

Chicago's Maroons faced the possible loss of Pat Page Jr., talented half back and punter, for their conference opener with Indiana at Stagg field Saturday, when young Pat yesterday suffered a sprained ankle in practice and went to Billings hospital for an X-ray.

If the X-ray shows a chip or fracture, then the Maroons will be without the services of one of their best backfield men, at least for the Indiana game, and probably longer. If there is no fracture, he probably will play Saturday, since Maroon trainers said that the sprain is not serious.

Lose Patterson, Guard.

Further cause for worry arose yesterday on the Midway, when an X-ray showed that Ell Patterson, sophomore guard, who has been used as a starter, has a crack in a hand bone, sustained in the Knox game. Patterson will be out for several weeks at least. While the Maroons have adequate reserves for the guard position, the loss of Page would be felt, particularly since Barton Smith has been out of the play with a cracked leg bone since the Yale game. Smith and Page have been the Maroon punters, and were counted on heavily.

Yesterday's drill consisted of a long workout on defense against Indiana plays, with Ray Zenner, who has hitherto alternated at center with Keith Parsons, playing a guard position. Stagg may use him at this post, since he now has Caspar Hilton, declared eligible two weeks ago as a center understudy.

BLOCKING WORRIES INDIANA.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Blocking, Indiana's greatest weakness, underwent special treatment today as the Hoosiers continued preparation for their third Big Ten game against Chicago at the Midway Saturday.

Backs and linemen both engaged in the drill. In Ivan Fuqua, Don Veller, Stan Saluski, and Jesse Babb, Indiana possesses a quartet of speed merchants which, aided by effective blocking, would prove a menace.

Lemont Player Injured; School Drops Football

The little town of Lemont, Ill., near Joliet, will not be represented by a high school football team for the remainder of the season. Football was abandoned after John Cafferty suffered a fractured left arm. Lemont defeated Plainfield, 20 to 0 last Saturday.

MOST VALUABLE IN 1932

Jimmy Foxx, Philadelphia Athletics' first baseman, who yesterday was named the American league's most valuable player for 1932. He hit 58 home runs and was just nosed out for the batting championship.

THERE IS ONLY ONE GRAND OLD MAN—IT'S STAGG

He's Grand in Forty Ways and Deserving.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—The title of Grand Old Man is lightly conferred in the sport writing business, being sometimes applied to parties as young as Frances Ouimet, who aged early and became the grand old man of the fairways at 37. Mr. Ouimet was made the baby grand old man because his feet hurt in a golf tournament. That is to say that the feet of the golf correspondents hurt as they followed him around so they naturally assumed that his feet hurt, also.

Inasmuch as the golf correspondents are almost all of an age with Francis, or more so, and the work of following him around was rather hard on their feet in the heat of the afternoon, they made subtle acknowledgment of their own devotion to duty under conditions of great hardship when they called him a grand old man.

The title is also awarded to a variety of males of indubitable antiquity, including faro dealers, owners of baseball clubs and mentally infirm relics of the prizefight business who have had the luck to survive the plagues and mishaps which continually retire a proportion of the population to make room for new people. Most of these grand old men, however, are not, on their records, entitled to any higher ranking in the nobility of the sport industry than the grade of nice old guy or not-half-bad sort of old fella.

But There Is One.

The title in the tangible sense is strictly a typographical honor, being no part of the common speech of the customers who do not speak of grid tests, either, but call them football games and do not call the Kentucky Derby the annual Blue Grass classic but just the derby. I believe, however, that the customers do form a habit of regarding as grand old men the persons who are persistently referred to as such, even though they do not employ the headline form in speaking of them.

The only grand old man of the sport industry whom I would award the title to at this time is just being retired for age by the University of Chicago after more than forty years of athletic coaching and moral teaching. Apparently he does not wish to be retired and would accept a coaching job if one were offered to him next season.

As to whether the university is right in using the law on A. A. Stagg to get him out of there I do not know. He may have outlived his usefulness as an active coach and the mere fact that he protests that he has not may be only the expression of the tenacious character for which old man Stagg is famous. He wouldn't be a good judge of that. Better rules than the retirement rule of the University of Chicago are waived or broken every day and the university might have blinked this one in this special case if it had been apparent that he was doing as well in his work as some younger fellow could.

Now, Take Warner.

Some people would like to rank Pop Warner of Leland Stanford, with old man Stagg as grand old man of football, but that would require a special concession to sentiment and a disregard of some of the requirements. He is a grand old rascal, in the affectionate sense of the term, and some people may regard that as a more desirable title than the one of grand old man, which has a sound of righteousness that may be offensive to some.

Pop Warner has always had a roguish sense of humor and he was a mischevious plotter when he was younger, inventing such practical jokes as the football slipped under the sweater and the football silhouette sewed onto the sweater to deceive the Harvards. There must be a good deal of preacher in a grand old man. So Pop is not a grand old man if Stagg is one and I think Stagg is the one and only.

Mr. Stagg has taught, or tried to teach, his young men some things that a good many people will not agree with, but even disagreeing with those teaching, you cannot possibly contend that any of them were of a kind which could make worse men or worse citizens of them. He has always had a puritanical loathing for the

"FEELING" THE CROWD.

WE, and no doubt others, often have wondered whether football players in the heat of battle "feel" the crowd; in other words, absorb anything of inspiration or nervous apprehension from the frenzied cheering of their excited partisans in the stands.

Reply to our question, when put to former players, almost invariably is negative. Of course, they note cheers as they come on the field, often hear the cheers during time out or between signals, but the onlookers, they say, are farthest from their thoughts in the heat of battle when every ounce of physical energy, every bit of mental energy are concentrated on the game itself.

Among those to whom we put our question during a fanning bee at Ann Arbor was Bennie Oosterbaan, one of the greatest of all Michigan wingmen. Oosterbaan replied at once, "I remember 'feeling' the crowd just once during my three years of competition at Michigan. It was a play so simple and so easy I never understood why unless it was because I had a second to think.

"It was the Ohio State game at Columbus. Ohio State had a clean conference record and so did we, although we had lost to Navy, 10 to 0. Buckeye partisans composed a majority of the 90,000 crowd. Ohio State jumped away to a 10 to 0 lead by Karow's touchdown and Clark's dropkick.

"Finally we received the ball on our 45 yard line. Benny Friedman tossed a perfect pass into my hands on the 12 yard line. Then our team took positions for a place kick. At the signal I hurried forward and stood behind the goal line, not an Ohio man anywhere near me.

"The place kick was a fake and Friedman tossed the ball toward me. To catch it was simply a mechanical act which I had done hundreds of times in practice, but while the ball was in the air the thought flashed 'What if I should drop it before all those people?' I made the catch, however, and eventually we won the game, 17 to 16."

TALKING IT OVER

BY ARCH WARD.

SOMETHING must be done about those Yankees. They not only have made a travesty of the world series and definitely lowered the playing tone of the National league, but they have become a distinct menace to the American league as a business industry.

Club owners who saw the Yanks parade through the regular schedule to win by 13 games are about ready to admit that a one-sided race means dwindled gate receipts. When strong teams like the Athletics, Senators, and Indians finish in the red it is time the magnates apply a remedy. New York, according to President William Harridge, was the only club in the league that showed a profit for the season.

WM. HARRIDGE.

Retention of interest in the National league race up to the last two weeks of the season weighs heavily with American league owners. At least three of the clubs in what they call the senior circuit made money.

Competition, not class, apparently is what the fans like.

The quickest and surest way of building up the weaker clubs is interteam trades. Rookies seldom stand out their first year in the majors. The Athletics have shown willingness to help the tail enders by disposing of Simmons, Haas and Dykes to the White Sox. Of course, Connie Mack was prompted mainly by financial reasons. The Athletics' attendance fell off sharply last season, although the club was the league champion in 1931. It was Mack's opinion that the fans were tired of looking at so many old faces.

There is no indication, however, that Col. Ruppert intends to peddle any of his world champions. He has no interest in making the 1933 race better balanced. He is wealthy and his team is making money. He built up a championship club after three years' effort and he sees no reason for breaking it up simply to help a weaker outfit.

If Ruppert had his way, the Yankees would win by 50 games. He is that way. They can't clinch the pennant too soon to suit him. This spirit, no doubt, is wholesome for baseball, for it gives the skeptics no chance to squawk.

"What hope, then, do the other owners hold out for better success in 1933?" we asked Mr. Harridge.

"They figure a winning team can't get the breaks all the time," he explained. "Everything turned out in the Yankees' favor last season. Suppose Gomez should have an off year like Ted Lyons did in 1931. Wouldn't that hurt? Or suppose Tony Lazzeri and Joey Sewell should break down. Neither was considered much of an asset at the start of the 1932 race, but they played surprisingly well. Will they be able to repeat?

"Improvements in the White Sox and Red Sox will help to give us stronger competition next year. Everybody is pulling for the White Sox. They realize Chicago is the best baseball town in the country.

"The schedule worked against Boston last year," Harridge continued. "The strength of the league was in the east—New York, Philadelphia and Washington. The Red Sox were forced to mingle with these clubs until the first trip west about the middle of May. Their morale was broken before they had a chance to get under way. We are going to try to correct this situation when we draft the 1933 chart."

It is Mr. Harridge's opinion that radio will develop heated discussion at the winter meeting. Several baseball leaders contend that broadcasts kept thousands away from the world series games in New York, particularly the first day, when the weather was threatening.

There is growing sentiment, Harridge said, against baseball putting on free shows for air listeners. The eastern half of the league, he stated, is solidly opposed to radio. Three of the clubs—Philadelphia, New York and Washington—even forbid telegraphic reports to be filed out of the park for broadcasting purposes.

1932—	Chuck Klein. [Philadelp'a.]	Jimmy Foxx. [Philadelphia.]

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Jimmy Foxx, the Philadelphia Athletics' first baseman and king in the home run ranks last season, was the American league's most valuable player during 1932. Charles Herbert (Chuck) Klein, the Phillies' hard hitting outfielder, was accorded similar recognition among the National leaguers.

These choices were made by committees of baseball writers, whose voting was made public today by J. Roy Stockton, retiring president of the writers' association.

Foxx was accorded 75 votes out of a possible maximum of 80 points. Lou Gehrig, the Yankee first baseman, who won in 1927 and finished second in 1930 and 1931, received 55 votes for second place. Klein was recognized as a standout by 78 points, and next in line was Lon Warneke, the Cubs' sensational pitching youth, with 68. Klein was third in the 1930 voting and second to Frankie Frisch, who won the award last year.

Third Mack Named.

The naming of Foxx for the mythical honor marked the third time a member of the Philadelphia Athletics has been so recognized in the last five years. In 1928, when the award was an official league affair, Mickey Cochrane, the Macks' catcher, was named. The writers' association picked Bob Grove, the A's left hand pitcher, last fall.

Dale Alexander, the Red Sox first baseman, who in the closing weeks of the race captured the season's batting championship from Foxx, received only ten points. The selection of Foxx is easily explained by the fact that he hit 58 home runs, led both majors in runs driven in—167—and finished with an unofficial batting average of .364.

Klein hit 38 homers in the National league, tying with Mel Ott of the Giants; topped both leagues in run getting, 154; drove in 134 runs, and batted .348.

OLD LADY LUCK STILL FROWNS ON ALBERT JOHNSON

Former Star Jockey Can't Score as Owner.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The breaks of the racing game are not coming the way of Albert Johnson, who just a few years ago was one of America's most famous jockeys.

Back in 1922, when Johnson rode Morvich to victory in the Kentucky Derby, he was acclaimed one of the great riders of the times. For the next half dozen years, during which he won another Derby with Bubbling Over and was cheered by countless thousands as he booted the winners home in almost every famous stake race in America, he was rated in that lofty position. All the breaks of the game were coming his way.

Weight Ends Career.

He became one of the great money winning riders in the country. He fought it out with Sande, Fator, McAtee, and the other great saddle stars for honors. Horses ran for him and would win for him.

After his Derby victory on Bubbling Over Johnson reached the ripe old age, for a jockey, of 25 years. Weight began to creep up on him. He weighed only 125 pounds, but that was too much poundage for him to find much employment as a jockey in America.

He went to Europe and tried it where jockeys carry more weight. He became homesick for the friendly cheers that had been ringing in his ears in America. He came back to this country.

Tries Hand at Training.

Then he tried his hand at training. Since then the breaks of the game have drifted over toward the other fellow and never in his direction. Just a few days ago he came to Sportsman's Park from Canada with his two horse stable.

"Just a couple of platers, but they can win now and then," he told his old acquaintances as he smiled through the thoughts of those more prosperous days.

Johnson saddled his first horse at Chicago's half mile track yesterday. Its name was Frank Grossman, a 3 year old son of Sun Pal-Shady Sadie, which had been just a fair sort upon the small tracks in the Canadian circuit.

Because Albert Johnson was in the paddock tightening the saddle girth on Frank Grossman, Chicago's race goers thought the horse surely would win.

Tough Luck, Frank.

They backed Frank Grossman stoutly. When the end came he was far back with the also rans. Peace Lady was the winner, Hazel Denson, almost as old as Johnson, was second, and Buster B. was third. Frank Grossman had all the bad luck in the race or might have been closer.

"I had a little bet on him," Johnson said. "But that's the way old lady luck has been frowning on me for a long time. I'll get the breaks one of these days. The old timers say so, any way."

Sad Sam, an old time bookmaker now trying to pick 'em, shook his head and said, "I doubt it."

ADD COLLEGIANS TO COLISEUM WRESTLING CARD

A match between two former college football stars has been arranged by Joe Coffey, promoter, on his all-heavyweight wrestling card tomorrow night at the Coliseum.

The opponents are Cliff Olson, formerly of the University of Minnesota, and Paul Harper of Southern Methodist. Olson went to Minnesota from Gustavus Adolphus college, winning numerals in both wrestling and football. After leaving college he was instructed by Carl Johnson, former Olympic wrestler and now mat coach in Hollywood.

This match is a supporting bout to the Ray Steele-Joe De Vito event, which will be one fall.

The semi-windup is between Hans Kampfer and Joe Stecher. Two other matches complete the card.

SHIFT PETOSKEY FROM END TO FULL BACK AT MICHIGAN

Wolverines Begin Drill for Illini Game.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Ted Petoskey, Michigan end, probably will play full back against Illinois here Saturday. In the workout today, the first for the squad since the game against Ohio State, Petoskey was at full, while John Regeczi worked at Stan Fay's half. Everhardus was at the other half back and Harry Newman called signals.

The possibility of Louis Westover's taking over Fay's job was not abandoned, since Westover is still considered a strong candidate. There is some assurance, however, that Coach Harry Kipke will rely on a power attack to beat down the Illinois line rather than depend entirely on Harry Newman's right arm, and if this is the case Petoskey probably would fit into the back field more effectively than the lighter Westover.

Rod Cox was at Petoskey's wing today and may continue there. Willis Ward is considered a better end, but Ward is still bothered with an injured leg and is doing no running. The regulars spent today running through an offensive drill and tomorrow will face the freshmen in a dummy scrimmage in which the yearlings will run the Illinois plays.

ILLINI SHIFT SNOOK.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—John Snook, full back, was shifted to end today on the University of Illinois football team in an effort to strengthen that position as the varsity went through a long scrimmage against the freshmen, who used Michigan plays.

Chuck Bennis, who has played at center all year, was also put back at end, where he played as a freshman. Al Adams and Frank Froschauer teamed with Jack Beynon and Ed Snavely in one backfield with Capt. Berry, Jack Cravens, Pete Yanuskus, and Herm Walser in another. Paul Born worked with Snook at the other wing.

Bob May, letterman from last year, worked with Joe Vandyke, who was shifted from guard, at the tackles on the second team, while Cummings and Gragg were still the first choices. Julius Hoeft again worked with Ivan Schustek as the first string ends.

Bob Bloom and Lex Bullock were the centers with Kowalski, Abraham, Hladik, and Palmer as the guards.

GOPHERS SHOW PEP.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Minnesota football squad showed plenty of pep today as Coach Bierman sent them into a hard scrimmage with the freshmen in preparation for the Iowa game at Iowa City Saturday.

Some time ago, Bierman announced that there would be little if any scrimmaging for the varsity the rest of this year, but the Gophers' poor showing against Nebraska brought a change in the plans.

There were many and frequent changes in the regular lineup. Carl Tengler was given the call over Jack Manders at full back for a time and Profitt, a sophomore was used at right half back in place of Capt. Hass. Butch Larson saw considerable service at end.

Failure of his offense to click smoothly enough to get more touchdowns has stirred Bierman to the point where he threatened today to keep all of the regulars on the sidelines if they didn't show more aggressiveness. He was rewarded to the extent of seeing considerable improvement in spirit today.

ENDS IN IOWA BACK FIELD.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A pair of erstwhile ends were in the first string back field as the Iowa football squad scrimmaged today. Wilbur Wallace was at quarter back, Voris Dickerson and Herman Schneidman at half backs, and Bernard Page at full back. Page and Dickerson are the former ends. This combination may start against Minnesota Saturday in an attempt to produce a scoring punch. New deceptive plays failed to work smoothly against a freshman team.

BADGERS WORK OVERTIME.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Badger football squad tonight received the biggest surprise of the season, when after more than an hour of scrimmage, Coach Doc Spears commanded every man on the first two teams to run three times around the practice field in full uniform.

The distance is slightly more than a mile.

Members of the team who hesitated starting the marathon and gazed questioningly at the coach, were spurred on their way with the announcement that never again will a Wisconsin football player be short of breath during a Big Ten game.

Another surprise was the transfer of Capt. Greg Kabat, Harvey Krnnhold, and Charles Goldenberg to the second team. The three men were held on the second team throughout scrimmage.

There was a third surprise. The afternoon of practice covered training on fundamentals during the first two hours and it appeared that the workout would be comparatively light. As it grew dark, however, Coach Spears had floodlights turned on and ordered scrimmage.

The first team set up a defensive against the running attack of the second team for half on hour. Then the first team was placed on the offensive against the freshman squad for 45 minutes in the most intensive practice session of the season.

KIZER PROTECTS PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Members of Purdue's football squad will have an added incentive for victory when they meet Northwestern at Evanston Saturday. The game will mark the 18th meeting of the teams and is an opportunity for the Boilermakers to even the series. Northwestern has won nine games and the Boilermakers eight.

Coach Noble Kizer, apprehensive over the bumps and bruises accumulated against Wisconsin and Minnesota, limited today's drill to a dummy scrimmage. Special attention was paid to the running attack, built around Roy Horstmann, whose line smashing has been the bulwark of Purdue's attack to date.

Barney Ross Gains Favor After Drill

Barney Ross continued to rule the favorite to whip Bat Battalino yesterday when they completed workouts for their bout at the Chicago Stadium Friday.

Ross boxed five rounds at Trafton's gymnasium, three with Young Joe Wolcott and two with Harry Schuman. He punched hard and appeared in excellent condition.

It seems that Ross has finally found himself after three years of professional boxing. Twice previously he failed to pass tests, against Carlos Garcia at the Coliseum two years ago and against Roger Bernard at the Stadium in 1931.

Ross Shows Class.

Ray Miller was expected to extend Ross at Sparta stadium last Aug. 26. Barney took the play away from Miller from the start, however, and continued to outbox and outslug Ray in all but two of the 10 rounds. Despite his impressive showing against Miller, skeptical fans were not convinced of Ross' real ability until he knocked out Frankie Petrolle at the Coliseum Sept. 15. Only two punches were necessary to decide the match. Barney put Petrolle on the verge of a knockout in the first round with a short, sharp right cross to the jaw. He knocked out Frankie with a left hook in the second round.

Some boxing followers believe Battalino has passed his peak. Ross probably will decide that on Friday. Battalino sparred four rounds at the Arcade gymnasium yesterday, two each with Laddie Tonelli and Lou Vine. He was not as vicious and rough as usual and seemed tired at the end of the drill.

Murphy Replaces O'Dowd.

Harold Murphy, Springfield, Mo., heavyweight, has been signed to substitute for Jack O'Dowd against Art Laskey in an eight round supporting bout on Friday's card. The match will be Murphy's first in Chicago. He whipped Rough House Howser at Springfield in his last bout. Murphy has lost only four decisions in 52 matches.

C. D. G. A. Caddy Title Is Awarded to Nordic Team

The caddy championship of the Chicago District Golf association has been awarded to the Nordic team.

The Oak Park team was declared ineligible, one boy being over age. This left Nordic tied for first with the Chicago Golf club team at 337. Chicago was unable to get its boys together for a playoff, so the championship was awarded to Nordic.

He formerly owned the Toledo club of the American association.

Bears Learn How to Shield Passer Against Stapleton

When the Chicago Bears meet the Stapleton eleven in their fifth National league game at Wrigley field Sunday they expect to present a more effective passing attack than they displayed in their 2 to 0 defeat by the Green Bay Packers last Sunday.

At yesterday's workout Coach Ralph Jones gave the linemen a long lecture on the importance of protecting the passer and sent the squad through passing maneuvers until he was satisfied they had profited by the instructions.

The easterners, who held the Bears to a scoreless tie earlier in the season in a game on Staten island, boast a pair of the most dangerous plungers in the league in the persons of Ken Strong, former New York university headliner, and Doug Wyckoff.

Keith Molesworth, the Bears' flashy quarter back, appears to have hit his stride and is expected to show the Stapes some new tricks. His work against the Packers was pleasing to the coach, and, while some of the spectators questioned his judgment once or twice, Molesworth has a defense.

Once, when the Bears were gaining consistently on power plays and it was third down with two yards to go deep in Packer territory, Molesworth called for a forward pass which failed. His reason was that he figured the surprise element would make a pass effective.

Hundreds of requests for Ladies' day guest tickets have been received and the Bear management expects the entire allotment of 20,000 to be called for. Requests should be mailed to the Ladies' day ticket office, Wrigley field, and must contain stamped, self addressed envelopes. Two tickets will be mailed to each applicant over 16 years old.

The Bears will leave by train this morning for Cleveland, where tonight they will meet Benny Friedman's Brooklyn Dodgers in an exhibition charity game. They will return to Chicago immediately after the game. Three Cleveland charities will share the net receipts.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Without transfer of any players, the second period of the annual minor league draft, assigned to class A leagues, the Southern, Texas, and Western, passed today, John H. Farrell of the national association, announced. The class AA leagues also passed the draft opportunity last week.

Van Mungo Signs with Dodgers for Next Season

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Van Lingle Mungo, Brooklyn pitcher, has been signed for the 1933 season, Dodger officials announced today. Mungo is the second member of the club to sign. Lefty O'Doul, hard hitting outfielder, agreed to terms two weeks ago.

Major Leagues Add a Week to 1933 Schedule

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The baseball folks have decided that they are not going to get off the stage at an early date next fall just to give football its chance or to satisfy the few who believe an early closing lessens the chances of running into bad world series weather.

Opening and closing dates already have been set, as revealed yesterday by President William Harridge of the American league. The matter was discussed at last summer's meetings of the two majors, they agreeing to start the 1933 races on April 12 and conclude them on Oct. 1. This inaugural date falls on a Wednesday, whereas Tuesday has been the customary day for the ceremony. This closing extends the season by one week over the playing period which has prevailed in recent years. The world series probably will start Oct. 4. This fall the first game was staged Sept. 28.

Want More Open Dates.

The suggestion that the early closing be abolished originated with the National league owners, and the American bosses fell right into line. The magnates in the National have developed in the last couple of years a keen appetite for double headers, games being called on the slightest excuse, but nevertheless they have been irked a bit by the dearth of open dates in the original schedule.

Practically all the open dates have come at the end, giving the clubs which can't play Sunday ball at home a chance to catch up. The series of gaps toward the finish has resulted in a large number of double headers being shoved back into September, when double headers are almost necessary if any customers are to be attracted. With open dates spaced through the season they can, if necessary, be utilized for single games, and they'll draw because interest usually is keen before the pennant races become definitely settled. Too many double headers in the last month also put too much of a strain on teams having a pennant chance.

Trade Rumors Bring Denials.

Nothing except all around denials developed yesterday following announcement of the sensational four club National league trade arranged by the baseball writers. However, the report probably was based at least partly on fact.

The Giants are known to be anxious to peddle Freddy Lindstrom, but are placing too high a value on the veteran. His prospects are excellent for landing either in Boston or Cincinnati. They also will dispense with Catcher Hogan, now that they own Mancuso, the ex-Cardinal.

The Cubs' plans are being kept a secret, except that there has been an admission that some of the second raters will be cleaned out. These include Burleigh Grimes and Bob Smith. It is a pretty good bet that the Cubs will endeavor to get a left handed pitcher, possibly from St. Louis, and a hitting outfielder. The Reds may have to pass on slugging Babe Herman, who will ask more money than a club which had a losing season will be in a position to pay.

The American association will meet here next Saturday. The big topic due for discussion is a low salary limit.

VARSITY ELEVEN SWAMPS FROSH AT MARQUETTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18. — Marquette university will beat Boston college in their intersectional football game here Saturday if today's exploits of the Golden Avalanche regulars are any indication. The varsity got it first test against Boston college formations in a mimic battle with the freshmen and had no trouble rolling up a 26 to 0 decision.

Ernie Kukla, a replacement for Tommy Meagher at one of the ends, led a versatile attack against the frosh by scoring two touchdowns, one on an intercepted forward pass and the other on a nice catch of a throw from Capt. Gene Ronzani. The others were made by Capt. Ronzani and Wayland Becker. There also was a safety to mar the yearlings' performance.

Illinois River Locks No Danger to Duck Hunting

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois sportsmen who hunt ducks along the Illinois river have been worrying about what Uncle Sam's engineers might do to the water level of the stream by closing the new locks of the deep waterway project. It was feared that closing down the big gates in order to fill up the basins behind the locks would dry up hundreds of sloughs and marshes which are the natural feeding grounds of waterfowl now in the Illinois river valley.

Walter Peacock, president of the Horner Sportsmen's Conservation league, sounded a call to arms on this problem several days ago when he pointed out the harm the sport of duck hunting would suffer if the natural flow of the Illinois river was interrupted for any length of time. Inasmuch as the deep waterway project is not scheduled to open immediately, he asked that the authorities refrain from closing the big locks until after the end of the waterfowl season.

With the level of the Illinois river not nearly as high as sportsmen would like it, there is no doubt that interference with the normal flow of the stream for any length of time would have a serious effect on the waterfowl hunting grounds, representing an investment of many hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Illinois river valley is one of the most intensively cultivated waterfowl hunting areas in the country.

However, Col. D. R. Sultan, United States engineer of the first district, said yesterday that sportsmen need not worry about the Illinois river water level being seriously affected. It takes only a few hours to fill the pool behind a lock, he said, and then the same amount of water that has been flowing downstream will be passed through the locks, so that the river level will not vary greatly. Of course, the character of the Illinois above the locks will be greatly changed, once the pool is formed, since the winding stream will give way to a big lake.

Just what such a lake or pool, as, for example, the one which will be formed between Joliet and Dresden Heights, will do to the ducks and duck hunting is a subject for argument among sportsmen. We cite this particular pool, since we have hunted for years around Morris and there it will be possible for us to check up on the effect of a lock on waterfowl hunting. There are numerous prairie ponds in that territory, some of which have given us great shooting. The areas in which waterfowl might rest never have been too numerous. Therefore, many sportsmen take the stand that the big pool in the Illinois will provide a loafing spot for waterfowl and possibly hold birds in that country. This would be an advantage to hunters.

Two Victories Put Evanston on Title Trail

There is talk of a Suburban league football championship along the north shore. Evanston High school, now leading with two consecutive victories, has developed title aspirations following the defeat last week of Oak Park, the defending champion, at the hands of New Trier.

Evanston started its league season with a 12 to 0 victory over Morton. Last week, with Champion, star full back, scoring both touchdowns, Evanston whipped Proviso, 13 to 0. At the same time New Trier, which lost to Proviso, 7 to 6, in the first game of the season, defeated Oak Park, 13 to 3.

Evanston's leading ground gainers are Champion, Frank, quarter back; Cook, left half back, and Woods, right half back. Evanston will not play Saturday, having drawn a bye.

The St. Philip boxing team will meet Loyola academy Friday night at St. Philip gymnasium, 3151 West Jackson boulevard. The Loyola team is coached by Jerry Heffernan. Preliminaries for the City High School league senior swimming championships will be held at Austin on Dec. 3. The finals are scheduled at the University of Chicago Dec. 10. The junior meet will be held at Lincoln Turner hall on Nov. 17.

FRESHMEN SCORE ON IRISH WITH CARNEGIE PLAYS

Lukats and Melinkovich Star for Varsity.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Nick Lukats and George Melinkovich led the Notre Dame regulars today as they outscored the first freshman eleven in scrimmage. The frosh, using Carnegie Tech plays, scored on the varsity with forward passes.

Melinkovich scored two touchdowns with runs of 20 and 40 yards. Lukats broke away for several long gains.

Carnegie's running plays, as demonstrated by the freshmen, gained some ground, but failed to produce a long advance. Kurth and Krause, Notre Dame's giant tackles, piled up a number of the attempts to advance through the line. The same eleven that rolled up 28 points on Drake in less than a quarter comprised the first varsity.

OHIO DRILLS FOR PITT.

Columbus, O., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Preparations for the Pittsburgh game Saturday were begun in earnest by the Ohio State eleven today when the varsity and reserves met the frosh eleven in scrimmage.

Attempts were made by Coach Willaman to build up a better forward pass defense, especially against the Panther plays.

The Pitt formations are run off the double wing back setup, as are Ohio's, and plays of the double and triple pass variety, as worked by the Buckeye freshmen, were extremely effective today.

Previous to the scrimmage session a long drill was engaged in by the back field men in passing and kicking. Ohio and Pittsburgh have met twice before, the Panthers taking the first game at Pittsburgh in 1929 by a score of 18 to 2, with the Buckeyes winning the second in Columbus in 1930 16 to 7. Another scrimmage is scheduled for tomorrow.

She is asking for a decree on the charges her husband, Daniel, a county highway policeman, struck her with his fists last November and again in April.

Maj. McLaughlin Still Undecided on Hawks' Makeup

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, owner of the Blackhawk hockey club, returned from his first visit to the Hawks' training camp at Duluth in doubt as to just what the personnel of the team will be when it lines up against the Detroit Red Wings for the season's opening game at Detroit on Thursday, Nov. 10.

Coach Emil Iverson has allowed no scrimmage so far and has put his squad daily through a morning four hour practice consisting of skating, shooting, puck carrying, and passing. In the afternoons the team has been playing a soft ball game.

Maj. McLaughlin and Coach Iverson, both sticklers for early and gradual physical conditioning, are satisfied with the progress of the Hawks and are determined to have the Chicago team in the best shape possible for the strenuous 48 game season schedule. They have had a ten day training start over all other teams in the National Hockey league.

Physical condition at this time of the year, team spirit and morale are all that the most exacting could look for, McLaughlin said. The Hawks boss expects to make another trip to the Duluth camp before the season opens.

Stew Adams, left wing of the Hawks for the last three seasons, was sold outright to Bill Grant's Kansas City Pla-Mors of the American league.

Charlie Gardiner, star goalie and holder of the Vezina trophy, will start for camp today. Upon his arrival line formation practice for both the defense and forwards will start in earnest, with no one knowing just who will become a 1932-'33 regular.

Two exhibition games will be played with the Duluth Hornets of the American league Nov. 3 and 8, and with the St. Paul Saints of the same organization Nov. 7.

TWO TEAMS TIE FOR LEAD IN PING-PONG LOOP

Two teams, Hyde Park and Central Chicago, are tied for the lead in the newly organized Greater Chicago Ping-Pong league. Each team, composed of six players, has won one game while losing none. Wilmette, with one triumph and one defeat, is in third place, while the Interfraternity club and Jackson Park are tied for fourth with one loss each.

The league was formed at the suggestion of Robert E. Clark, president of the Western Ping-Pong association. The officers of the league are Mary Lindquist, president; D. A. Kittermaster, vice president, and Le Roy Harvey, secretary treasurer. The schedule will end on Jan. 5.

JOLIET TIES UP COMPLETION OF WATERWAY JOB

U. S. Work Done; State Bridges Face Delay.

Coincident with the announcement yesterday by army engineers that all federal work on the Illinois waterway is complete, the Joliet city council ordered action seeking an injunction to halt state work on two bridges, completion of which is essential to final operation of the waterway.

The city attorney was instructed to take action against the building of approaches to the Jefferson and Cass street bridges until the state agrees to build the sidewalks for the approaches at the same time the roadways are constructed. The state has refused to construct the walks until damage claims by the owners of adjoining property are settled.

Mayor Wants a Test.

Mayor William A. Hennessy of Joliet, in voting for the injunction action, said he was opposed to it, but hoped that it would clarify the situation.

"If the courts refuse the injunction, and I think they will," he said, "the property owners will be forced to take other action and leave the city out of it."

At present the city has an injunction which restrains the state from removing the temporary bridge at Van Buren street until the Cass and Jefferson street bridges are ready for use. Until the temporary bridge is removed retaining walls for the channel cannot be completed and the waterway flooded.

Bridges Only Obstacles.

Lieut. Col. Daniel I. Sultan, army engineer for this district, said yesterday that all five waterway locks have been operated within the last week and the dredging and dam building operations have been completed.

A number of bridges now being constructed or rebuilt by the state are the only obstacles to the operation of the waterway, Col. Sultan said. He added that in all probability the waterway would be opened in time to handle the spring shipping.

GUARD RESIDENCE OF MARION NIXON, SCREEN ACTRESS

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Following threats telephoned to the home of Ed Hillman of Chicago and Hollywood and his wife, Marion Nixon of the films, and a consultation with the Los Angeles district attorney's office, a day and night guard has been stationed about the Hillmans' home at 706 North Maple drive, Beverly Hills.

In an anonymous phone call Hillman and Miss Nixon were informed they had "pointed out the wrong man and you might get yourself bumped off."

Miss Nixon and Hillman recently identified Bryant Bevill, a California ex-convict, as the man who held them up in their Pullman compartment as their train for Chicago drew out of Los Angeles in May, 1930.

COUNT, DIVORCED BY A CHICAGO WOMAN, IS DEAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Count Pierre de Jumilhac died today at the age of 42, following a long illness. His marriage to Mrs. Constance Coolidge Atherton of Chicago in 1924 was dissolved by divorce in May, 1929. The count was widely known as a sportsman, polo player, and owner of a racing stable.

Count Pierre de Jumilhac in 1922 was charged with attacking Georges Anquetil, a journalist, who published an account of a card game in which it was said that the count had won thousands of francs from former Ambassador Hugh C. Wallace.

The count was entertained extensively in Chicago in 1925 shortly after his marriage to the divorced wife of Ray Atherton, who is now attached to the American embassy in London.

FIRST QUARTER DEFICIT OF U. S. 402 MILLION

Federal Expenses Continue High.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—Figures issued by the treasury today showing the classified receipts and expenditures of the federal government during July, August and September forecast another heavy deficit for the current fiscal year. Although treasury official refuse comment on the latest tax collection estimates for the year, unofficial estimates set the prospective deficit at between 500 million and a billion dollars with a possibility it may be larger.

The figures today showed that the deficit for the first quarter of the year is 402 million dollars, a rate which if kept up would send the treasury into the red to the tune of a billion 600 million dollars. The new income taxes coupled with high collections on miscellaneous taxes enacted in the new billion dollar tax bill last spring are counted on to hold this deficit down during the final months of the year.

Expenditures Heavy.

High federal expenditures for construction, relief work and the normal activities of the government is one of the principal factors in piling up a deficit during a year when the budget was supposed to have been nearly balanced through passage of the tax bill and certain federal economies. Failure of the new miscelaneous taxes to produce revenue up to expectations coupled with continued poor business conditions is another large contributing factor.

The deficit at the end of the last fiscal year was 2 billion 885 million dollars. The year before that it was 903 million dollars. Treasury experts estimated that unless a tax bill was passed and economies effected the deficit in 1933 would amount to 1 billion 735 million dollars. The billion dollar tax bill was passed, however, and economies effected which were estimated to save 150 million dollars. The two billion dollar emergency relief bill later added 322 millions to the load which the treasury had to carry in 1933.

Doubted Budget Balanced.

Treasury officials, at the close of congress in July, declined to state whether a balanced budget was possible. On the basis of their previous estimates and legislation passed by congress a deficit of several hundred million dollars seemed likely even if the tax bills produced according to schedule.

The treasury report today of the first quarter's receipts as well as the daily statement showing collections up to Oct. 15 of this month disclosed, however, that the tax bill is not producing revenue at anything like the rate expected. It was estimated that the new miscellaneous taxes would net 659 million dollars. This added to the 500 millions which the old miscellaneous taxes were expected to produce was estimated to bring the total to one billion 150 million dollars. It was estimated also that the boost to the income tax rates would bring the total income tax collections for 1933 to in excess of one billion 166 million dollars.

Total new and old miscellaneous tax collections for the first quarter were 170 million dollars. At the rate the collections for the year from this source would amount to but 680 million dollars, almost half a billion dollars below the estimates.

New Tax Collections Slow.

The collections on the new miscellaneous taxes began slow and treasury officials hold that collections up to date cannot be considered as truly representative of what these taxes will yield. Last month the miscellaneous tax receipts were $72,000,000 and for the first fifteen days of this month the collections from that source was $48,554,000. If these taxes held up at the rate they have been producing for the last month and a half the collections from miscellaneous taxes would run around 800 or 900 million dollars.

Special difficulty has been experienced in the collection of the tax on brewers' wort and grape concentrates. The gasoline tax has not been producing at the rate expected. In only a few cases are these special taxes producing, according to estimates.

Income tax collections for the balance of the calendar year have been about up to July expectations.

The total receipts for the first quarter of this fiscal year were 471 million 742 thousand dollars, as compared with 595 million for the corresponding period the year previous. Expenditures on general and special funds were 871 millions, compared with one billion 11 million dollars for the same period in 1931.

Taxes Send Landmarks to the Wreckers

BY AL CHASE.

Ever mounting taxes have forced several more Chicago landmarks into the hands of the wreckers, and pick and shovel are now clearing away nine old time structures on the west side that owners have found it cheaper to wreck than to operate. At the northwest corner of Washington boulevard and North Racine avenue seven ancient buildings are being torn down on property which has been in one family for three generations.

Austin Clement, grandfather of Austin Clement of Clement, Curtis & Co., La Salle street stock brokers, bought this corner just after the war. He also had the site of Orchestra hall in mind, at the time occupied by a livery stable, but decided that the Washington-Racine corner was the better purchase. This decision, naturally, is much regretted by the present generation of the Clement family.

Hope to Lose Less.

"At that time Washington boulevard in that neighborhood was one of the best residential districts in Chicago," said Austin Clement. "My grandfather paid more for that west side corner than we could sell it for today. With the outrageous and ever increasing taxes that we're inflicted with in Cook county we've been losing money right along on this property.

"Now we hope by wrecking the old buildings and perhaps leasing the corner for a gas station we'll lose a little less than we've been doing. The property is now owned by my father, Allen Clement, and my uncle, Arthur Clement. On part of the land is an old church which was remodeled years ago into a residential unit."

The property fronts 120 feet on Washington and is 175 feet deep. Seven buildings are being wrecked by the Salvage Lumber and Wrecking company. There were four houses and three apartment buildings on the corner.

Cheaper to Wreck Than Run.

A little west of the Clement property wreckers are busily pulling down buildings which occupied a hundred feet of frontage at 1337-41 West Washington boulevard. These old timers are the property of the American Paper Goods company, which has a modern building adjoining.

"Just another case of cheaper to wreck than run," said Edgar N. Whitaker, manager of the American Paper Goods company, western division. "Taxes are so high that we found we were losing money right along and decided it'd be advisable to tear them down. The Englewood Wrecking company is doing the job. We expect to clean up the ground when the wreckers leave and make it an attractive free parking space for our employes, who have about thirty cars."

BRITISH POUND SLIPS TO $3.41; SUPPORT FAILS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Sterling exchange experienced a precipitate drop today, along with weakness in leading continental currencies. The decline in the pound reached 3⅝c here to $3.41.

Various explanations for the drop were offered, but the most definite thing known was that the usual agencies which support sterling here, under Bank of England control, withdrew from the market.

Opening at $3.44⅝, sterling slid to $3.41 at the close of the market, with large offerings and a virtual lack of demand.

The decline started abroad before the opening here this morning and gained in depth as British and continental markets showed greater signs of weakness.

In some quarters it was said there was a good deal of British buying of securities in Wall street, but this was discounted, due to the lack of activity on the stock exchange.

The "bond crowd" believes Great Britain is accumulating American long term securities, which, under the terms of the debt funding agreement with Washington, they may use for repayment of December obligations here instead of gold.

Still another explanation—one which came from London—was that London was purchasing Australian and other international securities because of the high yields offered in terms of English money.

C. & O. REPORTS INCOME LITTLE UNDER LAST YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—The first trunk line to report for September, the Chesapeake and Ohio railway, showed yesterday a net income $172,000 below the total for September, 1931, which was one of the smallest, if not the smallest, declines of its kind reported by any railroad in recent months. The statement indicated also that the railroad would be one of the few to earn its dividend this year.

Net income for the nine months was $15,437,252, or $2.01 a share on the $25 par common stock, against $21,122,043, or $2.76 a share, in the same period last year. With an annual disbursement of $2.50 the Chesapeake and Ohio is the only railroad to have maintained its dividend unchanged through the depression.

The Union Pacific Railroad yesterday reported September net operating income of $3,266,184, compared with $3,918,331 in September, 1931. Gross operating income was $11,380,320, against $14,574,426 in September, 1931.

Continental Can Reports Improvement in Income

Continental Can company yesterday reported net income, after charges, of $4,470,850 for the twelve months ended Sept. 30, equal to $2.58 a common share. Net for the twelve months ended June 30 was $4,401,899, or $2.54 a share. The company estimated that earnings for the fiscal year terminating Dec. 31 would show "some further improvement."

KREUGER & TOLL RECEIVER SUES FOR $289,445,330

Charge International Match Got Assets.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—A claim of $289,445,330.79 was filed late today with Oscar W. Ehrhorn, federal referee in bankruptcy, against the International Match corporation by the law firm of Debevoise & Stevenson, representing Gordon Auchincloss, trustee in bankruptcy for Kreuger & Toll.

The petition states that the International Match corporation and its subsidiary companies entered into an agreement with Kreuger & Toll to obtain match concessions to manufacture matches and that the International failed to live up to the terms of the agreement.

Agreements Covered World.

These agreements, according to the petitioners, involved concessions in the following countries: Algeria, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, China, Colombia, Czechoslovakia, Free City of Danzig, Denmark, Ecuador, Esthonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Hungary, India, Italy, Japan, Jugoslavia, Latvia, Lithuania, Mexico, Norway, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Spain, Sweden and Turkey.

The trustee contends that Kreuger & Toll is entitled to profits derived from the operation of match concessions and monopolies in those countries.

Kreuger & Toll charges that the international appropriated to its own use certain stocks and bonds amounting in the aggregate to $50,000,000, and that these belonged to Kreuger & Toll.

Transferred $100,000,000.

The late Ivar Kreuger, president of the International and chairman of the board of Kreuger & Toll, "dominated, controlled and directed the affairs of Kreuger & Toll and its officers, directors, and employes," the petition states.

By reason of this, Kreuger, without compensation or consideration for Kreuger & Toll, transferred or caused to be transferred to the International Match company stocks, bonds and property values at about $100,000,000, the trustee charges.

The remainder of the $289,445,330.79 is demanded because of other transactions between the two companies.

BELIEVE CANADA BUYING WHEAT TO PEG PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Winnipeg, Man. Oct. 18.—The grain trade here believes that the government is pegging the price of wheat in the neighborhood of 48 cents a bushel but officials maintain steadfast silence. The rumors are neither confirmed nor denied in official quarters. The feeling in the trade is that the present price would not have been maintained unless the government had been buying.

Reports are that John J. McFarland, who is administering the old pool's carryover, is acting as agent for the government in its alleged attempt to stabilize wheat. It is unknown.

BELL SYSTEM TO SPEND $35,000,000 ON REPAIR WORK

Westinghouse Sees Turn for Better Made

While reporting a greater loss for its third quarter than in any period this year, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company yesterday stated that evidence is accumulating on every side of improvement in general business conditions.

In a statement to stockholders the company says, in part:

"From a careful analysis of the general business situation, the management has no hesitance in stating that the turn for the better has been made. The indications of better business have not yet translated themselves into the general uplift upon which increased activity of this company must depend, but we are definitely going toward better times rather than away from them. This, in itself, is encouraging."

Has $2,715,122 Loss.

The company's loss for the third quarter was $2,715,122, compared with a loss of $1,881,979 in the second quarter and $1,820,148 in the second quarter, reflecting the general low level of business in this country and abroad.

Although sharply reducing general expenses, including heavy salary cuts, the company explains that the general drop in business made it impossible to balance its income and outgo. The rate of incoming orders this year has fallen below any period in the last 12 years, the report says.

Balance Sheet Favorable.

The company's balance sheet as of Sept. 30, 1932, compares favorably with that at Dec. 31, 1931. Cash, including marketable securities at current values, on Sept. 30, 1932, totaled $30,784,779, compared with $31,828,054 on Dec. 31, 1931.

"Inventories at hand and outstanding receivables have been liquidated to the extent of $8,302,022," the report continues, "and stand at $57,978,126, which is in line with the present scale of operations. Total current assets, after payment of $2,472,109 in cash dividends during the period, totaled $88,762,906, with current liabilities of only $4,459,903, or a ratio of 19.9 to 1, compared with 13.8 to 1 at Dec. 31, 1931."

WIGGIN DENIES ROW IN CANADIAN PAPER PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National bank, who attended a conference of Canadian newsprint interests in Montreal last Friday, denied today it had resulted in a disagreement and finally broke up "with a decided air of tension," as reported in dispatches from Canada.

Canadian reports said a bitter price war had broken out among the leading units in the newsprint industry, featured by competition for contracts between the International Paper company and the so-called Canadian group of paper producers.

The Chase National bank is the International Paper company's banking affiliation, and Mr. Wiggin was understood to have gone to Canada to participate in conferences which have been under way there to solve the present troubles of the Canadian paper industry.

International is said to have been gaining new contracts recently at the expense of members of the so-called Canadian group, including Consolidated Paper, Price Brothers & Co., and the St. Lawrence corporation.

Shawinigan Water Power Cuts Common Dividend

Directors of Shawinigan Water and Power corporation declared two dividends on the common stock, one of 12 cents and the other of 13 cents, payable Nov. 15 and Feb. 15, respectively. In each of the two previous quarters the company paid a dividend of 25 cents on the common.

For the first nine months of the year the company reported profit of $2,438,069 after ordinary taxes and charges but before depreciation and income taxes, as against $3,557,669 in the same 1931 period.

COMPETITION LIKELY TO FORCE PRICE CUTS BY CIGARET MAKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Price reductions of standard brands of cigarets are impending for the early future, according to reports in circulation today in well informed circles.

The cause of such price reductions is not competition between the manufacturers of the standard brands, but the inroads cheaper cigarets have made of late and threaten to continue to make into the market.

Sales of the cheaper cigarets, known in some quarters as "depression cigarets," are understood on good authority to have been large of late and also to be growing substantially. They are carried widely by merchants of all classes throughout the country, including some of the very large chain stores in the grocery field, and hard times are said to have turned a good many former consumers of higher prices cigarets to these less well known brands.

OIL INDUSTRY HAILED LEADER OF RECOVERY

U. S. Board Reports to Hoover.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—"The American oil industry gives indications of being the first basic industry to emerge from the world depression," the federal oil conservation board reported to President Hoover today.

The board is composed of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, chairman; Secretary of War Hurley, Secretary of the Navy Adams, and Secretary of Commerce Chapin.

The permanency of the improvement in the industry, however, will depend, they declared, on whether the oil producing states continue the cooperation they manifested in the production agreement of 1931, and on whether the oil states' advisory committee develops as it should into a permanent body or lapses into the background as conditions improve.

Must Have Stabilization.

"Unless satisfactory machinery for stabilizing the production branch is adopted no improvement in refining and marketing practices will be wholly effective," the board stated. "But if constructive tendencies on the production side are made permanent, corresponding improvement in the other branches may be expected to follow."

In discussing the improved price situation the report noted:

"Crude oil prices at the end of the first half of 1932, although still at the border line of average production costs, were over twice the midcontinent levels of a year ago, and five times the 1931 lows. The total demand for crude oil has been sustained for the first half of 1932 above 89 per cent for the same 1929 period, and above 94 per cent of the 1931 figures. Estimates of crude oil demand for the latter half of 1932 have ranged around 86 per cent of that for the same 1929 period, and about 93 per cent of that for 1931.

Stocks Are Reduced.

"Efforts are under way to stabilize domestic crude oil production at about 2,000,000 barrels daily, which, if successful, will further strengthen the industry's condition. Total stocks have been slowly reduced about 11 per cent in two years.

"The Supreme court has sustained the validity of the California and Ok-

Peoples Gas' Earnings Cut by Rate Slash

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Along with their dividend checks stockholders of Peoples Gas Light and Coke company yesterday received copies of a letter signed by James Simpson, chairman.

One paragraph in particular was read with interest by many stockholders.

"Due to rate reductions," Mr. Simpson had written, "the company received approximately $1,400,000 less for the gas sold in the first nine months of 1932 than it would have received at the rates effective during the corresponding period in 1931."

Cuts Earnings $2.04 a Share.

Inasmuch as there are 686,492 shares of stock outstanding this contraction of earnings due to rate reductions would be equal to $2.04 per share for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1932. Per share earnings were $6.27.

The above figures apply only to the nine months period. The company's statisticians have estimated that earnings for the full year ended Dec. 31, 1931, will be decreased more than $2,000,000—or approximately $3.00 per share—by rate reductions put into effect this year.

Asked to amplify his remarks on this subject Mr. Simpson said yesterday that the loss in earnings resulting from rate reductions is being "substantially offset by opertaing economies."

Taxes Eat Savings.

"During the first nine months of 1932," he said, "economies were affected totaling $825,000, but an increase in taxes and in interest on funded debt absorbed $372,000 of that amount.

"This left $453,000 as the net result of economies effected, and it amounted to sixty-six cents a share on the capital stock in the hands of the public.

"This effort to produce further economies in operation will continue, and it may be pointed out that the effect of the reduction in salaries and wages of all officers and employes has figured as a saving only in two of the nine months covered by the figures contained in our latest report."

South Dakota to Cite Two Chicago Financial Firms

Pierre, S. D., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Two Chicago investment houses, Halsey, Stuart & Co. and S. W. Straus & Co., have been directed by the state securities commission to show cause Nov. 16 why their licenses to sell securities in South Dakota should not be cancelled. The action was taken, the commission's orders show, because officers of Halsey, Stuart & Co. have been indicted on charges of using the mails to defraud, and because S. W. Straus & Co. is in temporary receivership.

U.S. EXPORTS MAKE RECORD GAIN FOR YEAR

Imports Increase in Last Month Also.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—Export trade of the United States in September, due principally to exceptionally large shipments of cotton, increased over the value for the previous month by a margin of 23 million dollars—the largest monthly gain recorded so far this year, according to statistics issued today by the department of commerce.

Imports likewise showed an increase in September, as compared with August, the department stated, although it was less pronounced than the gain in export trade. During the month it was shown, imports increased by $7,900,000 to total 98 millions dollars, or the highest monthly import level since June.

Favorable Balance 34 Million.

Total exports, according to the department's figures, were valued at 132 million dollars in September, as compared with 109 millions in August, 106 millions in July, and 114 millions in June.

The United States during the month retained a favorable balance of trade amounting to 34 million dollars, the report showed. It was the largest favorable trade margin recorded in any month of this year, although both export and import levels in the early months of 1932 were considerably higher than in September. The balance of trade in September a year ago was $9,844,000.

Cotton Exports Grow.

Officials of the commerce department attributed the 23 million dollar gain in export values to shipments of cotton, which were stated to have greatly exceeded the seasonal movements to be expected in September. Exports of cotton during the month, it was pointed out, totaled $31,900,000, as compared with $9,800,000 in the preceding month—a gain of 22 million dollars.

As indicative of the more than seasonal nature of the increased cotton movement, officials pointed further to the fact that exports of cotton in September of last year, when the general level of foreign trade was considerably higher, totaled but $23,382,220. In quantity, cotton shipments during September amounted to 734 thousand bales, as compared with 221

New York, Oct. 18.—United States government obligations and New York city issues were joint features of strength in today's bond market.

In the treasury division both long term bonds and early maturing note certificate issues were strong, reflecting a continued trend of investment demand toward high grade securities. One factor behind the good showing of government securities was the general movement of foreign exchanges in favor of the dollar, presaging further gold imports and continued money market easiness.

Reach New Highs.

Two of the 3½ per cent government issues reached new high prices for the year, while two others duplicated their previous highs. The largest turnover, however, was in the 4s, the demand for this issue coinciding with the announcement of the success of the latest treasury bill issue. Banks and other institutions purchased this issue at an average discount of 0.14 per cent, a new record low rate on this type of treasury credit.

The sharp gains recorded in yesterday's late trading were extended by New York City bonds in response to the paring of $75,000,000 from the city's budget. Complementing this movement, Interboro Rapid Transit and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit moved ahead following reports that the contemplated solution of New York's financial dilemma may entail the end of the five cent fare.

Utilities Climb.

High grade public utility and railroad bonds moved fractionally higher.

Gains of one to two points were made in a long list of second grade and speculative bonds.

Other foreign bonds were quiet and little changed.

New Issue.

A new issue of $6,000,000 three year five per cent gold notes of Eastern Utilities Associates is being marketed today by an investment banking group consisting of Stone & Webster and Blodget, Inc., Eastabrook & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., and F. S. Moseley & Co.

Jewel Tea.

Please give me information on the status of the Jewel Tea company.—J. S. M.

Jewel Tea company distributes groceries by automobile trucks direct to consumers in 6,000 communities in 41 states. About 50 per cent of total dollar volume of sales is coffee, 7 per cent tea, 23 per cent other groceries, and 20 per cent miscellaneous items.

Early in 1932 the company acquired a chain of 81 grocery stores in Chicago to experiment with fixed retail outlets. About $1,400,000 will be used in their development. On Aug. 22, 1932, a press dispatch stated that their operations had not yet resulted in a profit.

Sales for the 36 weeks to Sept. 10, 1932, were $7,612,000, a 19.72 per cent decrease from sales of $9,482,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. For the 28 weeks to July 16, 1932, sales were $6,082,000 and net income was $559,000, or $2 per share. For the corresponding 1931 period sales were $7,610,000 and net income was $786,000, or $2.81 per share.

Weekly sales per unit in 1931 were $198, against $240 in 1930, and were the lowest since 1922. Total sales were $13,743,000 in 1931, against $15,522,000 in 1930 and $16,75.,000 in 1929. The decline was due to lower selling prices and increased competition of chain stores.

In 1931 profit margin was off only one per cent to ten per cent. Net income was $1,364,000, or $4.87 per share. This was after deductions of $29,000 inventory losses, $197,000 to adjust securities to market prices and $56,000 bad debts.

Net income for 1930 was $1,705,000, or $6.09 per share, against $1,691,000, or $6.04 per share for 1929. Net for 1928 was $1,531,000.

On July 16, 1932, current assets were $4,835,000 and current liabilities were $1,072,000. Cash assets alone were $2,215,000. Working capital was $3,762,000, against $4,111,000 the year before. The decline is due to the $1,000,000 expended in acquisition of retail stores.

Capitalization consists solely of 280,000 shares of no par common. The stock pays dividends of $1 a quarter.

On the board of directors are representatives of Lehman Brothers and Goldman, Sachs & Co.

The management has demonstrated its ability to control expenses in a time of decreased business. The experimental venture into the retail chain store field indicates a possible avenue of future growth.

The stock deserves a fairly good rating.

STERLING'S DROP CAUSES ANXIETY IN WHEAT MART

Price Movement Is Held in Narrow Range.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The grain markets appeared yesterday to be dominated more by professional operations in futures than by the news. Strength in stocks and cotton had only a minor effect on wheat, although the latter at one time was ¾c above Monday's finish. The bulge in the latter was regarded as due largely to buying by a local operator, and when the support was withdrawn the market reacted, with the close unchanged to ⅛c lower. December was 48⅛@48⅜c at the last with May, 53⅝@53¾c, and July, 55c. The close has shown little change for the last three days.

Uneasiness was created on the part of buyers of wheat by the pronounced weakness in sterling exchange, which dropped around 4¼c from Monday to a low of $4.40⅛ in New York. The trade regarded the decline as likely to interfere with export business in North American cash wheat, while the break in Canadian exchange to around 8½ per cent discount caused a widening in the Chicago-Winnipeg spread of equal to 1c per bu.

Peg Winnipeg May Wheat.

Wheat traders continue to keep close watch of developments in Winnipeg. According to reports from that market the support which is alleged to come from government sources had been transferred to the May future, which was taken freely at 54¼c. The December, which has been pegged at 30c, held at that price the greater part of the day and closed there, or the same as for the last four days.

The decline in sterling failed to have much effect on Liverpool, which was ⅝@¾c lower at the last, with December at 54⅝c, or 5⅜c over Chicago, compared with 6⅛c at the time the English market closed on Monday.

Some improvement in the foreign demand for North American cash wheat was shown in reports from the seaboard, but this was not reflected in large sales. Intimations of sales of hard winter at the Gulf were received, but the lack of offerings in that position tend to restrict business.

Corn in Narrow Range.

Less was heard regarding export demand for corn yesterday, although New York estimated around 80,000 bu had been sold abroad on Monday. Futures held within narrow limits but averaged lower and the close on all futures was the lowest so far, with net losses of ⅛@⅝c. No new low levels for the season, however, were witnessed. December was 25⅝@25¾c at the last, with May, 30½@30⅝c, and July, 32c.

Movement of new corn is increasing, with around 10 cars received here yesterday, and the grading was regarded as high for this season of the year. A car of sample grade old sold at 13c, or about sufficient to pay freight and other charges on the grain which was badly damaged.

There is a strong undercurrent of bullish sentiment apartment in some quarters.

Oats held within narrow limits and closed unchanged, with December at 15⅝@15⅝c, and May at 18¼c. Rye was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with December, 31¾c, and May, 35⅞c. Trade in both grains was light.

COTTON MAKES GAINS WITH FAIR BUYING ON

Attractive features in the cotton market, although not especially influential, induced sufficient buying toward the last to close the market around the best prices of the day with net gains on Chicago futures of 5 to 9 points, with the other markets up 2 to 8 points. Spot markets were stronger, with New York unchanged at 6.35c, New Orleans 10 points higher at 6.40c, Galveston at 6.20c, and Houston 6.15c. Liverpool closed 8 to 9 points net higher, and New York December dropped 7 points after the Liverpool finish was announced. Rain was reported over the eastern belt. Hedging pressure was moderate. Total stocks on shipboard at the leading ports of export were estimated at 127,518 bales against 152,136 bales last year. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 11,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 20,000.

The hog market gave ground slowly again yesterday. The general average cost sank to $3.50, the lowest since June 15. This mark is only 35c above the 36 year low and shows a loss of $1.50, compared with the high point 14 weeks ago. Although several rallies were attempted in the last three weeks, the tendency in the hog market has been lower much of the time. Prevailing quotations show losses of 70@85c, compared with the middle of last month.

Movement of supplies, until this week, were rather light. Yesterday's offerings, however, were among the largest for Tuesday in three months and this additional pressure took off mostly 5@10c yesterday, with some closing sales revealing 15@20c loss, the brunt of the decline in underweights.

Fancy 190@280 lb hogs topped the market at $3.80, while the majority of high quality summer and spring pigs averaging 150@250 lbs sold at $3.65@3.75. Big packers handled 6,700, mostly good to choice grades, at $3.65@3.75. A scattering of 50@80 lb roasting pigs sold at $4.00@4.15.

Cattle Market Declines.

Another influx of cattle from all parts of the corn belt and range contributed to the decline yesterday. The movement commences to resemble a liquidation. Sellers are sending out warnings that only a substantial decrease in supplies on the market can avert more serious price breaks than those already recorded. Trading reached a semi-demoralized state during the afternoon rounds and prospects of another big carryover made today's estimate of 11,000 cattle seem all the more formidable.

The rank and file of cattle sold at 25@50c reduction, some of the later transactions uncovering more than 50c loss in places. It was the most unsatisfactory market in many months. Prices show losses of mostly $1.00, compared with early last week, and are at the lowest level in almost three months. Prime 1,428 lb steers brought the top of $9.00, which is $1.35 under the season's high mark three weeks ago.

Lamb Market Dull.

Lambs sold on a dull trade yesterday, but prices held steady in face of discouraging reports from the wholesale market. Losses there brought dressed carcasses to the lowest point in many years, the price range being under last winter's low spot. Packing houses bought slaughter lambs slowly at $5.00@5.50, paying the outside figure for both natives and westerns. City butchers also handpicked a few natives at the top. Prices show a drop of 50@75c since the middle of last week and are 75c@$1.00 lower than early last month.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 11,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against 12,018 cattle, 17,335 hogs, and 9,210 sheep, the previous Wednesday, and 13,005 cattle, 23,898 hogs, and 31,259 sheep, a year ago.

BUTTER FUTURES HIGHER

Butter futures moved up ¾@1¼c on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday while egg futures closed ¼c lower. Butter statistical reports were much improved but only moderate support developed. A slight slackening in selling was noticeable also. The four markets reported over 200,000 lbs more butter out than last year and receipts here and in New York were lighter than last year. Egg news was rather mixed. Storage figures continued bearish but receipts were lighter. The four markets reported a cut of 15,000 cases in the shortage. Switching from October to November was active.

Sales: Butter, 30 cars; eggs, 184 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 5 cars. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was 1 point lower today with a sale confirmed of 24,500 bags of Cubans from store at 3.15c delivered. It was believed more store sugars could be had at this level but refiners showed no further interest. Following a further slight reaction in the spot market futures were easier, closing at net declines of 1@3 points. The market opened unchanged to 1 points lower under liquidation in December and commission house selling which seemed to be promoted by the decline in the spot market and uncertainty over developments in Cuba relative to the crop restriction plan.
